Detroit, Oct. 9.—Completing the spectacular saga of the Deans with a history-making climax, the great Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean pitched St. Louis to the baseball championship of the world today with a record shutout triumph, 11 to 0, as the Cardinal clotting crew slaughtered the pitching staff of the Detroit Tigers in as wild and riotous a finish as any World Series has ever witnessed.

The National League champions blasted the last defense of Mickey Cochrane's battered Bengals with a smashing seven-run attack in the third. They bombarded six pitchers all told for a total of 17 hits, while Dizzy Dean, turning in the fourth victory for his team and family, emerged from the seventh and final game with the most lopsided series shutout margin since Christy Mathewson blanked the Athletic 9 to 0 in 1905.

Bleacher Barrage. Before the clotting Cardinals dashed off the field with the final decision, four games to three, and their third world championship in nine years, they survived a riotous outburst by the left field bleacher fans, who let loose a barrage of missiles aimed at Joe (Ducky Wucky) Medwick. The demonstration interrupted the game for 17 minutes and subsided only after the St. Louis left fielder and clean-up clouter was removed from the game, mainly for safety's sake, by Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

Nothing Left. Disappointed home-town rooters, nearly 41,000 of whom gathered for the final game, had nothing much left to do but give vent to their feelings, vocally and otherwise, after the Cardinals had taken most of the fight out of the Tigers with that seven-run rally. All doubt about the outcome ended with that surge, led by the great Dizzy Dean himself with two hits before the side was retired, and the only question to be answered was whether the lanky Cardinal pitching ace would score a shutout.

During this wild and woolly inning, the Cardinals faced four Tiger flingers. They battered Elden Auker, the starting choice, as well as Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe and Elton (Chief) Hogsett out of the box before Slim Tramy Bridges, hero of the Tiger victory over Dizzy Dean in the fifth game, was summoned to stop the slaughter.

The National Leaguers capitalized seven base hits and two passes in the wildest World Series scoring spree since the 1929 Athletics came from behind to wipe out an eight-run deficit with a ten-run blast against the Chicago Cubs in the ninth inning. Thirteen batsmen stepped up to the plate and the bases were filled three times.

More than 1,200 growers of early Irish potatoes attended the recent meeting in Washington, Beaufort County, to urge an adjustment program for the crop.

Bilious Attacks

For bilious attacks due to constipation, thousands of men and women take Theodor's Black-Draught because it is purely vegetable and brings prompt, refreshing relief. "I have used Black-Draught," writes Mr. T. L. Austin, of McAdenville, N. C. "There is a package of it on my mantel now. I take it for biliousness. If I did not take it, the dullness and headache would put me out of business. It is the quickest medicine to relieve me that I know."

Young Yugoslav Ruler And French Statesman Murdered By Assassin

King Alexander And Veteran Louis Barthou Are Fatally Wounded By Yugoslav Gunman At Marseille

SLAYER KILLS THREE BEFORE ARMED POLICE END TRAGIC RAMPAGE

Marseille, France, Oct. 9.—King Alexander of Yugoslavia, dictator-ruler of the land where the World War spark first flamed 20 years ago, and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou, France's champion of peace, were shot to death by a Yugoslavian assassin five minutes after the king arrived here today.

From all the capitals of Europe came concern that the spectacular slaying would unsettle the balance of peace on the continent, although no immediate danger of war was foreseen.

To the Balkan throne in Alexander's stead will come the 11-year-old Crown Prince Peter, but upon a regency will rest the shaping of policies that may alter the makeup of the western world.

The bullets of the 35-year-old Croatian assassin, political enemy of the king's dictatorship, mowed down a policeman, gravely wounded a French general riding in the official automobile with the king and the foreign minister, and wounded 12 others before the slayer himself was killed.

Five women were among the slightly wounded.

The assassin, a native of Zagreb named Petrus Kalemán, was armed with one repeating pistol of sub-machine gun type, German make, and a small bomb which he had no chance to use.

Police said he probably came to Marseille especially for the purpose of assassinating his king.

He broke through police lines holding back huge crowds cheering the king, whose visit had been hailed as an event calculated to smooth the path of peace, and leaped to the running board of the royal machine.

He sprang across the body of a policeman whom he shot from out of his path. A spray of bullets came from his special gun containing twin rapid-fire charges of 10 bullets each.

Wild Scene.

In a wild scene, General Joseph George, of the French Superior War Council, was shot in the abdomen. He was pronounced in a grave condition in a Marseille hospital. Police Inspector Perrier, five other men, five women and a 14-year-old boy were struck by bullets. Later it was theorized some of the shots came from the weapons of the surprised police.

Out of the tumult police finally tore the slayer from the clutches of a mob whose cheers had suddenly turned to cries of anguish and fear. On Kalemán's left arm they found tattooed a death's head with crossbones underneath and the initials of the words "Liberty or Death." A Yugoslav journalist declared the design, which was enclosed in a tattooed wreath about three inches in diameter, was that of the Macedonian Communist, long known as disturbers of the peace in the Balkans.

Queen Marie of Yugoslavia, widow of the slain king, was en route by train from Belgrade, and was to have met Alexander at Marseille. As her train crossed France the news was broken to her. She was stricken by shock, and became so ill a physician had to be called. Her special train was due here at dawn.

Forty-six-year-old King Alexander was shot three times, slumping to the floor of the automobile. Bullets struck his liver, his left shoulder and his left lung. He died within an hour after the first shots rang out at 4:10 p. m.
