

HearD about TOWN

During the past week, two of the oldest and best known men in the County have passed away, these being Mr. J. W. Younger and Mr. Lewis H. Daniel. These men were representatives of two of the most outstanding families in the County, and their places will be hard to fill. They were not politicians in any sense, but they were men who always had the interest of their neighbor at heart, and somehow, we kinder feel that when old St. Peter heard their knock at the door that he opened it wide for their admittance.

Our postmaster, Dr. Tucker, and by the way, he is making a most acceptable postmaster, says he is going to keep the post office open for business all day on next Saturday, so that you will have no inconvenience in mailing your Christmas packages. However, he advises all to mail their packages just as early as possible and thus secure their safe arrival before Christmas morning. You know, a Christmas present received the day after Christmas never strikes you just exactly right, kinder have the feeling that it was a second thought.

That old saying "Every day will be Sunday by and by," does not half way appeal to the merchant like it would if every week was Christmas week—or the week before. Every store here has put on extra force to take care of your wants this week, and still, sometimes you have to wait some little bit before you can be waited on. But come on, they have just the things you are wanting, and they declare, and we believe it, that you can not buy the same goods anywhere for less. Any way, try them before running off and spending your money and helping to pay the tax of some neighboring city.

Semora News

Miss Olivia Gatewood of Purley, N. C., was the week-end guest of Miss Shirley Brooks.

Miss Anie May Burton, Milton, was a week-end guest of Miss Nan Owen.

Mrs. Edgar Morton spent Saturday in Danville doing Christmas shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Banks Satterfield and Mrs. Ella Y. McAden were Danville shoppers Saturday.

Mr. Dallas Flowers, age 75, who was for several years a resident of Semora, died at his home in Lawrenceville, Va., Thursday, Dec. 13, of pneumonia. He was a faithful employe of the Southern railway company, and had been connected with the company for years. He was a good christian gentleman, a devoted husband and father, loyal to his church, his friends, and his employes. He is survived by his wife, two daughters and three sons. His son, Mr. Bruce Flowers, is depot agent at Semora. Those from Semora attending his funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Flowers and children, Dorothy and Bruce, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Winstead, Mrs. E. Y. McAden and Mrs. W. L. Taylor.

Mr. Joe Pointer, of Elon College, is home for the Christmas holidays and has with him a school friend, Mr. T. Nelson.

Misses Merle and Nell Brooks, Nan and Dot Owen, Shirley Brooks, and her house guest, Miss Olivia Gatewood, attended the play at Roxboro High Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Allen and Mrs. T. M. Allen were in Danville Monday.

Mr. C. D. Allen visited his uncle, Mr. J. A. Kersey in Durham, Saturday.

Miss Blanche Owen, who is visiting relatives in Wytheville, Va., is expected home Wednesday.

CHRISTMAS PACKAGES
FEDERAL BUILDINGS
SCHOOL FLOOR COLLAPSES

The spirit of Christmas is in the air. Everybody is hustling around trying to do a week's work in one or two days; but everybody is smiling, because next Tuesday is the day of days, it is The Holiday Season of the year. There has been quite a myth built up around a stout old fellow with a jolly smile, who goes around the world on Christmas-Eve night distributing gifts and good cheer to all the folks. The same sort of myth has been built around the administration; the government, say a lot of people, can cure any of our national ills; march with Roosevelt to prosperity. We might re-name him "The Santa Claus of America," but he can succeed in doing his job only if he has cooperation from us. Santa Claus, we know, cannot possibly get all over the world in one night, even in this day of speed, nor can the president lead the march back to complete and sound recovery unless we fall in and do our share.

The North Carolina legislators and the School Commission are to be congratulated on their foresightedness when they insisted that the auditoriums in school buildings be on the first floor. This was emphasized last week when we read in the dailies a news story of the collapse of a school auditorium that was located on the second floor. This happened in a northern state and at the time the room was crowded with spectators and students there to witness the graduation exercises of the school. Many were injured in the collapse.

It has been the pleasure of the writer to be stopped on the street and have people tell him that they enjoy reading these weekly discussions. Thanks folks, it is appreciated. We have tried to make this an intelligent discussion on affairs that are of interest to all of us, whether they be state or national. But sometimes it behoves us to turn to things that are waiting to be done here in our own community. Congress meets now-soon. Many sections of the country are getting new federal buildings to house such things as the post-office. Why can't Roxboro get what she has never had, a Federal building? As long as we can remember the post-office here has been moved from place to place, so much so that one generation does not know whether to train the next generation to go to the same place for the mail or not. In most communities the post-office is the center of the town; the gathering place, but not so Roxboro. The location is not bad, nor is the building to be complained of, but it is beyond our powers of reasoning to see through the indifference with which we are passing up this opportunity to have a nice Federal building erected here in Roxboro. We do not mean to be greedy, but it is on such public works projects as these that the administration bases its hopes to point the way to recovery, and it would be our duty to call Frank Hancock's attention to this most obvious of needs right here in his own district, or if necessary we can appeal direct to the administration. Let's see what can be done.

LEWIS HEATH DANIEL

Born Feb. 9, 1850.
Died Dec. 14, 1934.

Son of George Heath Daniel and Mary A. Lunsford Daniel.

Married Sallie A. Barnett, who preceded him 18 years ago.

Children: Bessie Heath Daniel; Mrs. E. L. Cloyd, of State College Station, Raleigh.

Two grandchildren, E. L. Cloyd, Jr., and Anne Daniel Cloyd.

His oldest sister, Mrs. Paschall Lunsford, of Durham, died many years ago. Another sister, Mrs. Hugh Barnett, of Roxboro, died three years ago.

Ancestors among the very earliest settlers of Person County. They came to Jamestown, Va., in 1632, and migrated to Person County following the Jamestown rebellion. They first settled on Flat River, near the place where Barton's Mill now stands. In 1834 Lewis Heath Daniel, grandfather of Mr. Daniel, bought an old home between Flat River Church and Payne's Tavern. It was there that Mr. Daniel was born nearly eighty-five years ago; and it was there that he passed away, in the same room in which he was born.

In 1926 he suffered a stroke of paralysis, but rallied from that attack. Nearly six years ago, he was stricken again, and had been an invalid ever since.

Mr. Daniel had a very keen sense of humor and a wonderful memory. His greatest delight was to tell of "old times" to an interested audience. He and Mr. A. R. Foushee were always great friends, and they perhaps knew more of the unwritten history of Person County than any other men who ever lived here. Mr. Foushee published his "Reminiscences" and Mr. Daniel contributed a number of articles to The Courier and The Progressive Farmer under the title "I Remember."

The following lines are expressive of his quiet, peaceful philosophy:

"I do not know
Where falls the seed that I have tried to sow
With greatest care;
But I shall know
The meaning of each waiting hour
below,
Sometime, somewhere!
I do not look
Upon the present, nor in nature's books
To read my fate;
But I do look
For promised blessings in God's holy book,
And I can wait."—Contributed.

ABUSE OF X-RAY

The X-ray is one of our finest, most accurate, diagnostic instruments. Not only does it require a machine that is technically perfect—it must have an operator who knows anatomy and pathology, and who knows a good picture from a bad one, and what each light and shadow of the negative signifies.

Any organization, quack or otherwise, can now buy X-ray instruments. Manufacturers do not as a rule, inquire into the ethical character of cash customers. Most all charlatans advertise the X-ray as part of their equipment—operated by an expert who is connected with our staff of specialists.

In this way, thousands of victims are fleeced annually, out of various sums from $5 up, for X-ray pictures that are absolutely valueless, because taken by men who are not capable diagnosticians. Most of these fellows insist on keeping the X-ray pictures that are made in their dens; they do not want any critics to inspect their work, and the liability of damage suits makes them doubly cautious.

If you, dear reader, should be so situated that you need X-ray pictures for diagnosing your case, go to a real physician, who will not victimize you. You will be safer to stay away from the advertising quack who collects in advance, and, refuses to give you the developed film that you pay for.
