University Day.

Doubtless most of our readers know with what pleasure a University student looks forward each year to the 12th of October. This is for us a legal holiday. On this day the corner stone of our oldest building was laid, and the President of our University, Dr. Winston was born. Accordingly this day is a pleasure for faculty and students. The University foot ball team celebrated the day by overwhelmingly defeating the A. & M. College, an account of which, can be seen elsewhere in this paper. At night from 8:30 to 10:30 o'clock the President gave a reception, to which, all of the students, friends of the University, and visitors who happened to be in the village were cordially invited. The reception was given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Winston, and made specially enjoyable by the presence of the young ladies and the abundance of refreshments to which they were served. Professors and students met, not as in the daily routine of study, but to become more thoroughly acquainted and to enjoy for a while the company of each other. We feel assured that more pleasant relations have been established at least between some of the young men of the University and certain young ladies who were present on that occasion. Our thanks and best wishes are extended to Dr. and Mrs. Winston for their kindness and the enjoyment and pleasure which their reception afforded us.

University 44, A & M. O.

The first game of the season was played against the A. & M. team last Friday which was University Day. The weather was all that could be desired. The ball was put in play by a twenty yard kick. Graham fumbles but quickly regains it and rushed it for several yards. Denson then makes 15 yards around left end. Graham makes no gain and a kick is tried. Slocumb fumbles and Baskerville falls on the ball. Ball is then kicked for 35 yards and A. & M. then loses 3 yds. by a nice tackle by Collier, and Hughes kicks. Several rushes are made by the University and then there is another kick which is returned by A. & M. This is caught by Denson who makes a twenty-two yard run. After several rushes with little gain each, Moore carries it over the line and Graham misses the goal. Time 6 minutes. Score 4-0.

A. & M. kicks and ball is caught by Baskerville, who, blocked by Moore, makes a beautiful run of 30 yards. The ball is then advanced by Denson, Baskerville, Graham, Guion and Pugh, a few yards at a time and Denson, though falling scrambles over the line. Graham kicks goal. Time of play, 5 min 15 sec. Score, 10-0.

A. & M. again kicks and the University quickly scores a touch down by two very fine runs by Denson of 34 and 21 yards each, and a few other rushes with little gain. Baskerville kicks out and Slocumb catches. Graham kicks goal. Time, 4 min 15 sec. Score 10-0.

A. & M. has the ball and kicks off. It is caught by Graham, who does some good dodging, gaining 16 yards. Baskerville 2 over the center. Denson gains 15 and Slocumb fumbles, and Vicks of A. & M. gains the ball. By two very finely carried out tricks A. & M. gains 17 yards and then kicks. Time is called with the ball near the center of the field. Score 16-0. Time 20 min altogether.

Second half—Baskerville kicks and A. & M. secures the ball. They are quickly forced to kick and Denson then makes a run of 38 yards securing a touchdown. Graham kicks goal. Time 12-5. Score 22-0

As usual Hughes kicks for A. & M. and Graham gains 20 yards nicely blocked. Denson makes 13 yards and Graham 12 yards. A. & M. holds the University for four downs and gets the ball. A fumble and Pugh regains it. Graham secures a touchdown by a 38 yd run. Time 3 min 35 sec. Graham misses goal. Score 26-0.

Hughes kicks off and Baskerville makes good gain by fine diving. The best run for the next touchdown was also made by Baskerville, who gained 20 yards. Denson makes the touchdown. Graham kicks the goal. Time 6 min. Score 32-0.

A. & M. kicks off and Graham regains by a 25 yd run. Denson gains 12 yds. Slocumb is hurt but grittily plays on. Graham twists his knee and is obliged to leave the field. Stanley takes his place. Denson gains 27 yds. Pugh makes the touchdown. Time 4:30. Baskerville kicks goal. Score 38-0.

The next touchdown was gained in 3 min. Baskerville kicks goal. Score 44-0. Time was called with the ball in A. & M's territory.

Mr. Tom Alexander of A. & M. was referee; Mr. Stephens of the University umpired, and Prof. Ball of the University limesman. Attendance 300.

There was no unpleasantness of any kind during the game. No off-side playing or slugging, and although the score might seem to show something otherwise, the playing of the team was not what was expected. The A. & M. men have not had the practice, nor the advantage of a coach, and our fellows did not put as much enthusiasm in it as they might have done. They hit the line easy and the blocking on one end was not as good as on the other. The game has the advantage of showing the team their weak spots. We hope to meet our A. & M. friends again when they are in better trim and they will always find the University glad to welcome them to its field. The teams lined up as follows.

Stephen B. Weeks and his Work.

The work that Dr. Stephen B. Weeks has, for some time, been doing on the life of Willie P. Mangum, and the history of the Quakers in Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia will, before very long, be given to the public. Knowing Dr. Weeks to be careful and accurate as a student of history; and untiring in his efforts to make what he gives to the public thoroughly reliable, we unhesitatingly commend this book to all who may have any interest in the subjects of which they treat; or who may care for the history of North Carolina in general.

Dr. Weeks was graduated from this University in 1886; in 1888 he received the degree of Ph. D.; and later received the same degree from Johns Hopkins University. Since leaving that institution, he has devoted his entire time to teaching and studying history, paying especial attention to subjects relating to North Carolina. The titles of some of his publications are; "The Religious Development in the Province of North Carolina," "The Lost Colony of Roanoke," and "The Press of North Carolina in the Eighteenth Century."

WE HAVE a three-fold object in writing this article. First, we wish to call attention to what one of the University alumni is doing in the department of letters. Secondly, to suggest to the students some valuable books in North Carolina history. Thirdly, and this we wish to emphasize, to speak of the broad field that is open to North Carolina students in connection with their State's history. While there are a number of "Histories of North Carolina," of more or less value, the history of the State is yet to be written. It will be an undertaking of monumental dimensions; and, if it will be done it will be a monument to its author. The great trouble lies in the lack of material that can be reached. There is a great deal of it in the State; but it is hidden away in old attics and lumber rooms in the form of letters, Fourth of July orations, and manuscripts of various kinds and varying values. To take an interest in gathering up and preserving them, is something that every student who has access to them can do. Much valuable work can also be done by those who are prepared for it, in the way of working them up in the form of monographs, etc. No one man, however, industrious and scholarly he may be, is equal to the task of collecting and collating the great mass of material that is scattered over the State.

In this connection we can not refrain from saying a word about the carelessness in preserving valuable historical matter.

The writer of this article, a few years ago, wished to secure a certain book, a monograph on a subject in North Carolina history. Only a few copies had been printed, possibly two hundred. Months of diligent inquiry in the town where the author of the book lived, including his immediate family and relatives, failed to bring to light a single copy. This, too, when the book had been printed less than fifteen years before. Comment is unnecessary.
