Library Notes.

Students interested in the study of civilization will find the following books are of special interest:

Draper's Intellectual Development of Europe.

Lecky's History of European Morals.

Guizot's History of Civilization.

Buckle's History of Civilization

The City State of the Greeks and Romans, by Fowler.

Coulanges's Ancient City.

Sir Henry Maines' Village Communities.

Hegels' Philosophy of History.

Draper's Conflict between Religion and Science.

Compayres' History of Education.

Herbert Spencer's History of Institutions.

Clodd's Childhood of the World.

Powell's Philosophy of History.

Bryce's American Commonwealth.

The Four Civilizations of the World by Wycoff.

These books treat of the origin, growth and development of the chief civilizations of the world.

Since it has become a fad in the education of to-day not only to know a thing, but to know it better by knowing its origin and the different stages through which it has advanced, we know of no course better adapted to the needs and wants of students desiring a general knowledge of history than that offered by Prof. Alderman along this same line.

By tracing the origin and growth of ancient civilizations, the seasons of their decline, and the causes of the rise of modern civilization, we learn the great unity of history, and see the great connecting links that run through all the ages.

The course, it seems to us, is almost indispensable to a general understanding of history.

—Creekmore, Essayist,

A Wonderful Invention.

Zoology teaches us that the hairs of the head are hollow, and contain an oil that gives them life. In clipping the hair with scissors, this hollow is left open, and the hair loses its life-giving properties.

I have a Machine named the Singeing Machine, which removes the hair and at the same time closes up the hollow causing the hair to retain its life-giving properties, and therefore stopping the hair from falling out or dying and giving it a soft life growth.

Call and examine this machine and have your hair singed.

Special attention given to dressing Ladies hair. Cutting hair done with exquisite and artistic skill by the old University Barber of twenty years experience.

The Singeing Machine is highly recommended by scientists throughout the country.

Very respectfully,
T. D. DUNSTON,
Professor of Tonsorial Art.
