The Schubert Symphony Quartette

On Friday night, Nov. 16, the Schubert Symphony Quartette will give a concert in the Chapel for the benefit of the University Athletic Association. For several reasons they should be greeted by a large audience; chiefly, because their concert is of a high order; they come to us, while making the rounds of the large towns of the State, without any guarantee, at all; and because the Athletic Association is not only eminently worthy of, but is in actual need of, the support of the students. Let every body turn out.

The University of Virginia College Topics has the following to say about the troupe:

"The concert in the Public Hall, last Friday evening, was the occasion of quite a large outpouring of University society. The Schubert Symphony Quartette were on hand in force, and for two hours charmed the audience with their novel and pleasing music. A ladies' quartette is something quite out of the ordinary, and they were encored loudly at every appearance. Little Tommie was the favorite of the occasion, being repeatedly called back. In fact, the audience was so well pleased that toward the end the club was forced to refuse further encores on account of the lateness of the hour."

Alfred Williams & Co., of Raleigh, will send translations to any Latin, German, or Greek, texts, at publisher's prices, postpaid.

Under the new management of A. A. Kluttz, the Roberson Hotel is supplying good board at $11. per month.
