Posters are up announcing the lecture of Ex-Gov. "Bob" Taylor, of Tennessee, to be delivered in the University Chapel, Wednesday evening, May 22nd. Gov. Taylor's career in politics is somewhat unquiet. He was the democratic candidate for governor of his State while his brother was the republican candidate. "Bob" was the winner.

It would be an interesting subject to an evolutionist to trace back the origin of the species of animal that disgraced itself and the English Lecture room a day or two since. Nobody enjoys a bit of real humor and fun more than the gentleman whom this animal insulted with its disgusting handiwork. Some of these fine days the patience of the student body will become exhausted and somebody will be sent home to learn good manners and gentlemanly deportment.

The Lecture To-night.

Under the auspices of the Dialectic and Philanthropic Societies, Mr. Charles T. Sempers, of New York City, will lecture this evening in Gerrard Hall at eight o'clock on "University Settlements and their significance." The two societies have engaged Mr. Sempers, and together they pay his expenses, and offer this lecture to the public free of charge. Mr. Sempers, since his graduation at Harvard University, has devoted himself to life among the lowly of New York City. He will doubtless be able to bring to us much information about the lower classes of our large cities. It is hoped that all will attend and give him a large audience.

"Laurel Hill."

There is not a more interesting spot in the neighborhood of the University than "Laurel Hill." It is covered with rhododendron, and the interest is due not only to the fact that the plant and the blooms are, in themselves, beautiful, but also their rarity in this part of the state.

Just now, the place is a popular point for student excursions, and it is well worth the time and the walk. We hope we may be pardoned for giving a caution and offering a suggestion in this connection. Many who gather the rhododendron get it in unnecessarily large quantities, and are very reckless in their manner of getting it. The result can only be serious damage to the growing plant, and a hastening of the time when they will become extinct.

In gathering it, it should not be broken, but cut with a knife; and not more than one or two branches cut from one shrub. If this is wisely and carefully done, the result will be practically that of pruning, and the plants will not suffer.

Let us all unite and aid each other in preserving what, if we did not have, we would give a great deal to get.
