A Word to New Men.

The men who have come to us this year, after having left home for the first time, are face to face with the greatest crisis of their lives.

Heretofore they have been subject to their parents who have striven for their welfare and success and even now, in many cases, no doubt, are denying themselves in order to keep their sons in college.

But a great change has taken place in the new student's life and he is for the first time master of his own actions.

We do not claim to be old enough or wise enough to give you new men advice; but having passed through the various stages of college life and having come up through what you must inevitably meet, we feel that we are in a position to state the case to you, and allow you to make your own decision.

We are not over stating the case when we tell you that trials, troubles and pitfalls are ahead of you. Your manhood and character, developed through all the years that have passed, your religion, instilled into you by a Godly mother—all will be put to the severest test.

Men who are loose in life and conduct, men who indulge in drink and licentiousness, and even those who scoff at religion, will doubtless cross your pathway and you may think you must fall in line with these men in order to be popular.

This is the greatest error in a college boy's life, and if you value the experience of others you will shun all such characters as you would something that is dangerous and revolting. Ally yourselves with men of worth and character; identify yourselves with every enterprise for elevating our college life. Stand for manhood and character and live openly and uprightly and honestly before your fellows. You are doubtless ambitious and desire to make a reputation for scholarship. In this you may fail, but it is within the reach of every man to live a pure life; to refuse even to look upon anything that is base or little or mean: you can be men.

Resolutions of Respect.

Dialectic Hall,
Sept. 15, 1896.

Whereas, God in his every wise ordering of Divine Providence has removed from this life our friend and fellow member, John Carlton Eller, and

Whereas, we the members of the Dialectic Society desire to manifest the love and esteem and admiration in which we held him, be it

Resolved, That in his death at Berlin, Ashe county on July 4th 1896, this Society lost a most devoted, efficient and honored member and this University, among its younger alumni, one whose extraordinary scholarship, mental attainments and admirable traits of character gave promise of a useful and brilliant future,

Resolved, That his uniform kindness, gentleness yet manliness will be ever fresh in our memories, and that his life is worthy of our emulation,

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be inserted upon a page of the minutes dedicated to his memory and that a copy be sent to his bereaved family and for publication to the TAR HEEL, News & Observer and Charlotte Observer.

A Wonderful Invention

Zoology teaches that the hairs of the head are hollow, and contain an oil that gives them life. In clipping the hair with scissors, this hollow is left open, and the hair loses its life-giving properties.

I have a Machine named the Singing Machine, which removes the hair and at the same time closes up the hollow, causing the hair to retain its life-giving properties, and therefore stopping the hair from falling out or dying, and giving it a soft growth.

Call and examine this machine and have your hair singed.

Special attention given to dressing Ladies' hair. Cutting done with exquisite and artistic skill by the old University Barber of twenty years' experience.

The singing machine is highly recommended by scientists throughout the country. Very Respectfully,

T. D. DUNSTAN,
Professor of Tonsorial Art.
