

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Dr. Hume preached in Burlington on last Sunday.

Capt. Stanley will return to the Hill the latter part of this month.

Voice inside meat market: "Take some brains down to Dr. —'s."

Mr. G. B. Lockart has been confined to his room with a cold.

President Alderman has spent the greater part of the week in Raleigh.

The Y. M. C. A. monthly sermon will be preached in the Chapel to-morrow night.

Mr. R. D. W. Connor was the best debater in the Phi Society last Saturday night.

The class in Pedagogy regret that Mr. W. C. Smith will not continue the course this spring.

Politics during the past week has been at a white heat. Representatives will be elected to-night.

The Y. M. C. A. building is practically assured as the sum necessary to begin work is now in sight.

Prof. Cobb and Mr. Butler were both so unwell as to be confined to their rooms a part of last week.

Work is being commenced on the second issue of the University Record, which will appear in February.

The Power Company delivers about the same quantity of wood for $1.10 that previously cost $1.40.

The snow has enabled some of our enterprising men to sell off their antediluvian stock of rubber goods.

Mr. Graves, of the Glee and Mandolin Clubs, was unfortunate in losing his baggage on the recent holiday trip.

Huck Johnston and ex-Captain Frank Rogers claim to be the first base-ballists of the season. They were out Monday afternoon chasing the leather.

The inauguration of President Alderman will take place on the 27th of this month. Many notable people will be here, and the Senior Class will participate in the ceremonies.

Notwithstanding the general prevalence of pretty weather during the holidays, nearly all are suffering more or less with "bad colds." It seems something more than that caused by mere change in the weather; it is rather epidemic.

Mr. Winecoff's special sermon on last Sunday was proper enough, but the friends of Prof. Williams and his course have ample reason to be offended at the unfortunate wording of Mr. Winecoff's notice that was stuck all over college.

Mr. Barbee met with quite a serious accident the other day. He was endeavoring to manage a vicious cow, but the cow got the better of the struggle and threw our friend against a tree, injuring him right seriously.

Maj. Patterson was right badly hurt Wednesday. He started down the steps of the South Building while they were covered with snow, and one of his crutches slipped out and he fell to the ground, about our feet.

Mission Service at the Episcopal Church.

Beginning with Friday night, Jan. 15, the Reverend DeBerniere Waddell, of Miss., will conduct a mission service which will last until Sunday, Jan. 24. And on that day, the Bishop will be here on his regular visit.

Mr. Waddell is a North Carolinian; in fact, is a relative of Mrs. Graves and has spent four or five years in Chapel Hill. He removed to Mississippi some forty years ago where he has been a successful minister in the Episcopal church. Bishop Thompson says of him that he is the strongest man in his diocese. He is said to be a thinker and a man of originality. Mr. Winecoff hopes that much good may result from his ministry.

Services will be held each night and a morning service as well on Sundays. All are cordially invited to attend.

The Senior class at Lehigh will get out a class book this year. The book will contain photographs and reminiscences. With a class of sixty it is estimated that the cost will be about $9. each.

The Princeton Whist Club, composed of Princeton professors, has made application for admission into the American Whist League and will be represented at the next congress.

The faculty of Albion College have recently decided to give credit in literary work done on the Pled, the college paper. A step in the right direction. Our time next.
