A Wonderful Invention

Zoology teaches that the hairs of the head are hollow, and contain an oil that gives them life. In clipping the hair with scissors, this hollow is left open, and the hair loses its life-giving properties.

I have a Machine named the Singeing Machine, which removes the hair and at the same time closes up the hollow, causing the hair to retain its life-giving properties, and therefore stopping the hair from falling out or dying, and giving it a soft growth.

Call and examine this machine and have your hair singed.

Special attention given to dressing Ladies' hair. Cutting done with exquisite and artistic skill by the old University Barber of twenty years' experience.

The singing machine is highly recommended by scientists throughout the country.

Very Respectfully,
T. D. DUNSTAN,
Professor of Tonsorial Art.

ney hits to Mangum, who throws him out at first.

Score—Varsity, 7; Wake Forest 2.

Batteries—Mangum and Bailey; Williams and Gwaltney. Umpire, Mr. Upchurch. Scorer, Mr. T. N. Webb. Time of game 1 hour and 15 minutes. Game called for University team to catch their train.

The Bath Rooms.

Our lavatory arrangements have been inactive so long that we really fear their rusting away and getting beyond all future use. The works are very good indeed, and are valuable to the University in a way that nothing else to which she claims possession can be; but being made of rustable materials it is a question whether this process of destruction will not work its way before the ordinary channels of wear and tear get a fair chance.

We are aware of the fact that the water supply is limited, owing to the great number of uses to which it is put, and this alone forms a basis for the inactivity of the bath; but would it not be a good idea, at least once a week, to give this institution an opportunity to save itself from falling to pieces and necessitating a renewal of fixtures at some future date?

It seems that sacrifices in other places might be made in such a way as to bring this about, and should the proper authorities see fit to consider this matter, the athletic members of the University and the students generally would be greatly benefited and accommodated.

We hope that this will be one of the first things to receive the attention of those who have already added so much to the University.

B. L. Caps and Gowns.

The B. L. Law Class on Wednesday held a meeting and decided on the style cap and gown they will wear at Commencement. They adopt the same style cap and gown as those to be worn by the Seniors, excepting the cap tassel which is to be made up in the Law colors.
