An Unpleasant Feature.

The game with Lehigh on Saturday last was marred by continua objections to the decisions of the umpire.

There are undoubtedly occasions when protest against grossly unjust decision is justifiable. Bu such protest invariably creates a'dis agreeable impression upon the spectators and destroys in a great measure the interest in the game. It therefore should be viewed only in the light of a last resort and infrequent$1 y$ indulged in.

But on last Saturday constant and repeated kicking on the part of the visiting team was the order of the day. This together witk other unfortunate happenings conspired to make an extremely poor game.

- Field Day:

The announcement is made in another column that the morning of May 1st is set apart for Field Day athletics.
This is, we believe, the first in stitution of a Field Day at the University. Certain it is, at least, that no event of this kind has been held for a number of years past. It is, in that it adds interest to athletics. an innovation gladly welcomed. The evident interest aroused in this department by Mr. Mechling, the director of the gymnasium, is much to be commended.
The pleasure and excitement of the Field Day exercises might be increased by placing on the list of events a Relay Race between the four classes. And in the afternoon a ball game between a combination of Seniors and Freshmen and a similar coalition of Juniors and Sophomores might add an exciting rivalry. Field Day may and should be made an event on our calendar looked foward to with keen anticipation.

A Reported Change.

The undergraduate students of the University will undoubtedly hail with delight the current rumor that the opening date of the University will, at the next collegiate year, be changed from the 3rd or 4th of September, as heretofore, to the middle or latter part of the same month.
That it is a change for the better there can be little doubt. September is one of the hottest of our summer months and the prolonging the vacation a week or two cannot fail to meet with the approval of all.faculty members and instructors included.
The early date of beginning the vear's work has heretofore been conducive to little good. Many students have been inclined towards a late returning and those on time possessed of an extreme disinclination towards work of any kind. The change of date, if the report of its adoption is true, is a good thing. It has the Tar Heel's vigorous and unqualified support.

A Mistaken Notion.

The impression seems to be generally prevalent among several members of the Board of Editors of the Tar Heel, that their services were sought with the sole expectation that their names alone should add lustre to the editorial page.
It is our no slight endeavor to correct this exceedingly erroneous belief. And the brief apology that public attention should be called to domestic conditions in this manner is that it seems difficult to reach such members in any other way. The columns of the Tar Heel are full told eleven. To fill them is no slight task to fall to the lot of two or three of its editors.
Delinquent members of the staff should occasionally bethink themselves that they have assumed a duty, in part payment of a debt. which, as Lord Coke says of his profession, every student owes his University. The shirking its performance, once assumed, is more criminal than at, first thought might appear.

A Sad Story.

The several columns of the TAR Heel contaín today
a sorry tale of ruin and defeat.
Lehigh, Yale and Princeton, conspire to rob us of our laurels of ast year. Verily pride: goeth before a fall! So saith thẹ Preacher.
And still this in itself does not justify the harsh things said of our vanquished team. There is no clearer illustration of the fickleness of public favor than the reception of a home coming team. For the victorious, praise and adulation. For the defeated, dissatisfaction and faultfinding. One of many trials through which an unlucky team must pass as best it may.
There is scmething improper in the manifestation of a spirit of this sort. The term should receive encouragement at all times. No good ever yet came of damnation. And even in defeat we have athletics. As well as the hope of things to come.

THE FIRST LEHIGH GAME.

The first game with Lehigh re sulted in a tie, with the score of to 8, the game being called at the end of the sixth inning that both teams might catch the evening trair for Winston. While the game wa at times rather exciting on accoun of the closeness of the score, yet it was not very pleasant to the spec tators, on the whole, as there wa ar too much kicking, though ou Lehigh friends did the most- of it.
The 'Varsity played much bette ball than at the time of their exhi bition of a few days ago, and tha the game was not won was due rath er to lack of energy and vim on the part of our team, since Lehigh was handicapped by the accident which laid off their pitcher early in the game.

Bailey was again at his place be hind the bat, and did brilliant work "Fletch" is playing a fine game this year, and with enthusiasm and steadiness. Whitaker did splendid fielding for Carolina, and Winston played his general good all-around plame. The individual work of the game. The individual work of the Carman's catching was the fea ture of Lehigh's game.

Williams pitched for Carolina, and Senior, White and E, Grace for Lehigh. Senior wás taken sick while Lehigh was at the bat in the third inning, and was compelled to retire from the field.
Lehigh led off but was retired without scoring. In the second inning Carman made first on Belden's fumble of a grounder, stole serond went to third on a passed ball, and cored on Fugitt's fly tn Whitaker
In the third, E. Grace took a walk to first, stole second and scored on White's two-bagger to left field. Carman made a hit, scorin, White, and also scored on W. Grace hit to left field.
The Pennsylvanians failed to score in the fourth. In the fifth they scored four runs on five bases on balls and E. Graces hit to left field. This ended the scoring for Lehigli. as she was shut out in the sixth inning.
The 'Varsity did not score until the third inning, but then piled up six before they took the field again. Rogers was given a base on balls, stole second, and was sacrificed to third by Williams, scoring on Stanley's pretty hit to centre. Belden smashed a two-bagger in the same ton, and scoring Stanley and Winston, and then stole third. Bailey Belderscored Whitaker hit a two Belden scored. Waiker a two bagger to centre and Bailey scored. Johnson hit to centre and brought

Princeton Victorions.

The Princeton Tigers won Wednesday by a large majority. so happened that in the second ning they were assisted to six holy and unearned runs by timely errors on the part of Carolina. T game was lost upon that occasio Mangum was in his usual good shape and pitched well, giving the Princetonians only seven hits, wiile Altman, the well known Connect utt twirler, is charged with nine Manguin has done good work in th box throughout the whole seas and has invariably received abomrable support. That the game was ost to Princeton is no fault of his, The team pulled itself together after the second and played a tolerably fair game for the remaining seven innings, but the mischict had been done and it proved too late to mend. Captain Stanley saved the team from utter defeat by scoring the two runs with which Carolina is credited during the entire game. FIRST INNING.
