Inter-Society Debate.

two houses chosen in different ways. Unless chosen in different ways the upper house has no independent force. By the present method both the radical and conservative tendencies of the people are represented. The Legislature contains on a whole the best men the politics of the state produces, therefore, they are more fit to choose select men than the people are. Changing the mode of election would change the whole scheme of the constitution, substitute pluralities for majorities, transfer the political powers, now equally distributed throughout the state, to the centres of population, and absolve the larger states from their constitutional obligation not to deprive the smaller states of equal representation in the Senate. The imperfections of the present mode of election are in the people rather than in system, therefore, electing them by the people would not raise the Status of the senators.

Second speaker on the affirmative, Mr. Abbott.-

The present way of electing United States Senators is a remnant of Monarchy and fosters a Senatoral ring that always works to have its members reelected. It can only be broken by allowing the people to elect. Under the present system the Senator is not the state's representative from the fact that he really represents such a small percent of the voters. Gerrymandering thrives under the present system but could not exist under the proposed plan. By allowing the people to elect; local and National issues would be separated. Then instead of being confronted by the ridiculous fact of one man being the representative of two diametrically oppose issues we would have two candidates; one represented each. When the people elect we will hence is more truly Democratic and no longer have dead-locks with corruption and all the other evils that emanate from them. to elect Senators because they are capable to elect all state afficers and members of the other House of Congress. The duties of a Senator do not require the procession of greater and more varied abilities than those of the Lower House. Eminent critics think the people of other countries are competent to determine who shall represent them. The masses of the U.S. are admitted to be farther advanced in intellegence than those of any other country; therefore they should be allowed to say directly who shall represent them in the Senate.

Zoology teaches that the hairs of the head are hollow, and contain an oil that gives them life. In clipping the hair with scis-sors, this hollow is left open, and the hair loses its life-giving properties.

I have a Machine named the Singeing Machine, which removes the hair and at the same time closes up the hollow, causing the hair to retain its life-giving properties, and therefore stopping the hair from falling out or dying, and giving it a soft growth.

Call and examine this machine and have your hair singed.

Second on the negative, Mr. Johnston.-

He first received and examined the history of the Senate, showing that it had been the conservative, beneficent force in the Government, and that to it was mostly due the progress our Government had made. There can be no Liberty without restraint. The Senate is the power that prevents the people from degenerating not into Liberty but into License.

He then showed that its character was largely due to the mode of election, and that a change in this would necessary lead to a change Jewellers and Opticians, in the character of our Senators, at once detrimental to a stable Government and a continuous policy.

He then showed to what radicalism the other plan if adopted would lead. It would even subject our Judiciary to hasty unbridled impulsive action of unthoughtful people.

Then after constrasting the State Legislatures with the irresponsible delegates to the Nominating Convention, showing that it was much safer to entrust this important public duty to responsible representative men of our Legislatures. He ended by proving that after all the present plan does best and most truly represents the people, and American like.

The only reason why present plan is not perfect is because the The people are intelligent enough people are not. The other plan must lead to all kinds of confusion.
