Library.

The old students on their return to the University were very much surprised and gratified at the splendid improvements made in the appearance and usefulness of the library during their absence. This is an improvement that all have recognized as one that has been long needed, and the beautiful and artistic way in which it has been accomplished while at the same time doing great credit to Dr. Alexander and his assistants is also a compliment to the students. There in no part of a College or a University to which more interest is attached than to its library, and this is the paramount reason why it should always be made as beautiful as possible, the arrangement convenient and the library services the best to be had. All this has been secured. People now enter the front instead of the rear of the library. The tall colonades of the front entrance have been repainted and the whole entrance presents an imposing appearance.

Inside the library the work of the director was very thorough. By the new arrangement of alcoves and cases an entirely new appearance has been given to the interior. Among the changes made the following are among the most prominent; all government publications have been arranged by congresses in alcoves set up in that part of the library that used to be the old reading room. All North Carolina books have been collected into one case, thereby making reference to these a simple matter where formally it was a very complex one. New shelves have been placed in a good many of the alcoves. Unused duplicates have been stored in the basement under the library, thus giving much more room.

Elisha Mitchell scientific society exchanges, periodicals and books are placed in the gallery over the entrance.

The reading tables are now kept in the library. This is one of the best changes made and makes it possible to keep the papers in good order as well as in perfect safety. It does entirely away with the nocturnal visits that used to be made to the old reading room after which visits the best papers were not to be found again thus defeating the purpose for which they were placed in the reading room, i. e. the benefit of all.

Store room with shelves has been fitted up near the librarian's desk. The librarian does not now have to seek over the whole library to find space to store incoming books and other matter.

Attention is called to changes in the arrangement of books which may make it necessary to disregard the numbers in the card catalogue this will cause a good deal of inconvenience until the cards in the cabinet are changed. This should be done immediately.

All the works of fiction have been collected in the first three cases on the north side of the library and arranged alphabetically by authors, this is a great deal better than the formally mixed up condition of these books.

All biographies may now be found in cases 8 and 10 arranged alphabetically by subject.

Shakespeare's works and books relating to Shakespeare are in case 41 A—D.

Works by Latin authors are in case 33; those by Greek authors in case 39 A—J and books relating to these, such as commentaries, translations, etc., are arranged alphabetically by authors.

The floor has been covered with bright carpet matting and this adds a great deal to the comfort of those that read in the library since it muffles the foot steps of those that tramp about so much in the library.

All these improvements make our library a very attractive one, the students are proud of it, the alumni when they visit the University during the year and next Commencement will appreciate the improvements.

W. A. Sorrel has just received a nice lot of diamond rings.

A Wonderful Invention.

Zoology teaches that the hairs of the head are hollow, and contain an oil that gives them life. In clipping the hair with scissors, this hollow is left open, and the hair loses its life-giving properties.

I have a Machine named the Singeing Machine, which removes the hair and at the same time closes up the hollow, causing the hair to retain its life-giving properties, and therefore stopping the hair from falling out or dying, and giving it a soft growth.

Call and examine this machine and have your hair singed.

Special attention given to dressing Ladies' hair. Cutting done with exquisite and artistic skill by the old University Barber of twenty years' experience.

The singeing machine is highly recommended by scientists throughout the country.

Very Respectfully,
