A meeting of the University Trustees was held in the executive office at the Capitol on March 1st., Maj. John W. Graham presiding.

The following business was transacted:

President Alderman moved that the $10,000 gift made in 1891 by Col. J. S. Carr to the chair of History here be used in the erection of a dormitory. This amount was invested but fell below par and Col. Carr made good its deficiency by an additional gift of $5,000. This motion was carried and the board gave Col. Carr a rising vote of thanks. The building that is to be erected will be known as the "Carr Building."

Appropriations were granted to sustain the Summer School and to print historical documents, etc.

The new executive committee for the year is as follows: A. B. Andrews, R. H. Battle, J. S. Carr, J. W. Graham, T. S. Kenan, R. H. Lewis, Fred Phillips, F. H. Busbee and Z. V. Waltzer.

Ex-Chief Justice James E. Shepherd was then elected Professor of Law to succeed the late Dr. John Manning.

Dr. Alderman finally gave his 3rd. annual report to the board.

In this we see that the registration of students for '98-'99 with the Summer Schools to be 640. The senior class numbers 57 the largest senior class since 1858.

Nine women are students and all are graduates of high grade institutions, except one. Some ambiguity seems to be in the present clause of admitting women to the University and Dr. Alderman suggests that it be fixed so that women can enter in any department in which they have graduated at some high institution under such laws as the faculty may direct.

147 men have attended the professional schools being an increase of 7 over last year.

58 students have taken advantage of the Deem's Fund.

The Treasurer's statement shows that there is not enough money on hand to finish the alumni building, $16,000 is needed to enclose it and protect it from the weather.

Doctor Alderman's report as a whole showed the University to be in good condition and that every effort is being put forth to educate the youth of North Carolina.

Notice to Contributors.

Notice is here given to all those who have contributions for the Hellenian, sketches, poems, jokes, stories, statistics, organizations etc., etc., that this matter must be sent in at once.

It has now been decided who shall publish the '99 Hellenian and it is necessary that the copy be forwarded without delay. All the material which we have on hand will be sent off the last part of this week and we would have every thing together before that time.

The Shakespeare Club.

The regular monthly meeting of the Shakespeare Club was held last night at 7:40 in Gerrard Hall. Dr. Hume, its president, presided.

The first paper was one prepared by Miss Bessie Whitaker on Shakespeare's Treatment of Melancholy in "As You Like It" compared with its treatment by others; this paper was read by Dr. Hume. Miss Whitaker showed that melancholy was a part of the nature of Jaques and that he would be miserable without it. In fact, the whole melancholy of "As You Like It" is centered in that of Jaques. She called attention to the fact that Shakespeare is known to the world as being grave and genial; he could not have intended Jaques as a higher kind of character. She compared Milton's I Penseroso in which the author expresses his own character quite well in the poem.

The next paper was read by Mr. J. W. Canada on "Shakespeare and The Dark Lady." Dr. Hume in introducing him called attention to the fact that it is very difficult to get the real character of Shakespeare from his writings, and that almost all we do get in this way comes from his sonnets; hence research along this line is always important and interesting. Mr. Canada thought that in the sonnets we get an expression of the real feelings of Shakespeare. They were probably an expression of his feelings for a love of his at Court. Mary Fitten, maid-in-waiting to the queen, seems to have been his love. She had wit, fancy, ease and gayety; just the kind of woman to attract the nature of a great play-writer. During or just after the period of her influence Shakespeare wrote Anthony and Cleopatra. Both Anthony and Othello are of about the same age as Shakespeare at this time, and from this fact the writer thought that the great dramatist is drawing more or less from his own experience in treating them. Shakespeare is a master at giving an insight into woman's character and actions and he may have derived part of this knowledge from his relations with Mary Fitten.

The last paper of the evening was by Dr. Hume on "The English Novel and Its Relations to the Drama." He showed how such tales as those of Beowulf, Lancelot and others were handed down, combined with every day life, and very much influenced later literature. He spoke of Lily's influence on Shakespeare, and especially on "As you Like It." Green, Shakespeare's rival, also got suggestions from Lily. The great influence of Green, Sydney, Lodge, Lily and others upon Shakespeare's work was clearly shown; the influence of these same writers on later literature and authors, e. g. Fielding, was noticed. Early traces of Falstaff were shown to have existed in Nash, the man who pointed the way to the real novel which came later and has occupied so great a place in literature.

A Wonderful Invention.

Zoology teaches that the hairs of the head are hollow, and contain an oil that gives them life. In clipping the hair with scissors, this hollow is left open, and the hair loses its life-giving properties.

I have a Machine named the Singeing Machine, which removes the hair and at the same time closes up the hollow, causing the hair to retain its life-giving properties, and therefore stopping the hair from falling out or dying, and giving it a soft growth.

Call and examine this machine and have your hair singed.

Special attention given to dressing Ladies' hair. Cutting done with exquisite and artistic skill by the old University Barber of twenty years' experience.

The singeing machine is highly recommended by scientists throughout the country. Very Respectfully,

T. D. DUNSTAN

Professor of Tonsorial Art.
