First Meeting last Tuesday night. Interesting papers read.

The 123rd meeting of the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society and the first one of this collegiate year was held October 10, in Person Hall. Very instructive and entertaining papers were read by Drs. Wilson, Venable and Baskerville. Prof. Cain, the President, called the meeting to order and stated that the first paper would be by Dr. Wilson on "The Establishment and Work of the U. S. Fish Commission Laboratory at Beaufort."

Dr. Wilson stated that Beaufort was pretty well known to naturalists and that the fauna was a representative type of nearly all of the South Eastern Coast.

The Laboratory was established for the investigation of Fauna and Flora and was to be open four months each year, during the summer. A large building was rented and was well equipped. Boats, nets and dredges were furnished.

There were twelve naturalists there this summer, six from Johns Hopkins University, three from this Institution, one from Trinity, and one from an Ohio College.

Each had a special subject for investigation, such as "Embryology in certain species", "Sense organs of jelly fish," "Breeding of sponges," "Edible Fish", and others.

A Record book was kept of all discoveries and results of investigations and a good foundation has been laid for future work, which will continue next year, only the Laboratory will be equipped with better instruments.

The next paper was "Some Notes on Chemistry" by Dr. Venable, who began by saying that some great leaders of Science died this summer, two of whom were Sir Edward Franklin of England and Robert Bunsen of Germany. Both were great chemists and had done much for the science. Some elements were discovered by them and the study was made easier by inventions of theirs. Each had received many high honors and medals.

The next and last paper was read by Dr. Baskerville on "Notes of the 51st Annual Meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science," which was held in Columbus, Ohio and was attended by a large number of Scientific Men from all parts of the country.

He told the object of the Association and explained its internal workings.

The Association is divided into nine sections each studying some special subject, as Math., Geology, Physics, Chemistry, Biology, etc.

The chairman of each section is also a Vice-President of the general association. Dr. Venable was chairman of the Chemistry Department and therefore one of the Vice-Presidents of the body.

While out West, Dr. Baskerville took a trip to the gas wells and coal mines near Columbus. He explained the working of the electric process of mining coal. The next meeting of the body will be held in New York City, in June 1900.

Dr. Baskerville's paper closed the evening's programme, which was enjoyed by quite a number of the students and the meeting, was interesting and instructive.

Resolutions of Respect.

PHI HALL,
Oct. 7, 1899.

Whereas, God, in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to remove from life to eternity our fellow member, Capt. Calvin Barnes, be it

Resolved 1, That while bowing in humble submission to the Almighty Will, the Philanthropic Society mourns the loss and cherishes the memory of this our honored and faithful member.

Resolved 2, That the community in which he lived has lost one of its best and bravest citizens.

Resolved 3, That the Phi Society hereby tenders its warmest sympathy to the family of the deceased.

Resolved 4, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family; and that they be published in the TAR HEEL, University Magazine, and the Wilson papers.

The Literary Societies

The Di. Society received about fifteen new men Saturday night, and the Phi also received several accessions. Both Societies are in a flourishing condition. The Di discussed the question of Home Rule for Ireland. The debate was decided in the negative. Mr. Swift made the best speech. In the Phi the justice of the American cause in the war with Mexico was debated, and the decision rendered against us. Mr. Stern's speech was best.

Messrs. Swift and Williams were chosen by the Di, and Messrs. Avent and Stern by the Phi, as representatives in the Junior-Soph debate next month.
