The foot ball season of 1899 ended on Saturday last with the Sewanee game, which Carolina lost through no fault of hers. This game decided the Championship of the South which now belongs to Sewanee. The season just closed has been more than moderately successful despite the disadvantages and handicaps which have so seriously interfered with our success. Though our team began the year with brilliant prospects, everyone is familiar with the misfortunes which have constantly attended us in the shape of illness and injuries to the players at critical times and in the serious illness of our coach at the critical point of the season, and all should and do appreciate the strenuous labors of the members of the team, of Capt. Shull and of those members of the faculty who have given so much of their time and best efforts to stem the tide of misfortune. Nor can the work of coach Reynolds in the earlier part of the season and of Jayne in the last week be overlooked. Their task was more than ordinarily difficult and they will always command a large share of our esteem and regard.

And the work of the team itself deserves the highest commendation. The college knows that it is thro no fault of theirs that they do not wear the championship laurels. Their work has been of the highest class and under ordinary circumstances even the "hoodoo" which has hung over us this year would not have prevented a glorious close to a hard season's work. All honor to the team of '99.

So much for this year's team and its work. It may seem a far cry till Thanksgiving 1900 but the time will really be very short until Carolina shall again bear the proud title of Southern Champions.

With this issue the TAR HEEL suspends publication until after the Christmas holidays. As a majority of the editorial board have had but little editorial experience, the past few month's work has been largely experimental, but we trust that we have profited by the experience gained and hope to make use of that experience by an improvement in the matter and possibly in the arrangement of the TAR HEEL. What measure of success has been attained thus far has been due to the faithful work of the associate editors who have made the position of the editor-in-chief much more pleasant than it has been in former years.

Some Delicate Verse.

The brilliant little gem of poesy which follows was received through the mail a few days ago addressed to Messrs Magazine, Tar Heel & Co., Editorial Dept. Why the author of such a delicate creation of lightest fancy should conceal his or her identity under the nom de plume of "Kissey Lipscomb, Naughty One," we cannot imagine.

A SONG.

'Tis the kiss-time of the year,
And the mooning time of day;
Let us lengthen the love that is past
By kissing the hour away.
For what is love but a song,
To express with the lips as you will?
Come make us a merry hour then;
Tell hastening time be still?
So hush the voice of your heart and mine
Till the pressure of hearts give pain,
Shut your ears to the old bell's call
And let it ring in vain.
For one short hour be merry,
Since lips are more than life;
To-morrow brings exams,
And care and bootless strife.
Then crown my head with garlands,
And put your lips to mine,
And drink in all my beauty
While my eyes gaze in thine.
Then kiss and kiss and kiss me,
Forget that we e'er had strife!
And kiss and kiss and kiss me,
For that is all of life!

The November Magazine.

The November issue of the Magazine came out last week and is without a doubt the best issue ever published. It appears this year in an entirely new form. The new cover is very attractive indeed. The new management is indeed to be congratulated for their excellent work. The Editor-in-chief has also shown great taste in the selection of the articles for the first issue. If the following numbers prove to be in every way as excellent as this one, it will give the staff of next session a great deal of work to keep up the standard now set up.

The sketch "John Lucas" is an admirable piece of work. Being a picture of the life in a college town "befo de wah," it will be especially interesting to many of the alumni. We are glad to know that it is to be continued in the following issues and we will look forward to its appearance with great interest.

The article "On a New York Daily," by Mr. R. H. Graves, '97, is very interesting. It gives the inside workings of one of the great daily papers especially in the office of the city-editor.

The story by Mr. Watson, '99, though it has in it no movement whatever, gets one interested at the very start. The language used is especially fine towards the last of the story.

The song by X—is very good and many readers enjoy this light verse.

We are very glad to see that one fair co-ed has contributed a part to the Magazine and it is to be hoped that they will continue to do so. The Etching, by Miss Bynum, is above the average. The two characters in the story are brought out in an excellent way. Both of which are very natural.

Taken as a whole this number is very interesting and attractive and we doubt not that all its readers will be glad to see next issue.

Junior-Fresh Game.

The game deciding the class championship was played on the athletic field Monday afternoon. On account of the heavy rain which fell during the entire game, the crowd was very small and the playing of both teams lacked life and snap. But very little fumbling was done by either side although the ball was very slippery.

There was no extra good playing done by any of the men but for the Juniors, Hobbs, Ottinger and for the Freshmen, Holt and Berkley were the stars.

The game was called at 2.30 P. M., with Juniors defending west goal. Holt kicks off for the Freshmen, but the Juniors fail to bring it out very far. After a few rushes the ball goes to the Freshmen on downs.

Then with a series of short steady gains, in which there is more mud than ball playing, Holt is able to slide over the line for a touch down. Graves kicks goal.

Score—Fresh. 6. Juniors 0. Graham kicks off well for the Juniors and the runner is beautifully tackled by Gudger.

Freshmen backs and left end bring the ball to midfield, but are there forced to punt. Ottinger gets all but is downed before going more than five yards. The Juniors work the ball steadily down the field. But here time is called

Second Half.

Graham kicks off for the Juniors to Galloway, who fumbles, but recovers ball, losing 5 yds.. After working the ball almost out of their territory the Freshmen lose the ball on downs. The Juniors in their turn take it back towards the goal line, but the Fresh brace up and force a punt which they bring to midfield just as time is called.

Score—Fresh. 6. Juniors 0. This game gives the Freshmen the class championship, as they did not lose a game in their schedule this being only to play off the tie made in the first game with the Juniors.

Card from "The Constitution."

In the Constitution's account of the Georgia game a very much exaggerated and one-sided statement of an unfortunate occurrence was published. In justice to itself and to Mr. Koehler it has since published the following card.

The striking of McCutcheon of Georgia by Koehler of N. C. in the Thanksgiving game, while entirely outside the rules of the sport, seems to have been brought about not altogether without provocation. In tackling McCutcheon Koehler caused him to drop the ball. Not observing that his man no longer held the pigskin Koehler continued to grasp him. Believing that Koehler knew that he had lost the ball McCutcheon used his knee in Koehler's neck. This rough treatment brought the blow from Koehler. Both McCutcheon and Koehler feel that the affair had ameliorating circumstances and desire the full facts presented, as they entertain the kindest feeling each for the other.

Miss Eliza Murphy and G. W. Murphy of Atkinson, N. C. spent Thanksgiving on the Hill the guests of their brothers who are in college.

We regret very much that an accident prevented our publishing the account of Dr. Hume's lecture on the Bible in Relation to a Liberal Education. It was in Dr. Hume's usual scholarly style and was greatly enjoyed by all who heard it.
