Carolina Defeats

Auburn.

Varsity Wins the Second Game of Southern Trip by a Score of 15 to 0.

The second and final game of the Southern trip was won from Auburn Polytechnic Institute by the score of 15 to 0. The "Tar Heel" gives an account as reported by one who witnessed the game.

Auburn kicked off to the 25 yard line. Graves caught the ball and advanced it 10 yards. Berkeley made 3 on line play. In the next two plays signals were mixed but Carr never-the-less arose to the occasion and bravely attempted to carry the ball through, although it was intended for one of the other backs. However the 5 yards were not made and the ball went to Auburn on downs.

Auburn on her first attack, showed her style of play by starting her entire team before the ball was put in play and massing on tackle for 5 yards. Without further signal this series was operated and Auburn got as far as the 20 yard line and the ball went to Carolina on downs.

Carolina carried the ball, after several rushes, to her own 35 yard line and then went over on downs. However Carolina's stubborn defense again recovered the ball but a fumble occurred. Auburn carried it back 8 yards by mass plays but by nice defense Carolina recovered and again fumbled. Auburn was still unable to make much headway and ball went over to Varsity. Here Graves finally woke up and gave signal for a kick.

From that time on Carolina's goal was never in danger. Graves' kick brought the play to Auburn's end of the field. Carolina recovered the ball after Auburn's short kick and rushed to 15 yard line but was held for downs. Auburn kicks, Graves returns kick and ball goes over the line. Auburn brings out to 25 yard line and kicks to Graves who returns punt.

An Auburn back back punts it on side on her 10 yard line but fails to handle the ball cleanly and the ball bounds with some speed across the goal line where Cox falls on the ball and retains complete possession of it.

The umpire declares there was no offside play and it is a clear touch-down. The referee, however, declares, through gross ignorance or dishonesty, the play a touchback. A touchback can only be made when the side defending its goal has possession of the ball behind its own goal line whereas possession in this case was Carolina's. Score, 5 to 0.

After the kick out Carolina carried the ball back 10 yards and by a series of rushes and end plays brought the ball to Auburn's 20 yard line. Graves drops back and scores a goal from the field. Score 10 to 0.

During the second half Carolina's goal was no time in danger and nearly the entire half was played around the Auburn goal—the ball frequently changing hands on fumbles—according to the referee. Carolina finding it difficult to carry the ball over once more drops back for a field goal and Graves adds five more points to the score. Score, 15 to 0.

The Auburn men played a hard, fast and fairly clean game beyond some unnecessary piling up and were undoubtedly trying to retrieve their lost reputation in the matter of rough football.

Carolina was much dissatisfied with the referee and many times the ball was given to Auburn without the slightest excuse.

The Auburn team has apparently improved in the matter of clean football for during the entire game only a few times did they attempt to put Carolina's players out of the game. However the courtesy extended by the spectators was hardly such as to be an alluring invitation to future contests. It was a long ways to go to get such treatment.

Dr. Hume at Charlotte.

We clip the following, headed, "Woman, Poet, Prophet", from the Charlotte Observer of November 5th:—

"A large audience greeted Dr. Thomas Hume last night at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium to hear his lecture on "Woman, Poet, Prophet". Hugh W. Harris, Esq., introduced the speaker, referring in a very cordial manner to him and his work.

"The subject of the lecture was Mrs. Browning and her writings. Dr. Hume gave a very entertaining and instructive sketch of her life and study of her literary work.

"Her girlhood days, the accident which crippled her for life, the suffering which spiritualized her character and over which her indomitable spirit triumphed; her studies in literature and art, the courtship of Browning, the health which came with love, the elopement and the events of her after life, were presented in a very pleasing way.

"The influence of her writings was brought out and also the wisdom displayed in them."

Rev. J. B. Dunn's Sermon.

Rev. J. B. Dunn, of Suffolk, Va., preached the second one of the University sermons, in the Chapel Sunday evening, Nov. 10. His sermon was scholarly and delivered in a forcible way.

President Venable left Nov. 5th for Sewanee, Tennessee, to attend a meeting of The Association Southern Colleges. The Association will be in session from the 6th to the 8th instant and will be a meeting representative of most of the colleges of the South.

Mrs. Chas. Baskerville went to Raleigh Wednesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Bovlan.

IN MEMORIAM

Eugene L. Harris.

In the death of Mr. Eugene L. Harris the University has lost a loyal alumnus and a faithful officer. Just before dawn Monday, the 11th inst., at his home in this place "God's finger touched him while he slept" and he passed into the cloudless day out of the weakness and pain with which he had long heroically struggled.

Born in Granville County, N. C., March the 12th., 1856, he was a little over forty-five years old. He graduated from the University in 1881 and the year following married Miss Lena Foust. His first work for which he had marked aptitude was a part, but he resigned it on account of his health to undertake the general secretaryship of the Young Men's Christian Association for which he was fitted by his special study of Association methods, his unfeigned piety and his earnest interest in the religious welfare of young men. The duties of a town secretary are exacting and often demanded continuous attention into the late hours of the night, and after most valuable service in Winston, Salem, Raleigh and the far South his failing strength compelled him to retire from this congenial office.

As a student with a group of choice spirits he had organized here and sustained this Association work so peculiarly adapted to a non-denominational State institution, he was an efficient member of the State Executive Committee and a directive force in the councils and Bible classes of the local University Association. His deep spiritual experience, his godly example and his intimate knowledge of the Scriptures gave peculiar weight to his private and public instructions. As an official of the Presbyterian Church the hearts of his pastor and his brethren safely trusted him and the affairs of the church felt the influence of his consecrated zeal and useful methods. In 1894 he was appointed Registrar of the University and successive administrations have had reason to be grateful for his constant quiet faithfulness amidst the countless details of his office. His has been a marvelous exhibition of devotion to duty under the assaults of disease. Within less than ten days before his death he was at his desk doing what lay nearest to his hand. In his home he was the model husband, the inspiring companion of his children, the patient unmurmuring sufferer. Faith in God was the wellspring of an abiding peace in his simple and true cause. "He was a good man and full of the Holy Ghost." His devoted wife and two daughters have a sacred memory and a blessed hope. To them, to the aged mother, the two brothers, Dr. Frank Harris of Henderson and Mr. T. C. Harris of Baltimore and the sister, many friends everywhere give sincere sympathy. His funeral took place at 12 o'clock

Tuesday, in the Presbyterian Church, the pastor Rev. D. J. Currie officiating, assisted by Dr. Hume. T. H.

Y. M. C. A. Meetings.

The interest as well as the attendance of the weekly meetings of the Y. M. C. A., held every Tuesday night, has been much greater so far this year than last. The leaders, most of whom are students, have given considerable thought and preparation to the subjects on which they have spoken. The result of this has been that these subjects were treated in an interesting and thoughtful way.

Between now and Christmas, the following will conduct these Tuesday night meetings:—Dr. Thomas Hume, Nov. 19; Mr. J. A. McRae, Nov. 26; Prof. C. L. Raper, Dec. 3; Mr. R. C. Holton, Dec. 10; Mr. C. A. Bynum, Dec. 17.

Every student, especially every member of the Y. M. C. A., should try to attend these meetings. It will not take much of his time,—only from a half to three-quarters of an hour once a week. These talks which are being made every Tuesday night are worth listening to. They are of such a character that they will help those who come out to hear them.

These meetings instead of being held at 7:30 o'clock are now held at 7. The bell rings twice for the meeting—at fifteen minutes before 7 and at 7. Every one should try to come promptly on time.

Communication.

As the time for the Virginia game approaches we are led to wonder how many of our students will attend the game in Norfolk. We understand that exceedingly low rates have been secured from Charlottesville to Norfolk and return, and that a delegation of over two hundred students will take advantage of these.

Why cannot something similar be done here? If some one with a sufficient amount of push would only start to work immediately he could in all probability sell enough tickets to secure a special train and very low rates.

This would not only enable many of our students to see the game and help to cheer our team, but would in all probability be a financial success for the promoter.
