All communications for this paper should be in the hands of the Editor-in-Chief, by Monday at noon to insure publication the same week. We shall be glad to publish pertinent discussions of college topics. The Tar Heel will welcome news items, and hopes the whole college will aid it along this line.

We are glad to have on our editorial table the first number of the North Carolina Journal of Law and we peruse its pages with the greatest interest. Its appearance and contents speak well for the future welfare of the magazine. A better fitted and more scholarly editor than Judge Jas. C. Mac Rae, of the University Law School, could not have been obtained and we have small doubt that under his able direction the Journal will soon become indispensable to members of the North Carolina Bar. The business manager is Jas. C. MacRae, Jr., and the committee from the State Bar Association is composed of Messrs. C. W. Tillett, E. W. Timberlake and J. Crawford Biggs.

The Journal contains forty-eight readable pages and is attractively bound and printed. It is filled with matter interesting to the layman as well as to the practicing lawyer. We wish for it a successful career.

The University Record, containing the Report of the President, is out and contains much interesting reading. The Unification of the Degree, Preparation for the University, and the Report of the Committee on Self Help are especially interesting sections. 107 men, or about 18 per cent. of the total number of students of the University, work during the college session in order to pay a part or all of their expenses. At Yale last year, only 156 men were reported, including those who worked during vacations. And it is greatly to the credit of the University "that no form of honorable labor injures a student's standing among his fellows here." We all know this to be a fact and it speaks well for the University spirit.

It should be gratifying to all that we are to have another Yackety Yack this year. There has been so much misunderstanding and so many financial difficulties in the getting out of the annual heretofore that considerable opposition grew up against the publication of a new one; but an agreement was finally reached, stipulations drawn up, nearly $200 subscribed, and things gotten under way. Let us all leave out factional spirit and misunderstandings and help to make The Yackety Yack the best we have ever had.

A week or two ago we attempted a little original stuff under the heading, "Quips on a Modern Novel." Our old friend, The Red and Black, of Georgia, takes several squibs out and credits them to "Ex." The "bitter smile" of the heroine is reprinted: "The batter of the heroine has been diluted with water and sugar added until it is now quite pleasant to the taste." Wonder what sort of a pie that would make.
