PITTSBURG VS DETROIT

UNIVERSITY CELEBRITIES IN MOST REMARKABLE GAME

Umpire Garrett's work a decided feature. Much pitching and batting

Olympus was depopulated Saturday and the Mighty Ones devoted a whole afternoon to the mundane game of baseball. A mighty struggle they had and they dubbed it "Pittsburg-Detroit" just to show what a world's championship game will be when evolution has completed its task of perfecting mankind. Each player was compelled to give evidence of his celestial origin by offering an affidavit that he had never played a game of baseball. Every member of the Divine Gang pitched one inning, while masses of onlookers, mere heroes and demi-gods, thronged the sidelines and rooted like h— (heaven of course) for the objects of their adoration and emulation. Mercury, smuggled in under the very effective disguise of Handsome Eason the Younger, did the bat-slinging stunt except for the brief period consequent upon Stacy's withdrawal from the box, when Edmonds arose to a wrathful point of order and it seemed as if eighteen players would appropriate Eason's job. At other times the best of good feeling was evinced; in one inning, even, Apollo alias G. T. Whitley was seen to shed a tear when he struck out his beloved Cupid whose playing nomme de guerre was Pug Taylor. The game was exciting throughout. Dickson secured a home run on a beautifully

REVENGE ON GUILFORD

CAROLINA BATS OUT A VICTORY AT THE BASEBALL PARK IN DURHAM

Bivins and Williams and Cowper particular stars while whole team shines

Sweet revenge did Carolina take in Durham Saturday for her defeat at Guilford's hands here Friday.

On the local diamond until the sixth only one measly hit could she secure, but at the new park in Durham she placed clean hits in every portion of the field. Chief among the hit-getters was Bivens. Three clean hits came off his bat. His base running was rapid and his fielding without blemish. Many account him Saturday's star. Though the chances were many and hard "Ham" got them all. His batting eye was there too, for besides walking three times he lined a single over third in the second inning and scored Cowper. Besides getting two hits, "Fleet" Williams did some great fielding at short. In the box Grimes Cowper more than made good. In eight innings he held the Guilford sluggers to four hits and fanned ten of them. His hitting was fierce. Errors behind him were costly, and better support would have meant much fewer runs for Guilford. Tom Rose in right field played splendid ball. In the fourth his catch of Moore's difficult fly won applause. In the ninth with one down and a man on second Doak hit a long fly to his field. In his attempt to reach the ball Rose fell flat, but by a quick rise recovered the put-out. He secured a pretty single in the eighth. Buie and Armstrong each secured one hit. Hackney hit the ball terrifically, but each time placed it in a fielder's hands. The team on the whole played ball and is coming to its own again.

The game in detail:

Rumor has it that Captain R. W. Hogue of the Ministerial Club, an extirpator of the University of the South, has challenged W. R. Edmonds, Captain of the Pittsburg Pirates, of last week's fame, for a game of ball to be played on Saturday afternoon next. As to the personnel of the Ministerial Club team only a conjecture can be made, as there are twenty-two aspirants for athletic honors in that organization.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT BEGINS

NUMBER OF CONTESTANTS TO BE OVER A HUNDRED

Excellent list of prizes to spur on the settling of singles championship honors

Despite the threatening gloom of the weather the placard containing the arrangement of the contestants for the singles tennis championship of the University was placed in the athletic store window Saturday night with a view that the men might know with whom to play in the beginning round to be completed next week. Bad weather during the early part of the week prevented play, but it is hoped that ere the week closes the tournament will be on in full swing.

Many who are supposedly members of the association will notice that their names are not written there. Only those men are on the placard who have paid the association's membership fee. Other names will be put on as the fellows pay up. After the second round no names will be added. Seventy-four paid-up members have enlisted so far. The number will easily pass one hundred. All students interested in the game should join in this, the largest tournament ever held for college championship here. See, J. W. Lasley Jr., or S. R. Carrington and pay your membership fees of $1.50.

The champion of this tournament will receive as his reward in addition to the title the best racquet on the market. The finalist, the semi-finalists and all members of the third round from the last will receive valuable prizes, ranging from four dollars in value down to about two.
