CAROLINA PUTS ONE OVER ON W. F.

General Twirls in Mid-Season Form. Holds the Baptists to One Hit

Swink, Edwards, and Irby Lead in Batting. Bailey Covers a Lot of Ground Around Second. Wake Forest Outlashed in Batting and Fielding.

Carolina defeated Wake Forest College 6 to 1 here this afternoon in a game that was interesting despite the onesidedness which the score assumed. Lee held the Baptists almost hitless, while four singles and a like number of bunched in three innings gave Carolina four runs. The other two were secured in the sixth on a couple of passes to Whittaker and Lee, two errors, made by Billings on one play, and a single by Irby. Lee came within an ace of repeating the feat he performed here last year, of beating Wake Forest without a hit, holding them hitless until the seventh inning, when Beam placed a neat single back of first. Swink, with two doubles and a single and Edwards with a single and two-sacker, both of which counted in the run-making, led the hitting. Irby also hit and fielded well. Utey, of Wake Forest, played a clean first, and Bailey of Carolina, covered a lot of ground around second. Irby started the ball for Carolina in the first round, with single through short, which Swink followed with his first double. With two gone in the fifth, Hanes doubled to centre and Edwards placed a drive to right that should have been good for three bags. Irby followed with a single which proved the last of Underwood. With Smith on the mound, Swink also singled but Page forced him. Whittaker and Lee walked in the sixth. Hanes hit to Billings, who fumbled and then threw wild to third, allowing Hanes to reach second and Whittaker to score. Edwards hit scored Lee. In the seventh Swink placed his second long double to left, which followed by Page's sacrifice and Young's single added one more to Carolina's tally.

The Observer this afternoon says: "It is astonishing to see the crowds who came in on the trains this morning to witness the baseball game and take in 'Buster Brown' at LaFayette Theatre. We verily believe that if the roads had been passable for automobiles a record breaking crowd would have visited Fayetteville today."

SENIOR HATS GO DOWN

Brainy Men of 1912 No Match for the All-Round Playing Ability of the Gentle Sophomore

The seniors started off well, scoring in the first inning. Confidently they scampered to their positions and promptly shut out the sophs. But the sophs, with the reputation of having shot up the town in western style, were nothing daunted by a bunch of seniors all of whom were not even clad in baseball suits. They showed the fans who thought Thad Reece had good stuff that all he had was a senior hat. For the sophs gripped their bats hard, slugged, and shot a fusillade of balls at the fielders. Cline, left fielder, made a mighty effort to stem the tide by rushing under a long fly which he would probably have caught had he not missed it. Meanwhile runners crossed the plate. Darden would go to bat, swing, and light out, with Burke, Long, Allen, and the rest in hot pursuit. They ran all the afternoon without getting Darden's tag. Winston and Hendrix rushed in the breach, but the gulf swallowed them up as it had Reece. The seniors have a splendid chance of taking the championship in mumble peg. A senior remarked that he didn't think a little practice would hurt the team. No, nothing would.

Below is a list of the fatalities:

MR. PERRY WRITES AGAIN

In Further Criticism of the Editor's Attitude Toward the Sophomore Class in Regard to the Recent Shooting

The editor will please pardon me for imposing on his good nature in asking for space for my farewell address, and the public will please be patient. I tried to refrain from a reply, but I had no peace; I laid aside my tablet twice, but I could not rest; and a third time I take it up and write. I believe in justice and righteousness, in rendering to the things that are due Ceasar, in rendering to God the things that are due God, in rendering to Satan the things that are due Satan—when they are past redemption,—in rendering to the sophomores the things that are due the sophomores, and in rendering to the editor the things that are due the editor.

"The editor still holds to his views expressed last week". It is a difficult task to convince a man of anything against his will (myself not excepted), and I like to see a man who has convictions of his own and will stand by them till he is convinced that they are wrong. Now, if the faculty and Student Council shares the views of the editor, let them summon each member of the Sophomore class before the proper tribunal to give an account of his conduct and clear himself of this stigma or suffer the penalty for it, and perhaps some of them will turn a hand to help discover the guilty ones. There are lots of us that are ready to come up and render an account of ourselves. Because "certain members of the class have dishonored the class" is not saying that the class as a whole, or every member of it is responsible for the dishonor. The Sophomore class as a whole and every member of it is responsible for its good name in the University and for the good name of the University—in so far as each individual member's conduct reflects credit upon himself, his class, and his University, and the influence it has for good or evil among his fellow students.

If our worthy editor is bubbling over with a superabundant desire to protect the fair name of the University—and may it shine with a lustre far greater than it ever has in the past,—why does he condone the lesser evil and condemn the greater and not rather condemn both? So sure as a lesser evil is condoned, a greater evil will follow as a result. If his motive was patriotism to the University and not to cast a slur on the Sophomore class, why did he not place the responsibility in the beginning where it belonged and not try to hurl calumny upon both the guilty and the innocent alike. Let him attack crime and lawlessness with all his might, hit it hard, wipe it out, and he will have wrested the weapon from the hand of the enemy who is abroad fighting the University.

And why has the Sophomore class become indignant at the criticisms of this one mighty mighty of invective at the University?

VARSITY DEBATERS CHOSEN

For the Tulane Contest. Judges Select L. L. McLendon, of the Di, and C. K. Burgess, of the Phi.

The preliminary contest for places on the team to debate against Tulane University took place last Friday night. The men who entered were: L. L. McLendon, Thad Reece, P. H. Gwynn, R. L. Van Pool, and J. C. Lockhart from the Dialectic Society; C. K. Burgess from the Philanthropic Society. The query for the debate is:—"Resolved, that all Corporations Doing an Inter-State Commerce Business Should be Chartered and Regulated by a Federal Commission." Carolina defends the affirmative against Tulane. The judges were Dr. Raper, Dr. Wagstaff, and Prof. Stacy.

The places on the team were hotly contested by all the men. Some good speeches were made. The judges chose L. L. McLendon and C. K. Burgess for the team. Neither of these men has represented Carolina in an inter-collegiate debate. Burgess, however, represented the Phi Society in the inter-society debate last commencement.

The preliminary for the Vanderbilt debate will take place Wednesday night. The same question will be used in this debate. Carolina will have the negative against Vanderbilt.

BIG FIELD DAY

NEXT SATURDAY

Next Saturday is Field Day. At 3:30 p.m. the contest for the inter-class championship in track and field events will take place. A silver cup will be given to the class winning the most points. Prizes will also be given to winners in each event, and to second place men where the contests are close.

This Field Day promises to be one of the biggest inter-collegiate athletic events of the college year. For sometime a number of men from all the academic classes have been training on the track under Nat. J. Cartmell's vigorous coaching. Some excellent material has been developed, and as a result every event will be closely contested. Plenty of excitement in the way of sprinting, jumping, vaulting, and distance running will be given.

At the present it appears that the closest fight will be between the representatives of the freshmen and sophomore classes. This of itself assures a lively time. The two upper classes have not been idle, however. They are both prepared to put up a game fight. All wearers of the track monogram are ruled out. Members of the Varsity squad who have not won their letter will, however, be allowed to compete.

The prizes, aside from the championship cup, are worth striving for. They have been given by the merchants of the town and other firms doing business with the students.

NEW OFFICERS FOR THE Y. M. C. A.

Installed at the Regular Meeting of the Association Tuesday Night

REPORTS FROM RETIRING OFFICERS HEARD

The Year's Work in Bible Study and Missionary Departments and in the Record of Attendance Shown to Have Been Very Good

The new officers of the Young Men's Christian Association who will serve for the year 1912-1913 were inaugurated last Tuesday night. They are: President, D. L. Rights; Vice President, E. M. Coulter; Treasurer, A. L. M. Wiggins. The president, Rights, is from Winston-Salem and has been actively engaged in Y. M. C. A. work all during his college course. He is also a good student and takes part in other college activities. The vice-president, Chambers, is from Charlotte, a member of the Sophomore class, and is a good student and athlete. All the other new officers are juniors. The secretary and the treasurer Coulter and Wiggins respectively are from Connelly Springs and Durham. They have been actively engaged in Y. M. C. A. work and are prominent members of their class.

Since it was the last night of service of the retiring officers a report of the past year's work was made by them. Mr. C. W. Johnson who had charge of Bible Study department reported that 124 men had been enrolled, of these 111 attended. The average number who attended was 82, the average attendance 57. The prospects for next year were reported to be very hopeful since a large number of leaders have been well trained.

Mr. C. E. Norman, chairman of the Missionary department reported that a twenty-five dollar deficit in the Barnet fund of last year had been paid and that six dollars above the usual five hundred dollars had been subscribed for this year. Also 140 men were enrolled in the three Mission study courses.

Mr. F. B. Drane who has charge of the religious meetings reported that the average attendance at the Tuesday night lectures had been 76, and for the Thursday night prayer meetings 15. He said that the late practice of having meetings in series had considerably improved the attendance. A new series will be begun shortly on "Great Reforms and Reformers" in which the Reformers, Martin Luther, John Calvin, John Wesley, and others with their work will be studied.

The membership department reported that 240 men had joined the association. Of these 50 were seniors, 43 were juniors, 24 were sophomores, 94 were freshmen, and the remainder professional students.

Following this report, the new president took charge of the meeting and accepted his office not as an honor but as an opportunity for doing Christian service.
