Vanderbilt Debaters Chosen

The preliminary contest for places on the Vanderbilt debate was held last Wednesday night. Messrs. Cyrus D. Hogue, J. T. Prichett, and R. G. Stockton, of the Di Society; C. E. Teague and W. L. Small, of the Phi Society, entered the preliminary. All the men made good speeches, but the judges, Dr. W. D. MacNider, Dr. H. W. Chase, and Prof. P. H. Winston, selected Messrs. C. E. Teague and Cy Hogue to represent Carolina against Vanderbilt.

Neither of these men has ever represented Carolina against another college. Teague, a member of the Senior class, represented the Phi Society in the commencement debate with the Di last June. He helped win the debate and won for himself the Bingham Prize. Cy Hogue graduated at Sewanee in 1909. He has been taking law here for two years. While at the University of the South he was in a debate against Trinity College and helped his team win.

The same question used in the Tulane debate will be used with Vanderbilt. Carolina, however, defends the negative. The debate will take place May 4, 1912, at Nashville, Tenn.

Recently the physical director for women at Michigan gave a cotillion to 200 of her students. The novelty of the occasion was the absence of men.
