LOSSES ON THE ROAD ARE OFF-SET BY TWO VICTORIES ON HOME GROUNDS

A. C. L. and Guilford Win in Wilmington and Fayetteville, but Penn State and Trinity are Defeated in Chapel Hill

In the first game on the home grounds Carolina defeated Pennsylvania State 5 to 1, hitting the ball all over the lot. Twelve clean hits were chalked up against pitcher Hesselbacher. Craven, the old Oak Ridge pitcher, was in the box for Carolina and pitched a steady game all the way. He allowed six hits, only one being for an extra base. He fanned five and walked three. The infield played a strong defensive game. Twice "Rody" Williams raced over behind Craver and dug up slow grounders and each time Leak by great stretching saved his wild throws.

But for bonehead base-running several more runs would have been added to the Tar Heel score. Five times runners were caught off the bases, Henderson twice catching men off third and first by quick throws. Penn State gave Carolina her first run in the first inning.

Bailey walked and went all the way to third when Long's attempted sacrifice was thrown to right field. Two more bases on balls forced him home. Hart opened the fifth with a long double, but was caught trying to steal third. Craven singled and Bailey doubled, scoring him. In the sixth Hesselbacher was found for five hits and three runs. Edwards, Williams and Hart singled Johnson doubled, and Thompson tripped. Two more hits came in the seventh, but poor base running broke up a splendid chance.

Penn State's lone tally came in the third on Miller's hit, his theft of second and Henderson's double. Crawford's pretty catch of Edwards' long drive and McKibben's throw home from deep left featured. Captain Edwards' all round playing featured. He drove out two hard singles, was robbed of a three-bagger, and fielded smartly besides.

CARLTON, STRONG, AND PUGH CONTEST

Webster is Second Winner of the Medal Donated by Gen. J. S. Carr, Banks Mebane Winning Last Year

The second annual Junior Oratorical Contest for the Carr Medal was held in Gerrard Hall Wednesday evening. Dr F. P. Venable presided and Dr. I. H. Manning, and Professors N. W. Walker and M. H. Stacy were judges. The contestants for the Medal together with the subject of their orations were, for the Phi society, J. F. Pugh "Some New Forces in American Politics," and George Strong, "Education and Future Industry;" for the Di Society, D. H. Carlton on "Christian Citizenship," and F. L. Webster on "Education for social service." The decision of the judges was that Mr. F. L. Webster had made the best oration, and so he was declared winner of the Carr Medal for the year of 1913.

The Carr Medal was established last year through the generosity of General Julian S. Carr of Durham, and largely through instrumental-ity of Mr. C. E. McIntosh. Banks Mebane won the Medal last year.

Carolina can not beat the New York Giants. Pitcher Shore of Guilford, who was under McGraw for two months last summer, was the chief factor in a 9 to 1 defeat at Fayetteville on Easter Monday. The six feet six hurler mowed down the Carolina batsman better than an International Harvester machine can garner a wheat field. He had them eating out of his hand from the first inning right through the last. Johnston's single was the only clean hit and it brought in Carolina's lone run. The other hit was an infield b. t. Sixteen batters whipped the air in a vain attempt to help the cause.

In addition to having Shore to pitch, Guilford batted hard. Craven went in at the start of the game, but he was rather easy picking, and gave way to Aycock who, however, did not do much better. The Quakers play ball all the year round and they showed what can be accomplished by practice. Pitcher Shore himself slashed out a three-bagger and his team mates piled up eleven other hits.

The long heralded Easter week has come and brought with it the Easter Queen in all her glory. Through the weeks of planning and of re-planning she has ever led the way by the brilliance of her beauty and her charm. And now she is with us—and with all sincerity the university cries "Welcome!"

A kindly faculty has added one more joy to sum total of humane happiness. Friday has already been announced as a holiday. Every date had been taken and the Dramatic Club wishing to tell once more "What Happened to Jones," asked for a holiday on Thursday that the performance might be given that morning in Gerrard Hall. The holiday was granted. Coggins and his crew, who have already proved their worth in successful performances in Chapel Hill, in Greensboro, and twice in Raleigh, will once more bring the house down in laughter and applause at the best dramatic production of a generation.

The official programme of the week is opened Wednesday night with the Junior Oratorical Contest for the Carr Medal, awarded by Julian S. Carr, of Durham. The four Juniors who have won out in the preliminaries and who will meet in this contest are George V. Strong, and Jesse Pugh from the Phi Society and D. H. Carlton and F. L. Webster from the Di Society. Immediately after this contest the first big social event, the annual dance of the Order of Gimgouls, will take place in the Lynum Gymnasium, which has been specially decorated for the occasion. Robt. Strange, Jr, will lead the dance. Frank Drew and Lenoir Chambers will act as assistants.

Thursday will be taken up with the Dramatic Club in the morning, the Sophomore dance in the afternoon, and the Senior Stunt at night. The Dramatic Club's production of "What Happened to Jones" comes at 10:30 A. M. in Gerrard Hall. In the afternoon the Sophomore dance will take place in the Gym. Time was when the Junior class gave a dance, but ideas have changed in the last few years and the class of 1914 preferred to sit back and watch others. It remained for the younger generation to lead the way and to save occasion. Junior Week it used to be; now it is anything but Junior Week. The Sophomores are the heroes. Their dance will be led by W. O. Huske, assisted by R. E. Little and E. J. Lilley, Jr.

The inability of the Trinity College of Connecticut baseball nine to lunk a single safe hit off Aycock combined with an abundance of costly errors by the Connecticut lads, brought the overwhelming defeat today by a score of 10 to 1. Carolina's youthful pitcher was invincible throughout the nine innings, and it was only by an error in the second inning that a lone run was tallied by Trinity.

To the credit of Aycock is the distinction of pitching the first no-hit game on the home grounds in a couple of years. The last man to perform this feat was "Red" Stewart.

Connecticut's pitching staff proved weak and it was in the second inning that a change was made, Swift substituting for Warner. Johnson, Carolina's hefty slugger, nailed a two-bagger in the second inning, sweeping the bases. This, added to the costly errors of Trinity, gave six runs to the Tar Heels' tally sheet in this frame. In the sixth inning the only other startling play of the game was recorded. Captain Edwards' three-bagger was followed by Johnston's second two-base hit.

The Senior Stunt Thursday night in Gerrard Hall is in many respects the crowning event of the Week. It is the event in which the University is most interested. Because of its local nature its greatest appeal is to the students. Seniors in the past have embraced nearly every possible form of dramatic production; they have ranged from a circus under a regular circus tent through vaudeville and minstrel shows up to a legitimate drama with at least an attempted plot. The usual secrecy has been observed this year and little is known as to nature of the performance. From the shrieks of laughter at the rehearsals in Gerrard Hall something great must be coming. "Nie" Post is chairman of the committee in charge.

Friday morning the inter-class track meet will take place. Embryonic Olympic heroes have been training for two weeks just for this opportunity to show their worth. The meet will be the first good chance the University has had of judging the ability of the new men.
