Seniors Gather for Banquet.

 good old educational system which was not restricted to practicability, but which, loving culture for its own sake, awakened in the student the creative power of the ideal. "Though technical training has its place," he said, "let us, as regards the classic education, 'stick to Sal a little longer'" Kenneth Royall, in the closing response, gave his classmates a heart to heart talk concerning the position of a Senior, reminding them that they are looked up to as examples by the classmen and begging them not to try to fool themselves and others into the attitude of "what we get comes easy."

WARS AND RUMORS OF WARS.

The indications from the operations that are under way in connection with the proposed Greensboro, Northern and Atlantic railroad are that in a short time there may be some construction work under way. Those nearest to financial headquarters feel that the prospects are very good, and continuous efforts are under way to complete the preliminary arrangements that are necessary.

Bonds have been voted in three counties totaling $360,000. The people of Danville have agreed to invest $100,000 in terminals, the Virginia laws not allowing the issuance of bonds for the construction of railroads.

There is now a proposition to have the road go by Chapel Hill in its course from Greensboro to touch the North Carolina railroad, the Norfolk Southern and the Seaboard Air Line. It is reported that the Chapel Hill people are willing to vote $50,000 in bonds. The road would run to Chapel Hill from Haw River.

In Caswell county $75,000 were voted in bonds, in Alamance $85,000, and in Guilford $200,000 by Gilmore and Morehead townships. Sixty-five miles of road east from Greensboro will have to be built by October, 1911, for the bond issue in Guilford and Alamance to become available.

Glee Club Takes State.

The Glee Club returned last week from its annual spring trip to the western part of the State. From Greensboro to Charlotte the musicians tell a tale of successful concerts, of appreciative audiences, of hospitable alumni everywhere, of receptions, of a banquet even, in fact a genuine good time. From the standpoint of the audiences the concerts were a decided success, the various numbers of the programme being encored time and again, often to such an extent as to exhaust the repertoire of the performers. The Mandolin Club notably, which in the fall seemed rather a doubtful asset, was vastly improved and never failed in scoring a hit. Further more, following the good precedent set in the last two or three years, the Glee Club not only made expenses but came out with a substantial balance on the right side. The towns visited were Greensboro, Statesville, Hickory, Lenoir, Gastonia, and Charlotte in order named.

Good Roads for All the State.

From March the 17th to the 19th, inclusive, a convention of Engineers and Road Superintendents of the State will be held in Chapel Hill under the auspices of the Highway Department of the University and the Survey Office. The object is to promote a statewide interest in good roads and their development. Upon arrival the engineers will register as students at the Administration Building so as to feel that the course is given by the college.

The lectures will be held in the Peabody Building, both afternoon and night being illustrated with stereoptican slides. A special lecture on "Good Roads in Foreign Lands" will be accompanied with motion pictures.

General topics for papers to be submitted by the engineers run as follows: Road Construction, Bridge Construction, Road Surfacing Materials, and Economics of Good Roads. Talks will be given by Messrs Pratt, Cobb, Stacy and Hickerson, all of the University, while a special talk will be given by Mr. Eldridge of the U. S. Office of Public Roads. Between 60 and 70 men are expected and a good influence and noticeable results are expected.

Sixth Number of Extension Series.

The sixth number of the University Extension Bulletins has recently come from the press, but as yet has not been distributed. This bulletin is a handbook on public discussion and debate, and is to be issued to all the public schools in the State. The handbook is divided into six sections, arranged according to their relative importance. The first deals with the importance and value of public debate, and shows the necessity of early training in public speaking. The second deals with the preparation and delivery of a debate. The third contains model queries with brief outlines of the argument of each, and references. The fourth gives a number of queries without outlines or references. The fifth gives a list of debator's hand books, and names of agencies from which material for debate can be obtained. The sixth offers a model constitution with by-laws for high school literary societies. The handbook is written clearly and concisely and will certainly be a service of much profit to high school debators.

DR. PRATT ON NATURAL RESOURCES.

Wednesday a week ago, Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt started a series of short chapel talks on the natural resources of North Carolina and the conservation of them. He told us of the different kinds of natural resources we have; namely, the resources of the soil, those of the rivers and sounds, mineral products, and water power.

THE LOWLY HOOKWORM.

The hookworm disease is a greater danger and has worked more harm in this country than tuberculosis, according to Dr. A. J. Smith, of the University of Pennsylvania, who first discovered the hookworm in the United States. In money value alone, he declared, the Southern States lost from $250,000,000 to $500,000,000 annually as a result of the scourge. In his lecture, one of the University's courses of free Saturday afternoon addresses, Dr. Smith explained the origin of the disease and its course of operation. It was introduced into this country, he said, with importations of slaves from Africa. The hookworm finds lodgment most easily in the black race, he said, but chiefly harms the Caucasian.

needs no education other than the Knowledge of the excellence of our tailored-to-measure garments.

Our clothes go a long way toward getting a man a diploma in the University of Life. They are decidedly appropriate for the college-bred man, being clean-cut and up to the minute in style.
