Penn State-Carolina

Carolina lost to Penn State here yesterday, 15-9, in an old-time ten inning slugger match. Four home runs, two triples, two doubles, and twenty-one singles were registered up during the game. Aycock was batted out of the box in the first inning and his place was taken by Cuthrell, who kept things pretty well in hand until the tenth, when the visitors pushed six men across the plate. Three twirlers went in for Penn State.

The slugging ability of the Penn State nine was evidenced in the first inning. With bases full, Johnston drove the ball over the left field fence for a home run. Ewing scored on Moore's triple. With this five run lead Penn State experienced no trouble in keeping in the lead until the ninth inning when the score was tied, 9 to 9.

Carolina's first scores were made in the second when Hart's triple brought in Herty and Lewis. In the fifth, Bennett, second up, drove the ball over the fence in the left garden for four bases. In the seventh Cuthrell singled and scored on Patterson's double. Patterson later scored on Hardison's single. The sixth run came in the eighth.

In the ninth with the bases full, Wheeling, of Penn State, drove a long single into right garden, scoring Blythe and Robinson.

Massey led off for Carolina in this inning by driving the sphere over left field fence for a home run. Bennett doubled and scored on Hardison's single. Hardison went to third and scored on Herty's bunt. Score, 9 and 9.

It was in the fatal tenth that all hopes of a Carolina victory vanished. With the bases full Robinson singled, scoring Weatherald and Sullivan. Johnston was safe on first again, filling the bases, which were cleared a moment later when Wheeling hit for four bases. Carolina failed to reach first in this inning.

Zollicoffer sprained his ankle in the fifth in attempting to steal second and was replaced by Hardison.

Combs and Capehart Defeat Elon in Singles and Doubles

In the first match of the season Carolina easily defeated Elon in tennis. Capehart and Combs won out in both singles and doubles, the score in doubles being 6-3, 6-2. In singles Capehart easily overwhelmed his opponent, White, 6-2, 6-1. Combs defeated Harcastle, 6-3, 6-4. The excellent serving of Capehart and the smashes of Combs characterized the game throughout.

Last Thursday in a more interesting match Carolina again defeated Elon on the home grounds. Walke who was substituted for Capehart in singles defeated White 6-2, 9-7. Combs defeated Harcastle again 4-6, 6-0, 6-4. Capehart and Combs defeated White and Harcastle in doubles 5-7, 6-0, 6-2.

Carolina showed up poorly in doubles. The team was erratic and sluggish in all the games, losing it after having Elon 5-2. After that it improved and quickly won the two following sets. The efficient serving of Capehart was again noticeable in the last two sets in doubles.

Defeats Washington and Lee 73 to 52

The Carolina track team defeated Washington and Lee Saturday, 73 1-2 to 52 1-2 in the opening meet of the Carolina season. Carolina showed exceptional strength in the distances and in such field events as the discus and shot put; winning all but two points in these events.

Upchurch scored the largest number of points for Carolina, walking away with first place in both the mile and two mile. Rand of Carolina was winner of second place in both events. Johnson of Carolina stood second in individual scoring. Cromwell of Washington and Lee was the largest individual point getter, winning two firsts, one second, and a third. Shultz came second with 10 points to his credit. The State record in the pole vault was broken by Hallman of Washington and Lee, who cleared the bar at 11 feet 6 inches. The former record was held by George Strong of Carolina in 1913 with a height of 11 feet.

The meet today was the first inter-collegiate meet to be held on Emerson Field. The track was in good condition but too soft for sprinting.

D. D. D. AND MYSTIC ARC MYSTERIES SOLVED

Senior Stunt to Have Novel and Laughable Features

The mystery of D. D. D. has been solved. It stands for Dr. Doal's Dilemma, the name of the Senior Stunt. Farther than this all is silent. It has been hinted however, that the Stunt will embody the most novel feature that has ever been tried in a Gerrard Hall production. It is called "The Mystic Arc," through which music will be produced as though by a brass band. It is a 3000 candle power affair which the electrical engineering school has been working on for the past two months. One of the parts necessary is the only one in the United States and is only being lent by one of the large New England electrical manufacturing companies.

The play itself is said to be the funniest that has ever been attempted by a senior class. Those who have heard it say that it differs from most previous stunts in being a real play instead of a series of disconnected acts. Rumor calls it the most delicately humorous production of many seasons. Laughs abound throughout it. The interpretation of character is said to be unsurpassed. Among the actors are some who have already distinguished themselves before Chapel Hill audiences and others who will shed their first tears behind the footlights in this performance.

Dream of Chapel Hill-Wide Peace Shattered by Tank and Pandy.

To those gathered down town about mail time last Sunday afternoon, it would seem that William J's dream of world-wide peace is yet a long way from realization. The war cloud, which for quite a while has been hovering over the horizon, burst on this eventful day, the 16th of April, 1916, the contending factions being the "pioneer in the business" on the one side, and "Tank" on the other.

For a while the on-lookers got a little insight into what may be the conditions in Mexico. The "pioneer", discovering what he considered an infringement upon his "unalienable rights", and tiring of "watchful waiting", suddenly decided upon action without sending a single note. Hastening homeward, he returned quickly to the scene of battle, "armed to the teeth". The crowd made way before the blue-steel Winchester, and the "pioneer" had an open field.

Luckily for the peace of the community and for the advancement of world-wide peace, "Tank" had seen fit to retreat in due time, remembering, no doubt, the old adage, "he who fights and runs away will live to fight another day". After close investigation, the "pioneer" found nothing left for him to do except to "cuss". This he did nobly, and, for fear of the board of censors, his remarks, which weren't at all complimentary to "Tank", must be here omitted. The board of arbitration at last succeeded in leading him home, and, with the aid of a little morphine, in putting him to sleep. Thus ended the threatened Jitney War, and once again we turn our minds towards thoughts of peace.

Y. M. C. A. Officers Nominated

At a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Monday night the nominating committee announced the following nominations of officers for the coming year: President, J. L. Mackie; Vice-President, D. E. Eagle; Secretary, Marion Fowler; Treasurer, Ralph Stockton.

Following the nominations, stereoptican slides of scenes on the Y. M. C. A. Assembly grounds at Blue Ridge, nearby mountain scenery, student groups, leaders, etc. were shown, and were explained by Tom Boushall. These views give a very good impression of the grandeur of that part of western North Carolina, and also a conception of the greatness of the summer student conference and the advantages offered by it. From present indications it seems that Carolina will this year send by far the largest delegation to Blue Ridge that she has ever sent.

Prof. H. H. Williams will lecture to the Baraca Class at the Baptist Church Sunday, April 23, at 9:45. His subject will be "The Resurrection".

Lectured on by Prof. Bliss Perry, Taking

THREE MEN OF GENIUS

Napoleon, Goethe, Emerson Lectures Interesting and Inspiring

Napoleon

One of the most brilliant and interesting lectures of the year was delivered Wednesday night by Prof. Bliss Perry of Harvard University on "The Young Napoleon." This was the first of a series of three lectures delivered by Prof. Perry on "The Youth of Representative Men." The character, habits, and achievements of the young Corsican for the first twenty three years of his life were presented.

Prof. Perry emphasized the fact that Napoleon was not of French descent. He was of pure Italian blood. When a school-boy of thirteen, on being called a bonehead by a teacher, he replied, "I am a man and expect to be treated as one." His difference from other boys, was that he had the ability to put into practice the knowledge he obtained from books. He formed the habit of never forgetting anything that he wanted to remember. The Russian Emperor said that he was the only man in Europe who understood the value of time. Napoleon said of himself, "My talent is, I see things clearly—I was born that way."

When Napoleon reached Paris a little alien schoolboy in company with a Jesuit Priest and four other schoolboys no one conceived of the idea that within twenty years he would be the ruling figure of all Europe, except perhaps his father who on his death bed said, "Where is my son Napoleon, whose sword will make kings tremble; who will change the face of the earth?"

Napoleon took the crown from the hands of the Pope and placed it on his own head, a self-made man. But he had not morals enough to raise himself above the ordinary rogues. History marks him down as a model failure. He played the game of world fame or downfall and lost because he was blind to the instincts of humanity and justice.

Goethe

"Goethe," Germany's greatest man of literature and scholar, was the subject of Professor Bliss Perry's second lecture, delivered on Thursday evening.

The story of Goethe is the story of a troubled university student of today, had his love affairs, his ambitions and his disappointments, only in Goethe's case they were more intense. In childhood he was a sickly youngster whose life was valueless in the sight of those who knew him
