Summary—Stolen bases, Young 3, Collins, Kehoe, Feimster. Two-base hits, Jennette. Three base hit, Folger. Double play, Jones to Waller to Bryan. Struck out, by Powell 10, by Pierrotte 6. Hit by pitched ball, Collins. Time of game, 2 hours. Umpire, Lile. Attendance, 1,500.

Old Eli had to shed his coat and swing the bat lustily to win from the Tar Heels last Monday, for Nemo had his slow ball working to perfection and puzzled the gentlemen from the north. Although it was Coleman's first game this season he handed the sphere like a veteran. Several times he pulled himself out of bad holes when men on bases threatened runs for Yale.

The Carolina stick artists were continually baffled by the pitching of Garfield, who started things off badly for the home team, his benders refusing to be touched. The White and Blue refused to brave a circuit journey until the sixth frame, when things were made hot for Garfield. Coleman flied out. Stewart died at first. Herty struck one in the hedge in left and stopped at second. Barnes lifted his customary home run over the fence near the left foul line, two runs ambling across the dish. Roberts ambled, Folger singled, Jennette strolled, and Llewellyn, hitting for Kirkman, whiffed.

Yale had three big innings. In the fourth the first man up popped to Bennett. Weeks muffed the next man's fly who then stole and scored on Munson's hit.

In the sixth Yale got two more. Early beat out a bunt and took second on Lyman's sacrifice. Munson drove the second ball pitched far over the left field fence, scoring Early and himself.

No further scoring occurred, although both teams threatened, Carolina continually. In the ninth a run seemed sure, but Early's pretty catch in left, doubling Pitman at first, smashed all hope of a Tar Heel victory.

"Four bawls and I walk," responded the base-ball daddy in mutual distress.—Four Leaf Clover.

TUG OF WAR NEXT WEEK

The Tug of War which was to be held last Thursday, will take place next week, the time being announced in Chapel and proclaimed abroad on the campus.

John Terry, manager of the Junior gang, thinks there will be enough Seniors on the Hill at that time to give his crew a little exercise. Plans have matured for the excavation of a mud-hole through which the—well, Villa Currie, says no! He has infinite faith in the pull of the Sophomore class. Frank Herty, Freshman, contends that a tug of war is the only place where a pull should count for anything.

Rand claims that the Seniors didn't have the heart to drag all three classes through the mud before the fair ladies, and excuses the lack of Seniors for that reason.

J. Earle Harris has been initiated into Phi Delta Theta fraternity.
