VACANT LOTS OF UNIVERSITY PUT UNDER CULTIVATION

While the University is preparing men to take the field immediately upon the call of Uncle Sam, she is also preparing to meet the food situation here. While other people are now planting their back yards with vegetables the vacant lots of the University are being put into cultivation.

About one acre of the plot of ground back of the Peabody Building is now being planted. Likewise a plot of nearly two acres behind the University Inn is under cultivation.

This gardening is under the supervision of Mr. S. E. Tischler, steward of Swain Hall, and the work is being done by Self-Help students in the afternoons.

The plot behind the Peabody Building will be planted with such vegetables as tomatoes, string and butter beans, onions, beets and squash. Back of the Inn potatoes will be planted exclusively.

Mr. Tischler expects the first crop of vegetables to be ready by the middle of June. This crop will be used in the Dining Hall during the Summer School.

As soon as the first crop is gathered a second will be planted so that the vegetables will mature sometime in August. These will be canned and used during the coming college year in Swain Hall.

Weird Base-running Cost Freshmen Game

Wednesday afternoon, the infants of 1920 were defeated by the seniors 5-4 in the second game of the class baseball series.

Early in the game, the freshmen, by a combination of errors and hits, secured the lead. For seven innings they held the Seniors 2-1; but in the eighth Capps and his infield weakened, and the bases became overloaded with greybeards. With three on, C. S. Harris doubled, scoring three runs; and shortly he himself scored. The Freshmen rallied in their half of the eighth and would have tied the score, but weird base running retired two men. With two on Green tripled to deep center scoring two men but he was stranded on third. The game was featureless, pitching honors being equal between Capps, for '20 and Ranson for '17.

Coach Campbell states that the schedule for class games will be carried out. The games starting as this one did, at three o'clock, or before that time, on account of the drill.

DEVOTION

She—"Would you leave your home for me?"

He—"I'd leave a baseball game in the ninth inning with the score a tie."—Life.

Twinkle, twinkle, little feet,
Of a chorus girl so neat!
How I wonder if those tootsies
Are relieved by Allen's foot-ease!
—N. Y. Tribune.

Wondering Freshie — (seeing Captain Thusandso drill)—"Gee, I think they ought to decorate him."

Cynic—"Yes, with stripes so that he would see stars."

"But, doctor, I never felt better in my life."

"That, sir, is a matter for the health authorities to vote upon. The law assumes every man to be sick until pronounced well."

Just Gossip

This week has been the Freshman's chance to shine. With pompous complacency he has taken his high school friends under his wing and with an air of seniority, has pointed out the landmarks, Phi Beta Kappa marks, easy marks, and all other marks. He has filled the role of a real "college guy." Every bit of campus knowledge stroed in his sterile, (pardon me!)—fertile brain has been used to further his prestige. He has greeted men he never presumed to greet before. All this to show the credulous high school delegate just how college broadens the mind, the domicile of the mind included.

And the girls! The "femininely" inclined Freshman has been in his element. There were more skirts flitting around Chapel Hill Thursday than there were at the Easter dances. Sure, I counted 'em! Gallop was galloping around with his fair dame. So were the Fords. (Note the jolting fitness of the word gallop.) The Arboretum, benches, drug stores, etc., were in heavy demand. The merchants of Chapel Hill might well start a campaign for a monthly or tri-yearly state-wide debate. Their gate receipts (excuse me, I mean their sales receipts—I went to a ball game today and got balled up) would swell. Well, 1920, you have done yourself proud in extending the glad hand to the visitors fair and otherwise.

Old Sol is on the job again, bringing forth the straw lids, palm Beaches, and lemon ices. If you want to judge the temperature of a never-failing thermometer, stand in the drug store and watch a palm-beach attired human toothpick between you and the sun. You will see the line of color (chocolate-shake brown) against the palm beach and the sun light. The more shakes consumed, the higher the line rises. It's a good index. Try it some time.

Dyer—"Is it the kind of a play you can take a girl to see?"

Ryer—"No, it's the kind you can't keep her away from."—Life.

Lottie—"Do you believe in the power of religion?"

Hattie—"Well, rather! I am at the top of the social ladder since I joined the right church."—Life.

Man—"You'll never get your kite down that way. Why don't you use your head?"

Urchin—"Aw, me neck ain't long enough!"—Life.

Artist—"Oh, milkmaid, if you will pose for me I'll give you a dollar an hour."

"Sorry, sir; but I'll getting a thousand a week from a moving-picture concern over the hill."—Life.

NO HOPE

"What's that thing, doc?"
"That's a medicine-ball I bought you."

"Then I'm afraid there is no hope for me."

"Why not?"
"I never can swallow that."—Youngstown Telegram.

Nurse—"Wouldn't you like to go to heaven, Bobbie, and wear a nice gold crown?"

Bobbie—"Not if the dentist is going to put it on."—Facts and Fancies.
