YOUR TAR HEEL

Another year—and your Tar Heel! What are you going to do with it? Let a few individuals edit it—or are you going to get behind it and make it yours, a truly representative University paper?

The new board can only reflect your ideas in so far as you are willing to give them. Without your support the Tar Heel can not measure up to its proper standard or attain its highest purpose.

The Tar Heel will be glad to get any contribution, suggestion or criticism during the year. There will be an open column reserved each week for this purpose.

Your paper depends on you for its real success. Are you willing to do your part?

THE UNIVERSITY AND THE WAR

In spite of the prediction of many that Carolina would be totally wrecked this year, with a registration below four hundred and no form of athletics whatever—nearly a thousand students have registered.

Only varsity football has been temporarily dropped. Varsity baseball, basketball and track managers are working out schedules for their respective branches and a regular First Year football schedule is being arranged. There is every indication that Carolina will have a full and active year in athletics.

In place of varsity football there will probably be a strong class series arranged. We believe that such a class series, if entered into with the spirit which has guided varsity football, will mean much to the life of the University.

With the drill, baseball, basketball, track, a rigid class football series, and a thousand students to take part, either in spirit or person it is evident that some were a bit too exacting in their predictions.

An incomplete list of University students and alumni who have entered the active service of the government shows that nearly three hundred have received commissions ranging from Lieutenant to Major. Over a hundred and fifty University men are enrolled in the new camp at Oglethorpe, and many more have entered the service as privates. Nine members of the faculty are included in this list.

Even with this contribution to the cause of our country, Carolina faces a great year and a full year.

NEW MAN

New men, the University welcomes you here. The University is yours and you are the University. What you make of yourself here depends on what you care to make yourself.

Because you have just entered here don't refrain from taking part in college activities. They are for you. Remember however, that you are here on your face value and not on your high school record, that you must start with your class at the bottom and be proud of the fact that you are there.

You are a freshman but you are a student of the University and will be treated as such.

Tribute to Y. M. C. A.

The Right Hon. Ravid Lloyd George, Premier of Great Britain has said, "Wherever I go I hear nothing but good of the work the Young Men's Christian Associations are doing throughout the country, and we owe it a very deep debt of gratitude. Whatever legal duties may be imposed upon us as citizens, there will always be plenty for voluntary effort to do. Therefore, I am glad to see the work which the Association is doing throughout the country."

Carolina men could supplement the premier's statement.

Infant Freshman Class

Seventeen is the average age of the Freshman class, as shown by the report of Dr. Lawson's physical examination of the new men. This shows that the Freshman class is getting younger, for in 1915 the average age was 19 and in 1916 it was 18.

The range in the weight of the new class is wide, going from 73 pounds to 213, but the average is below the averages of the last three years. The lung capacity was however above 215, the average of a business man. One man blew the high record of 360.

Out of 175 men examined up until Thursday afternoon 125 have chosen the course in military science in preference to the regular Freshman gym work. Six more were rejected, two of whom were turned down on account of age. They were 15 and the doctor thought that the strain would be too great.

The assistants in the gym for the coming year will be Bob Devereaux and Sam Ravenel. Ravenel takes the place of Sidall who failed to return and who now is working in Detroit.

After all, it isn't so much where you are, but who you're with.

Men desiring to attend one of the rural Sunday Schools Sunday afternoon will please be in front of the Y. M. C. A. at 2:15 on that afternoon. Freshmen are cordially invited to take these hikes.

Carolina had nine honor men at Akron. We will be getting swell-headed if we don't take a little care.

On to Berlin.

How the deuce can one pursue one's studies with a rational mind with all these Co-eds about. Hither, Shorty, with the blind bridle.

Stephenson's remarks apropos of the graveyards to inter dead debaters seemed to strike the funny-bone of the gentlemen present in Gerrard Hall. Goes to show that the civilized nations of the world have not yet accustomed themselves to the horrors of gas attacks.

DEAN STACY SOUNDS NOTE OF WARNING TO STUDENTS

REMINDS THEM OF CHANGING CONDITIONS—PRES. GRAHAM WELCOMES NEW MEN

The formal opening of the University took place in Memorial Hall Thursday morning. The meeting was held primarily as a welcome to the new men, and as a stimulus for all students to put forth their best efforts in the face of the national crisis.

Dean Stacy, the first speaker, discussed the relationship the life of the University held to the nation. "Hitherto," said Dean Stacy in part, "the University has thought and existed as a community practically independent and uninfluenced, but now the University must think in terms of world thought, and govern its course, not by our own desires, but by the needs of our country. We should make every effort to do well and efficiently everything we attempt, and should conserve our resources and improve our powers by a careful and consistent conservation of time and by an economical mode of living."

President Graham, on behalf of the University, welcomed the new men to her doors. In discussing the personal relation of the new men to the University, President Graham called attention to the new ideals of the campus brought about by the entrance of America into the war, and petitioned them to keep and uphold the trust of democracy.

University Professors Called to the Colors

The University is unfortunate in losing this year the following men who have been called to the colors:

J. H. Pratt, Ph. D., Professor of Economic Geology.
P. H. Winston, Professor of Law.
R. L. James, C. E., Assistant Professor of Drawing.
J. H. Johnston, Ph. D., Assistant Professor of Latin.
F. P. Graham, A. M., Assistant Professor of History.
H. R. Totten, A. M., Instructor in Botany.
Oliver Towles, Ph. D., Associate Professor of the Romance Languages.
C. W. Keyes, Ph. D., Instructor in Classics.
C. N. Dobbins, A. B., Assistant in Geology.
E. Mack, Jr., Ph. D., Assistant Professor of Chemistry.

These gentlemen have been granted leaves of absence by the University.

Some able men have been secured to fill these vacancies.

Capt. J. Stuart Allen, Lieutenant Jonathan Edwards, and J. V. Whitfield from the staff of military instructors.

Dr. A. W. Hobbs (Johns Hopkins), Math.; T. E. Didlake, L. P. Brown (Harvard), French; S. A. Leavitt, Assistant Professor of French (Harvard); B. Markham, Zoology (Carolina); H. M. Sharp

(Chicago), Physics; W. I. Morrison, Assistant in Drawing, will take the places of the members of the faculty called to the colors.

Captain J. Stuart Allen was for three years a student at McGill University, leaving that place to become a volunteer member of the Royal Fusiliers. He was transferred from this regiment to the crack Princess Pat Regiment, in which command he was wounded in the battles of 1915. The Canadian government gave the University permission to have Captain Allen take charge of military instruction for the scholastic year, and he will arrive in Chapel Hill probably this afternoon.

Lieutenant Leonard was a member of the Harvard officers training corps, being connected with them in the capacity of manager.

Vivian Whitfield is a graduate of the University and of Horner Military school. For the past two years he has been commandant at Horners, but has returned to the University for graduate work.
