TAR HEEL SAMMIES TO MAKE DRIVE ON DURHAM

ARE TRAINING FOR BIG HIKE ON APRIL 20—WILL PARADE AND BE ENTERTAINED BY ALUMNI

WILL AID RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

April 20 is the date set for the much-talked-of drive on Durham. Since the proposed offensive on the Capital City failed to materialize last fall, the men of the battalion have been longing for an opportunity to start something. The Spring thaw (as they say it in France) has commenced and the big show is scheduled to begin bright and early April 20.

THE TAR HEEL is not violating any rules of censorship, for it is dealing with common knowledge when it says that this big push is primarily to aid the soldiers of mercy, the Red Cross, in a strenuous campaign for dollars. The battalion will be entertained at lunch by the Durham alumni headed by John Sprunt Hill, after which it will take part in a big Red Cross parade. After the parade the local Red Cross chapter will give a vaudeville show in honor of the Carolina organization.

The battalion is in training for the trip and is taking hikes and route marches almost daily now. Tuesday morning a rapid walk to the trenches was the order of the day and Wednesday afternoon some good time was made in a forced march down the Durham road.

Last night Capt. Allen took the battalion on a night attack. On account of the lateness of the hour and the fact that some of the men were still stumbling through the woods unable to find as plain a place as Chapel Hill, THE TAR HEEL was unable to obtain any details before going to press. Capt. Allen says that the missing list could not be verified until dawn.

Word has been received from Jimmie Howell, formerly Carolina's champion yodeler, who is now at Camp Joseph Johnston, Jacksonville, Fla.

Tar Heel Contest is On

A contest will be held this week to select an Associate Editor of the TAR HEEL to fill a vacancy on the board. The contest is open to any member of the three upper upper classes and will be decided on the merits of the contributions for the next (March 23) issue.

A list of news assignments will be posted in the Journalism room at the library, in front of Chapel, and in the Y. M. C. A., and contestants may hand in as many news stories as they wish. Write your article in a vivid, snappy manner and hand them to the managing editor by Wednesday, 11 p. m. Write-ups of news happening on Thursday may be handed in up till midnight Thursday. All work must be typewritten.

This is a splendid chance to serve Carolina and at the same time gain valuable journalistic training. Go out for that place on the board!

U. N. C. AND CORNELL WILL GET SPECIAL LECTURESHIPS

DR. H. E. JACKSON TO GIVE SERIES ON COMMUNITY ORGANIZATION AND PROBLEMS

The University of North Carolina has been singled out by the trustees of the community organization board, Washington, D. C., as one of the two universities in the country at which special lectureships will be established on community organization. Cornell is the other university to be so honored. Commissioner of Education P. P. Claxton has agreed to detail Dr. Henry E. Jackson, of the national bureau of education, for this work, without charge to the University.

The purpose of these special lectureships on community organization is stated by the trustees as "to stimulate colleges to establish their own, in order to secure volunteers for the new profession of community secretary and to equip young men and women to become leaders in their communities." Mr. Jackson will deliver twelve lectures under this board at the University next winter. They will be concerned with the school house as the community forum, community buying and banking, how to organize community centers, and other problems of community welfare.

Dr. Jackson states in a letter to President Graham the reason why North Carolina was chosen for this work. "I already know of your (Continued on Page 4)

New World Idea Runs Thru Dr. Ward's Talks

The new world—how we are to create it, was the theme that ran through the addresses of Dr. Harry Ward, of Boston University, who spoke last week to the student body under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. On Thursday evening his message was "The Cry of the Children," a plea for men to make the world a place that will have for its life the unfolding of the capabilities of child-life, thus a fit place for all mankind.

On Friday evening Dr. Ward spoke on the theme, "The Voice of Labor," a plea to make the life of the worker safe.

Dr. Ward's third message on "Money or Men" was the call to organize standards in industrial life, to organize international life on the co-operative basis.

"Masters or Servants," was the theme of Dr. Ward's last address. It was a call to the life of service. "The bigger the cause which you can give yourself in service, the bigger you grow," he said. There is immortality in a cause; a man never dies who goes into an imperishable cause."

McNAIR LECTURE DATES CHANGED

Dean Shiler Mathews, of the University of Chicago, who was to deliver the McNair lectures next week, has been forced to postpone his coming on account of being called into the service of the government in connection with the war savings campaign during April. Dean Mathews will deliver the lectures on May 3, 4 and 5.

MANY CAROLINA MEN HAVE REGISTERED AT PARIS UNION

N. C. SERVING HER SONS IN FRANCE—TAR HEEL SECTION IN HOTEL HAS N. C. PAPERS

MANY CAROLINA Men here

A Carolina man never forgets the University nor does the University forget a Carolina man. Even in war-ridden France those men are thinking of Carolina and Carolina is trying to serve them. In a communication to President Graham, Mr. J. Franklin Alderfer, secretary of the American University Union in Europe, writes that the following men were registered at the Union in Paris during December: John W. Aiken, W. P. Belk, Hugh H. Broadhurst, Eugene Brownlee, J. R. Buchanan, G. F. Catlett, Robert Drane, H. J. Drew, J. A. Higgs, Jr., Edward Y. Keesler, John F. Larkin, A. T. Morrison, Francis Morrison, J. J. O'Brien, H. H. Perry, J. M. Ruple, James W. Squires, Reston Stevenson, Walter C. Taylor, Robert L. Yelverton and J. Zollicoffer.

The American University Union has leased the Hotel Royal in Paris for the use of American university men. The various colleges and universities have different sections of this hotel allotted to them where the college men make themselves at home reading their own publications and periodicals. In the University section will be found THE TAR HEEL, Magazine, and all the University (Continued on Page 4)

Dramatic Club Hard at Work Under Prof. McKie

In George Broadhurst's "The Man of the Hour" there is in store for the playgoing public of town and campus a pleasure that will measure up in all respects to the highest expectations. Under Prof. McKie's skillful direction the dramatic club rehearsals are being held regularly with a full attendance and every one in the cast shows continued, marked improvement. The play will be staged in Gerrard Hall sometime after Easter, Mr. McKie says, possibly during Junior week. Its success is already assured from the interest that the future Sarah Bernhards and Edwin Booths are taking in it. The cast is larger than usual. There are sixteen parts acted by fifteen stars.

The management will probably secure engagements to produce the play in other towns.

RIMMER ELECTED TRACK CAPTAIN

Track candidates have been kicking up the cinders with unusual vim in the last few days. The squad, which consists of thirty or more men, has gone into rigid training. Every event from shot-put to the dashes has been entered by a record number of candidates.

Ralph Rimmer, who has worked consistently for three years, has been elected captain for this year's season. Although not a letter man Rimmer has shown much interest in track and his election is the reward of his long, hard work.

J. C. EATON SUCCUMBS TO CHRONIC WEAK HEART

DIES AT HOME AFTER 2 WEEKS ILLNESS—WON DEBATING AND SCHOLARSHIP HONORS

WAS MEMBER TAR HEEL BOARD

J. Clifton Eaton, after two weeks illness of chronic heart disease, died at his home in Winston-Salem last Wednesday afternoon. With brilliant mind and admirable traits of character, Eaton entered the University with the present Junior class two years ago. Since that time, with the exception of the spring term of last year when he was forced to leave college on account of his health, he led his class in scholarship and proved himself a worthy member of the organizations with which he was associated.

In his freshman year he won three of the highest honors open to a freshman. He was awarded the Freshman Debater's medal in the Di Society, won a place on his society's team in the Inter-Society Fresh-Soph debate, and led his class in scholarship, making an average of one in all of his work for the year. Not only was he a good student but as a debater he held a prominent place in the Dialectic Society. He was one of the winners of twenty-five dollars in the recent Intra-College debate. Clifton was highly literary, contributing largely to the University Magazine, and until his recent illness was one of the best reporters on the TAR HEEL board. It was in this last capacity—that of associate editor of the TAR HEEL—that he rendered perhaps his most effective work, for journalism had ever been his favorite study. Clifton had recently been elected to membership in Epsilon Phi Delta, and his work thus far in that organization was very promising.

The entire student body, the faculty, and most especially the TAR HEEL board, lament this untimely death of J. Clifton Eaton, a student—faithful to duty on every occasion; a gentleman, a friend—unselfish and true.

Senior Quint Wins Title

The Seniors won the class basketball championship last Thursday when they won from the second year quint while the Juniors were defeating the strong Freshman team. The 4th year men came through the schedule with a clean slate, winning all of their games. The games scheduled for today were called off since the Seniors would get the pennant on the percentage basis, whether they won or lost.

Altogether the class basketball series this year has seemed to call forth more interest than ever before. Every team has worked hard to win, and a large crowd has witnessed the games each day.

The final standing of the teams follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Seniors	5	0	1000
Freshmen	3	2	.600
Juniors	2	2	.500
Sophs	0	5	.000
