Fellows, that's the place where you can get all those nobby little "things-a-ma-do's" in dress attire, and believe me, son, they have the jam-up stuff in college men's clothing and furnishings. They're such a cordial bunch, too-always seem so darned glad to see you. Oh, sure;-they're right on Main street in Durham.

Character Work

WE strive at all times to portray the character of your business whenever an order for printing is placed with us. We are always glad to furnish ideas and estimates to out-oftown customers, and mail orders receive prompt attention.

about him, lifting them to his own high level," declared Coates. "The men who had been his students left his care to go out into life prepared to enter into the dignity and responsibilities of this great commonwealth. Dean Stacy was a man who stood out from the crowd as a shining light to serve as a guide and chal-lenge to others to imitate him." Senator Dorman Thompson, of Statesville, presented Dean Stacy as seen by a close friend. He recalled that Mr. Stacy, coming from a home where lofty thinking ruled, came early to learn that the aim of life is service, not the advancement of self. inside them, he entered into the spirit of the life as a well-rounded student. He took high honors in scholarship and was awarded the Mangum arship and was awarded the Mangum medal for his excellency in debating. "He never lost his broad outlook cn life," stated Mr. Thompson. "He labored untiringly with President Graham to build up a great institu-tion and to make North Carolina the greatest State in the Union When greatest State in the Union. When he accepted the position of acting head of the University he determined to carry out the plans drawn up by the late head.

"Student opinion, with that unde-finable power to appreciate men, has rendered testimony of the fairness and sympathetic understanding of Mr. Stacy. He had the best in-terests of the State at heart; he real-ized the needs of the people and strove to satisfy them."

Latin Americans Hear Interesting Papers

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Latin-American Club was held last Monday night in the English room of the Library. Papers on sub-jects pertaining to the study of Latin-American questions were read by Mes-srs. T. J. Brawley and W. H. Hooker.

srs. T. J. Brawley and W. H. Hooker. Mr. Brawley's subject was "Interest of Italians, Frenchmen, and Belgians in Latin-America." In this paper he pointed out the spheres of influence of these countries in Latin-America. Mr. Hooker presented a paper relative to the settlement of the Asiatic peo-ples in Central and South America. He pointed out chiefly the sphere of Japanese influence, and the attitude of the Latin-American countries toward Japan's policy in regard to them.

The Club, in adopting the plan pre-sented by Prof. Pierson to the effect that it expand its efforts in order to secure Latin-American students for the University, broadens its scope of usefulness to the University. The way proposed to get the University in touch with students from these countries who are contemplating the tak-ing of courses in North American colleges is to exchange college publica-tions with these Latin-American colleges, and through this channel, and others yet to be more fully developed, to let these students know what advantages the University of North Carolina offers as an American college and in this way draw them to the Uni-
