Men Who Played on the Team of '16 Show the Same Old Punch

The Carolina football team brought to a fitting close the season of 1919 by winning the Thanksgiving game with the Old Dominioners. The season as a whole was one of the most successful that any Blue and White eleven for the last decade has enjoyed. In the number of games lost and won the season record stands as follows:

W	L	Tie

and the total number of points scored by opponents, 94, against 49 by Carolina. But a successful season doesn't consist altogether in the number of games won and lost, or in total points scored, but in the big games won, the stiffness of the schedule and the spirit of the team and student body.

Taking these into consideration the 1919 season has undoubtedly been a most successful one. Laboring under great handicaps, with possibly the stiffest schedule of any South Atlantic university Carolina won the three most important games of the season with A. & E., Davidson, and Virginia, besides holding Rutgers and Yale to comparatively small scores and tying the strong Tennessee eleven.

The only mar to an otherwise glorious record is the 29-7 defeat at the hands of the Virginia Cadets.

The whole team has played well, not only the 18 letter men but the forty or more gritty scrubs who stayed with the team to the last—and

Dialectic Society Elects Officers for New Term

At the last meeting of the Di Society the following officers were elected: R. B. Gwynn, president; T. C. Taylor, vice-president; George Denny, secretary; and Chas. Phillips, first corrector. These officers will be installed Saturday night, January 10.

This meeting was also the occasion of the regular Freshman Debate. In this contest E. C. Hunt and W. E. Wiles, representing the negative side of the query, "Resolved, that the U. S. Should Adopt the League of Nations Without Reservations," won out over J. G. Gulick and F. H. Hamrick, of the affirmative. The main bone of contention in this debate was the alleged preponderance of voting power of Great Britain. As is well known, the British Empire and her free-governing colonies have each a vote in the Assembly of the League. Apparently this would give England an overwhelming advantage over any other nation that has but one vote to her five. Another objection raised to the League as it now stands was the

UNIVERSITY EXCHANGES LECTURERS WITH VIRGINIA AND SOUTH CAROLINA

In the past few years it has been the custom of the University to send faculty lecturers to one of the following colleges during the year: University of Virginia, University of South Carolina and Vanderbilt. In exchange, a lecturer from one of the above colleges comes here. In the past, this exchange of lectures has proved very beneficial and interesting to all the colleges concerned in this exchange of lectureships. It has given a close relationship, and has caused a greater spirit of co-operation to grow up among the leading institutions of learning in the South.

The first year that this plan was instituted, Dr. Venable was sent to the University of South Carolina. The second year Dr. H. V. P. Wilson went to the University of Virginia,

Dean Howe Heads Harvard Drive in State

Dr. George Howe, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts at the University of North Carolina, a member of the class of 1897 at Princeton, has been appointed state chairman of the Princeton Endowment Fund Campaign by the general committee in charge of raising $14,325,000 for Princeton University. He has appointed as vice-chairman Dr. C. W. Keyes, of the University of North Carolina, and Lenoir Chambers publicity chairman for North Carolina.

A campaign will be started shortly in North Carolina with the object of reaching all alumni of Princeton and of presenting to them the needs of their university. Something like a hundred Princeton men are known to be living in North Carolina now. A state campaign committee will be appointed by Dr. Howe and local chairmen will be appointed in several cities where there is a large group of Princeton graduates, notably Charlotte, Asheville, and Wilmington.

North Carolina has been put in the seventh district by the general committee, along with South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi. Hugh Richardson, (Continued on page six)

ONE OF THE SEVERAL SPECIAL COACHES TAKEN FOR NEW YEAR'S GAME

Tommy Campbell, who coached the University of North Carolina football team last fall and also in 1916, was one of the special coaches taken to California by the Harvard football team for its New Year's game with Oregon. News to that effect has recently been received by Graduate Manager Charles T. Woollen from Campbell himself.

Campbell, who is a former Harvard player and assistant coach, is counted a wonder in backfield coaching. He was present with the Harvard squad at the beginning of the past season before the Carolina squad had assembled and had a hand in starting the Crimson backfield on its victorious season. In the middle of the season he returned to Cambridge for a few days, saw Harvard play one game and gave advice to his friend, Bob Fisher, the Harvard head coach. When Harvard began preparations for the long trip to the Pacific coast, Fisher again sent for Campbell and took him on the trip for special work with the backfield. The success of the Harvard team in its victory over Oregon was received by athletic authorities here as striking testimony to Campbell's work.

Co-Eds Becoming Active In All College Activities

The co-eds this year number 42, seven more than there were last year. One new student has entered this quarter, and more are expected in the spring. This steady increase indicates the necessity of the erection of a building for the women students. They are fast entering into many different college activities, and are represented in every department of the University.

At present the center for their activities is a large and comfortable room in Peabody Hall. There the organization holds its regular monthly meetings and occasional parties. For the fall term this year the following officers were elected: Mary Cobb, President; Nell Pickard, Vice-President; Rachael Freeman, Secretary; and Vera Pritchard, Treasurer. New officers will be elected at the January meeting. Mrs. M. H. Stacy is a splendid adviser and a close friend to all the co-eds.

Every Thursday afternoon Mr. Moss holds a Bible class and discussion group in the association room. It is needless to say that every one who attends these meetings enjoys them thoroughly.

Plans for organizing a branch of the Y. W. C. A. are being discussed. Miss Heller, a Y. W. C. A. Secretary, is expected shortly to visit the association, and offer suggestions concerning such an organization.

MANY MEMBERS OF THE FACULTY ATTEND PROFESSIONAL MEETS

UNIVERSITY WAS WELL AND ABLY REPRESENTED AT MEETINGS

During the Christmas holidays members of the faculty of the University of North Carolina attended professional meetings, associations, and conventions in many cities in the north and west. Dr. W. D. MacNider, of the medical school, attended the meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology at Cincinnati. He read two papers on the investigations he has been making for many years on the kidney.

The American Historical Association and the American Political Science Association at Cleveland were attended by Dr. J. G. deR. Hamilton and W. W. Pierson of the History department. Dr. Pierson read a paper on "Alberdi's Views on the Monroe Doctrine." Widespread enthusiasm for President Wilson was evident among the majority of the historians, Dr. Hamilton said, and a general demand for quick action in ratifying the treaty. In Boston at the annual meeting of the Geological Society of America Professor Collier Cobb was present, the only delegate, he reported from the South.

Professor D. D. Carroll, acting Dean of the School of Commerce, went to Chicago for the American Economic Association, and Dr. J. F. Dashiell read a paper at the meeting of the American Psychological Association at Cambridge. The meeting (Continued on Page 2)

Southern Oratorical Contest To Be Staged at Early Date

The preliminary to select Carolina's representative to the first Southern Oratorical League Contest will be held by the last of this month. The final contest will be held at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, on March 5th, and it is necessary that the names of all contestants be in at least one month prior to the date of the contest. "Speeches must deal with political, social or economic subjects of current interest." All undergraduates are eligible for this contest. Graduate students who have not received academic degrees are also eligible. This will be the greatest contest in oratory that has ever been staged between Southern universities, and quite a bit of interest is already being manifested in it. It is expected that within the next few years this contest will be the greatest thing of its sort in the country.

All those desiring to enter the preliminary should hand their names to Grant of the Debating Council by midnight of January 20th.

The Southern Oratorical League is composed of the University of Kentucky, Johns Hopkins University, the University of Virginia, Vanderbilt University, the University of Tennessee, the University of Alabama, and the University of North Carolina.

The winner in the final contest at Lexington will be the recipient of a handsome award.

FIVE HUNDRED AND TEN STUDENTS IN ROMANCE DEPT.

The war has caused a marked increase of interest in the study of French and Spanish among students at the University of North Carolina, according to the annual report of Dr. T. J. Wilson, Jr., registrar. Five hundred and ten students during the fall term chose voluntarily to study the Romance languages, which is a larger number than ever before except last year during the S. A. T. C. regime when the study of French was obligatory. French now leads Spanish in about the ratio of four to one.

"The increased interest in the study of Romance languages," said Dr. W. M. Dey, head of the department, "is due not only to the cultural value but also to the importance of the languages as a commercial asset. The high water mark of the Romance language department before the war was reached in 1916-17 when 386 students enrolled for the study of French and Spanish. In the fall of 1917, despite (Continued on Page 2)

Old H. C. L. Hits Miss Swain Hall

Various and sundry reasons have been forthcoming as to the whys and wherefores of Swain Hall board elevating itself to the dignified position of $20 per month. It has caused much suffering, both in peace of mind and subtraction from the looked-forward-to allowance to be spent on chocolate shakes and Sim-Jim "Hot Dogs." On the other hand it has added one more asset in the form of a worth-while reason to the supply of reasons that is growing smaller and smaller with the passing months, why dad should make your monthly allowance just a few dollars more.

One would think at first, without having stopped to reflect, that old Aunt Mag had asked for a fifty cent increase per week, or that the baker had struck for more "dough"; or possibly the waiters had gone on a strike for more waiters.

On second thought one might attribute it to the fact that it was a matter of expedience on the part of the Swain Hall management to give better board in order that the sudden drop from Christmas turkey, North Carolina ham, real butter and plum pudding might be made less painful. But, yea verily, they have not considered us so kindly. They have thought for themselves most considerably.

The Auditor's report shows that both Swain Hall and University Inn cost money last fall, at which time eatables were cheaper than they are now. In view of the fact that many of the commodities have risen in price 25 per cent and more, together with the fact that money was lost last fall, it was only right for the management to increase the price of board for the coming quarter. This is done, however, with the assurance that the price will go down at the earliest possible date.

May the date be early, we do faithfully pray.

FANK BENNETT MAKER OF FOOTBALL HISTORY IS TEAM'S HOST

The victorious Carolina football team was entertained at a dinner at University Inn given in their honor by Frank Bennett, of Wadesboro, left tackle and star player on the 1898, '99, '00, and '01 teams. Mr. Bennett was unable to be present himself but so great was his interest in the team that he arranged for the dinner anyway.

Besides the letter men of the squad, including ex-Captain Coleman and Captain Harrell of next year's team, those present were President Chase, Dr. R. B. Lawson, trainer and medical adviser to the team, Prof. Billy Noble, and Graham Ramsey, the only one of the coaches now at Chapel Hill. In the center of the table were all the footballs used in the games this year, with scores and the participating players marked on them. Blue and white Carolina ribbons were stretched from ball to ball.

President Chase acted as toastmaster and talks were made by nearly all those present. President Chase himself paid a remarkable tribute to Head Coach Tommy Campbell, whom he characterized as one of the finest influences on the campus in many years. All of the players expressed the hope that Campbell would return next fall.

Call For Baseball Players To Be Issued at Early Date

The first call for baseball practice will be issued in three or four weeks. Coach Lourcey, who successfully trained the tossers of the horse-hide last season, is expected to reach the Hill at an early date. Many old members of last year's nine are back on the Hill, and there is an abundance of good material on the campus. "Wop" Feimster, who has played the keystone corner for three years, is captain of the 1920 team.

Among the letter men on the Hill are Younce, Roberts, Wilson, Joyner, Lewis, Milton, Llewellyn, and Kirkman. McLean, Sims, Sweetman, and McMillan will be eligible this year.

WINTER QUARTER OPENS WITH REGISTRATION PAST FOURTEEN HUNDRED MARK

TWO HUNDRED ABOVE ANY NUMBER HERE BEFORE IN SEVERAL YEARS

ONLY ONE CHANGE IN FACULTY

Phillips Hall is Rapidly Becoming Completed and Will Soon Be Ready for Use

The winter quarter of the University of North Carolina began January 5 after the longest Christmas holiday season University students have enjoyed in many years. Although classes were held on the 5th students were arriving all day long and the full attendance will not be on the Hill until today.

New students registering at the University today are expected to push the attendance figures from the 1,350 of the fall quarter well above the 1,400 mark. This will be more students actually in Chapel Hill by nearly 200 than have ever been here at any one time before. Incidentally, it will further crowd the already crowded University dormitories which during the fall held more students than they (Continued on Page 2)

U. S. Government Establishes Bureau of Education Here

President Chase announced last week that the United States bureau of Education has established a research station at the University with Dr. L. A. Williams, of the School of Education, as director, and that the University and the bureau of education would co-operate on research studies in educational problems, some of which will be published by the bureau and used widely in its educational work. Besides Dr. Williams, Dean M. C. S. Noble and Dr. Edgar W. Knight, of the School of Education, have been named as special collaborators, and all three of them, in addition to their work at the University, will become dollar-a-year men, working for the government.

The establishment of the research stations follows the adoption of a new policy by the bureau which will work jointly with several universities in investigating educational problems. The universities besides the University of North Carolina at which research stations have been placed are: Pennsylvania, Virginia, Iowa, Texas, and Minnesota.

With special assistance and co-operation from the national Bureau of Education the University School of Education will make investigations in such subjects as school organization and management, school budget making, and special problems of rural schools. This sort of work is being done now by the University but under the new plan it can be done easier and more effectively.

BR. BOOKER HAS ARTICLE ON "INDUSTRIAL PARTNERSHIP" IN JANUARY YALE REVIEW

In the January number of the Yale Review Dr. J. M. Booker has an interesting article on "Industrial Partnership." In this he points out that to bring about the new industrial era, the outstanding theme is the proposal to share with labor the control of industry. Profit-sharing has been helpful but it doesn't satisfy an intelligent man to give him the wherewithal to raise a thirst and a family, to take the latter to the movies six times a week, to sport a Sunday suit and a Ford. These things are only as oil to a machine. After giving him comfortable surroundings a man must have some way to release his creative energies, to satisfy his building instincts. It is no fun to be a hand-turner, but machinery has come to stay and the only thing to do is to harmonize the present system. Profit-sharing will not do it. There remains partnership, profit-sharing plus a voice in the control of the business. By this means there is a chance to satisfy the artisan's just and ancient pride in a whole thing built by himself.
