Plans for a Bigger University are Being Rapidly Perfected

A new era for the University now looms up for the future, and each year will see new buildings and improvements taking place on the campus. The officers of the University are sparing no efforts in pushing forward as rapidly as possible the expansion of the University. The money for the new dormitories is now in the hands of the Business Manager, and the State Architect is busily engaged on plans for various buildings that will make their appearance as soon as labor and material can be obtained. The plans of the ever-growing University do not end with the building of new dormitories and other necessary buildings, but take also into consideration the living conditions of the present old and time-worn buildings that are almost uninhabitable. They are to be remodeled both within and without, with the hopes of making them modern in very sense of the word.

With the coming expansion of the University the center of the campus will be materially changed, and plans are being thought out whereby the Administration Building will be placed nearer the center of the campus, probably near the location of the old South. An onlooker might not see in the present array of buildings any symmetry whatever, and probably there is none, but this is not to be true for ever. Some day in the not far distant future, the University of North Carolina will be the leading university of the South, in every respect. The present wooded land behind old South will present a beautiful array of new dormitories, athletic fields, club houses for our visiting teams, gymnasiums, swimming pools and tennis courts. The different schools that are now represented here will radiate from a common center, the Administration Building expanding further and further in every direction with the passing of the years.

With the growth of the University has come an ever greater demand for housing the faculty, and plans are now on foot for the construction of many new faculty homes, which will be built convenient to the campus. It is hoped that many of these can be completed by the beginning of next year.

The state has begun to realize more vividly than ever before our needs and our opportunities, and doubtless they will give in accordance with this new vision that they have for the future of this institution.

With Apologies to Pepsys

Up with reluctance, feeling somewhat under the weather from effect of last night's feed, where we had cut some onions and eaten them with a strange omelet served with salt. However, at once revived when Orner reported having taken (at the infirmary) six pills and a glass of salts within four hours. To psychology class where the fifteen most elect members reported seeing a box move which was nailed fast to a table. I perceive by janitor today that he hath seen the devil, for such weird tales he tells of purple curtains and red lights and unknown articles which he saw when cleaning up the Y. M. C. A. He being gone, I go to class, where the graven images on desks contrived marvelously to hinder me from writing. Thence did pass the English Sermon room where intellectual powers were enthusiastically discussing the latest jiggs, while waiting for the lecture on "Neglected Forms of Medieval Drama." Thence to supper and to room, where soon to bed triple-decked. Number two did call himself with exceedingly great conceit a chicken sandwich but piped down at once on being addressed as the coldest of hot-dogs.

DAVIE POPLAR BOLSTERED AGAINST FURTHER DECAY

EFFORTS BEING MADE TO SAVE
LIFE OF THE LANDMARK

As protection against the further ravages of time, the Davie Poplar is being capped with concrete to prevent internal decay and to enhance the value of the tree as an ornament. Following the suggestion of Dr. Coker, contract was let with the A. F. W. Vick Company, of Philadelphia, for the repairing and filling of the decayed hollow in the trunk of the old landmark. D. L. Poe, superintending tree surgeon, stated that work was expected to be completed by Saturday.

Calculations made by the University department of engineering disclosed the fact that should the original plan of pouring concrete into the trunk be followed, the tree would probably fall on account of displaced center of gravity. This plan was necessarily abandoned, it was stated, and a "wood filler," lighter than concrete, was proposed by the Vick Company.

After investigation of the interior fungi growth, however, Dr. Coker considered it advisable to merely place a cap on the top of the hollow bore. Dr. Coker, it was stated, explained that the decay was caused by a heartwood fungus, and that the nature of the growth was such that a new supporting layer would be added each year to supplant that lost through decay.

This concrete cap is being laid across the top at a point fifty feet from the ground, and the main trunk will be braced by two steel cables attached to nearby trees.

The tree surgeons estimated the age of the tree to be at the least 175 years. Tradition states that it was to this tree that Col. Wm. R. Davie tied his horse at the founding of the University site 126 years ago.

DOINGS OF THE KRAZY KLUB

The Krazy Klub held its regular meeting at one o'clock Monday morning. The Klub assembled with all members absent, and was asked to conduct itself disorderly by the second-assistant vice-president. After the disorder began an immediate motion for adjournment was called for by the president, who at the same time reminded the Klub that it was simply against the constitution for any member to vote, and that all members who did so would be fined. The motion carried so the Klub remained. After administering a thorough rebuff to the secretary for being present, the president called for the minutes of the meeting to come next week. Then the roll was called and every member present was fined for being absent.

The preliminary business being transplanted the Klub refused to listen to a dissertation by one not a member, who belongs to the Klub, in which he proved: 1st, that President Wilson has recovered because he no longer needs Lansing (spelled lancin); 2d, that the peace treaty is now illustrating the law of perpetual motion; 3d, President Wilson is now illustrating the law of falling bodies; 4th, a man having nothing to say should not talk. With this statement the gentleman discontinued his discourse.

The Klub decided not to adjourn, so everybody left resolved never to flunk any more courses after they had finished their education.

SNAP SHOTS

Our friend, the cynical Soph, remarks that the length of a co-ed's ambition is about six feet. The unfeeling brute!

The Dormitory Horseshoe League is now having its preliminary spring work-out. Excellent varsity prospects are numerous.

Contains more Turkish than any other
"Turkish blend" cigarette

YOU don't want too much Turkish tobacco in your cigarette. Most men find straight Turkish cigarettes too rich and heavy.

But you do want ENOUGH Turkish.

The extra large proportion of Turkish in Fatimas gives smokers that delicious Turkish taste. But blended with it is just the right selection of Domestic tobacco, carefully proportioned to offset entirely that over-riciness so characteristic of straight, unmixed Turkish.

That is why—even if a man smokes more Fatimas than usual—they leave him feeling just as he should feel—fine and fit for his work.

FATIMA
A Sensible Cigarette

The Real Thing
in Cigarette Packages

Smokers are beginning to realize that the fancy-colored, expensive pasteboard box is no longer the popular cigarette package.

At nearly all of the big fashionable clubs and hotels, as well as among those smokers who go to French Lick, to Atlantic City and Palm Beach, and even to Newport itself, the one package most frequently seen is this sensible "soft" yellow package that carries twenty Fatimas.
