SCHOOL OF COMMERCE OUTLINES PROGRAM

SERIES OF EIGHT LECTURES TO BE DELIVERED THIS SPRING

TO INCREASE NUMBER OF STAFF

New Branches of Work to Be Opened
Up to Students

The School of Commerce has planned a further extension of its work through a series of eight lectures to be delivered this spring. These lectures will be delivered by the representative business men of the state and of the nation. The series should have begun two weeks ago but has been delayed because of the influenza situation. Each lecture will deal with a separate and distinct business, and will be of interest to the student body at large, as well as the commercial students. A detailed announcement of the series will be given as soon as the flu situation permits of definite arrangements.

This department of the University is planning further development through the addition of two new men to its teaching staff. One of these men will have charge of business organization, etc.; the other will conduct courses in foreign trade, marketing and salesmanship. The dean of the school is now corresponding with two such men, and expects to have them here ready to take charge of this work next year.

The old physics laboratory room is being refitted as an accounting laboratory. This will not only enable the school to give a better and more satisfactory course in accounting, but also to serve a greater number of students desiring such a course. With these and other extensions the School of Commerce hopes to be able to offer special inducements to business students of the state and nation.

President Chase Outlines Program For New Buildings

On Monday morning in Chapel President Chase outlined and commented on the University building program for the benefit of the students. The students are showing a fine interest in this work, says the president, and I feel called upon to give them facts. We are now bending every effort towards the construction of two new dormitories and a laundry, but the plans of all state buildings must be prepared by the state architectural department, and this department is so congested at present that our buildings will be delayed much longer than we had thought. Finding this to be true and knowing the urgent need of rooming facilities we considered the erection of temporary buildings as a kind of emergency barracks, but upon looking into the cost of such buildings we found that at the present high price of building material it would cost four hundred dollars ($400) per student to construct these temporary buildings. This is more of the state's money than we feel justified in spending in this manner, so we are now trying to do two things:

1st. To hasten the building program in every possible way. Very little can be done in this direction until the plans have been drawn up.

2d. To find more rooms in town for students. In this way we have been comparatively successful, having found rooms for seventy-five or a hundred additional students.

When we do build the new dormitories we are going to build not only for the present, but also for the future. The new buildings will be buildings which we can take pride in ten or twenty years hence. They will be modern and up-to-date in every respect. In the meantime, let us take care of what we have, and thereby show the state that we deserve the new buildings which we are going to get.

Yes, Claude, the near-sighted Sophomore who registered for Zoology I instead of Geology I made a great mistake, a very great mistake indeed!

ALL-CLASS BASKET BALL TEAM PICKED

HOLDING, CUMMINS, COFFEY,
LITTLE AND MRUCHISON
FIRST CHOICE

An old basketball man, a good player who thoroughly knows the game and who has witnessed practically all the inter-class games, but who, on account of his relation to some of the players, has requested that his name be temporarily withheld, has given out the names of the players who, in his opinion, should compose the "Carolina all-class team."

"C" Holding, law, is first choice for a forward position with "Pat" Cummins closely following. While Holding has been criticised for individual playing, this was perhaps more the fault of his team-mates than of himself because his team never practised enough to develop any sort of team work.

"Pat" Cummins, Junior, was undoubtedly the mainstay of the championship team. His consistent floor work, accurate shooting, and generalship of the Junior team have stood out from the beginning of the season.

For substitute forward, there is little to choose between Boren, Sophomore, and Raper, Junior. Raper is the more sensational shot, but Boren

April 23d has been set as the date for the fifth annual high school tennis tournament and the eighth annual high school track meet, according to information received from E. R. Basketball contests for state high school championship will be conducted for the sixth time the champions of the east and the west meeting at a date yet to be determined. The victors in the past five contests have been: Winston-Salem High School, 1915; Durham High School, 1916; Winston-Salem High School, 1917; Durham High School, 1918; Winston-Salem High School, 1919.

DI SOCIETY DISCUSSES IMMIGRATION QUESTION

OF IMMIGRATION QUESTION

Last Saturday night, by an almost unanimous vote, a resolution that the Di Society should go on record as favoring the adoption of a policy by the United States of compelling every foreign immigrant, upon his entrance to this country, to take an oath that he will become an American citizen as soon as he is able to meet the qualifications was defeated. The usual open forum discussion was

MANLY SEMINAR -WAS GREAT SUCCESS

GIVES PUBLIC LECTURE IN GERRARD HALL

The English Seminar course on pre-Shakespeare drama is being conducted this week by Dr. J. M. Manly, head of the Department of English at the University of Chicago. Dr. Manly is a Southerner, born in Alabama, a graduate of Formans University, and now recognized as the greatest living authority on the drama. Greenlaw says so. As a speaker he has an attractive personality, a fine sense of humor, and conducts the seminar in an informal way with a group of about thirty members. As a writer Dr. Manly is a contributor to the Cambridge History of English Literature, the Encyclopedia Britannica, and various periodicals, among others being managing editor of Modern Philology. The subjects discussed in the seminar are: Neglected forms of medieval drama, miracle plays in England, creed plays and paternoster plays, and the shaping of English tragedy. For the students and townspeople who were not able to attend the seminar a public lecture was given Thursday on Shakespeare.

TAR HEEL ANNOUNCES ITS FAVORITE SEN. TICKET

Believing that it is interpreting the will of the campus in respect as to who shall hold the state offices for the next four years, the Tar Heel is publishing in this issue Carolina's favorite and all-state sons who have announced themselves as candidates for the State offices. The ticket as published in this issue is not complete, due to the fact that all of the candidates have not announced themselves as yet. Among the most prominent who have not definitely announced their candidacies but who will do so in the next issue of the Tar Heel are: Hon. William Stanly Bernard, Hon. Lee Raper; Hon. Robert Lawson, Hon. Cunningham Branson, Major-General Thomas J. Brown, of Brown's Army, Judge Brockwell, and Hon. E. R. Rankin. Politicians well posted, state that a combination is feared between the gubernatorial and Commissioner of Agriculture candidates. Gossip around Alumni 12, headquarters of Dud Carroll, indicates the possible contest of that office with the Right Honorable Horace Williams, member of the legislation from Perduck. When interviewed by a reporter last night, Booker, running mate of Pickard, stated that the platform of the party was Pike's Peak or Bust. The next issue of the Tar Heel is feverishly awaited for by the entire faculty and student body.

Dialectic Society Debaters Chosen

In the preliminaries held February 20th to select the Di Debaters for the coming inter-societal debates, F. A. Cresette and H. L. Kiser, with S. O. Bondurant as alternate, were chosen from the Sophomores, and S. C. Hunt and W. C. Mitchell, with J. G. Gullick as alternate, from the Freshmen. The other men out for the contest were I. W. Cashatt and A. W. Staley for the Sophomores and G. H. Lennon and R. L. Lankford for the Freshmen.

The final debates will be held on March 13th in the society halls. The query is, "Resolved, That Article X of the original League of Nations Covenant should be adopted without reservations or amendments by the United States." The Di Freshmen will uphold the affirmative of the proposition against the Phi Freshmen in the Di hall; and the Phi Sophomores will uphold the same side against the Di Sophomores in the Phi hall. Each affirmative remains in its own hall. These debates will take the place of the regular order of exercises in both societies on this night.

GARDNER MAKES PLEA FOR EDUCATION

DELIVERS STRONG PLEA FOR A GREATER NORTH CAROLINA

FOR IMMIGRATION RESTRICTION

Equality of Opportunity is True Conception of Industrial Democracy

Speaking to a full house composed of students and a few townspeople last Wednesday night in the Gerrard Hall, Lieut.-Gov. O. Max Gardner made a strong plea for "Life More Abundant for North Carolina."

"If I were called upon to write the platform of my party," said the speaker, "I would make the keynote ring with an expression of challenge for life—life more abundantly. Why do we spend money for education, social service, public health and better roads? Mainly to give the people of our state life more abundant."

Declaring that illiteracy is holding North Carolina back, Mr. Gardner gave figures showing the state of affairs and the small amount of money spent to remedy the matter. He said that many ballots of uneducated voters are cast in ignorance, and if we continue to neglect education of these people we cannot escape evil. The life of the average man is the barometer of the state, according to the speaker. Moon-light schools and the compulsory school law have done fine work, but the sons of Carolina must line up against the problem.

"It was ignorance which nailed Jesus Christ to the cross; Bolshevism is ignorance in flames. As sons of the University I ask you to take up the torch," continued the speaker.

Mr. Gardner stated that he was in favor of restricting immigration for five years, of imprisoning all undesirable, of full and effective enforcement of the compulsory school law, of Americanizing all citizens, and of giving every person his rights according to the constitution.

Faculty Committee Urges Students To Use Better English

The Faculty of the University urges the students to bear in mind the following points:

(1) They are expected to pay careful attention to their use of English not only in the courses in English but in all courses. They should apply to every piece of written work—every report, thesis, quiz, examination, etc.—the knowledge they have acquired through their training in English composition.

(2) Knowledge not applied is scarcely worth having. If the habit of writing correctly and effectively, acquired in Freshman English, is not maintained, much of the energy devoted to that course was waste energy. If a habit of slovenly thinking and slovenly writing is allowed to develop, the student will find that all his work in all his courses will suffer, and that when he leaves the University he will be unable to make the proper use of his education. The man who does not express himself intelligently is seriously handicapped, in college and out of it.

(3) A committee of the Faculty has been appointed to supervise the writing of students in all their courses. It will examine work done in any department, and will expect students whose use of English is habitually negligent to take the course known as English 2, a one-term course in composition, without credit. This course is intended to afford such students the training of which they have shown their need. Students will also be permitted to take this course voluntarily (without credit), on application to the committee, provided that the committee, after examining their work, believes that they need it. The initiative, in other words, may lie either with the committee or with the student.

(4) Students are freely invited to discuss their work with the chair-
