TRACK TEAM WINS STATE TRACK MEET: SCORES 52 POINTS

TRINITY 28 1-2, N. C. STATE 28,
DAVIDSON 25, AND WAKE
FOREST 17 1-2

MEET WAS LARGEST OF YEAR

Carolina's High Score Due To Her
Scoring in Every Event Except High Hurdles

Carolina literally "walked away" with the state track meet here Saturday, scoring 52 points to 28 1-2 for Trinity, 28 for N. C. State, 25 for Davidson and 17 1-2 for Wake Forest.

The meet is one of the largest of the year and arouses quite a bit of interest in all the institutions throughout the state. The most spectacular performance was the pole vault by Captain Spencer, Carolina's crack vaulter. After tying George Strong's record of 11 feet flat he easily cleared 2 inches higher and missed at 11 feet 5 inches by tipping off the bar with his hand after his body had cleared. The new state champion was eagerly cheered by the crowd. Hardin's good work in the 440, making it in 53 2-5 seconds, and Powell's mile in 4.47 were both noteworthy performances. The big individual scorer was Lawrence, of N. C. State, his total being 14 points.

Carolina's large score was due to her scoring in every event except the high hurdles, second, third and fourth places.

The events follow:
100 yard dash—Murray, Davidson; Heckman, Wake Forest; Love, Carolina; Edwards, Trinity. Time, 10 4-5 seconds.

Half mile—Kraft, A. and E.; Royall, Carolina; Ransom, Carolina; Lewis, Trinity. Time, 2:03 3-5.

220 low hurdles—Purrrington, Carolina; Hall, Wake Forest; Pell, A. and E.; Harrison, Trinity. Time, 28:3-5.

Shot put—Streibach, Davidson; Norris, Carolina; Lawrence, A. and E.; Nichols, Carolina. Distance, 39 feet 2 1-2 inches.

New Presbyterian Church Rapidly Nearing Completion

The new Presbyterian church is rapidly nearing completion, and will be finished by the first of June, is the prediction and hope of the pastor, Dr. W. D. Moss, who is very anxious to conduct services in this beautiful new edifice before the students leave for the summer vacation. For two years the townspeople and especially the students have watched with keen interest, the progress on this new house of worship, which is situated across from the campus, and they agree that the finished product was worth watching and waiting for.

This new church is the gift of Dr. James Sprunt, of Wilmington, and is given as a memorial to his wife. Dr. Sprunt, although not an alumnus of the University, holds the honorary title of L.L.D. from this institution, and is one of its most loyal and generous friends. Besides being a figure in the financial life of the state and nation, Dr. Sprunt has published two volumes on the history of North Carolina: "Chronicles of the Cape Fear River," and "Derelects," the latter having just come from the press and is dedicated to Dr. J. G. deR. Hamilton, Alumni Professor of History.

Due to the labor scarcity, inability to get materials, the death of the first contractor, and like troubles, the building has been for nearly two years in process of construction. But now as it is rapidly nearing completion it is quite an artistic addition to the village of Chapel Hill, already famous for its beauty. With its tall, slender steeple it is one of the outstanding landmarks. The church is built after the fashion of the famous old New England

Elisha Mitchell Society Holds Regular Meeting

The Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society held its regular meeting Tuesday night, May 4th. Two papers were presented before the society at this meeting. The first by Dr. DeB. MacNider on "Fat Content in Tissues At Different Age Periods." He explained that the kidneys of younger animals contained less fat than those of older animals, and that the kidney of an animal having Bright's disease contained more fat than they do normally. Anaesthetics, he further stated, sought out for their point of action the part containing greatest fat. Hence, the action of anaesthetics on the kidneys of an animal during Bright's disease is greater than at normal times.

The second paper was presented by Dr. A. W. Hobbs on "The Einstein Theory of Relativity." He explained with blackboard illustrations the relation between the old Mentonian Theory and the Einstein theory of relativity.

PLAYMAKERS PRESENT FOURTH SERIES PLAYS

With a most attractive stage setting showing one of the picturesque moonshine stills in operation at four o'clock in the morning, the comedy "Dod Gast Ye Both" opened the fourth series of the Carolina Playmakers. The most important piece of stage properties was of course the copper still borrowed from the authorities at Hillsboro for the occasion. It was returned with a record of good behavior though one attempt was made to carry away a part of it. George Denny as the old moonshiner with a marvelously rich vocabulary of expletives acted the part exceptionally well, a part in striking contrast by the way, to that of the preacher which he played last time. Miss Markham played the part of the moonshiner's beautiful daughter to perfection. She was perhaps the favorite character in the series.

"The Bell Buoy" was a very impressive tragedy, both in acting and in stage setting. All those taking part were experienced players and their work was first class. The whistling wind, the ringing of the bell buoy in the distance and other noises peculiar to the Atlantic Ocean gave the effect of a real storm.

"The Last of the Lowries" also a tragedy was featured by the superb acting of Miss Taylor in the part of the old mother of the Lowrie robbers. Though by no means limited to characters of this type, Miss Taylor's excellent work in similar parts in other plays will be remembered.

On May 7 the Playmakers are to repeat this series at Greensboro, this being the first trip to be made out in the state though there have been many calls received from other towns. Since the Hillsboro still has been returned it will be necessary to get another at Greensboro though this can be easily arranged.

Hodgin Wins in Peace Oratorical Contest Prelim.

In the elimination contest held April 30 in Di Hall, Mr. D. R. Hodgin was selected from a field of eight contestants to represent the University of North Carolina in the North Carolina Peace Oratorical contest to be held in High Point on Thursday night, May 6. C. T. Boyd was chosen alternate. Representatives from all of the colleges in the state will compete in the final contest. The first prize is $75 and the second prize $50. The following men spoke in the preliminary: D. R. Hodgin, "The Essential Foundations of World Peace;" C. T. Boyd, "The Problem of Peace;" B. C. Brown, "America's Greatest Contribution;" Townsend, "America—Her Opportunity and Her Duty;" J. S. Massenburg, "Peace, The Fruit of Nationalism;" Dan Byrd, "America and the New Diplomacy;" P. Hettleman, "Is Peace Possible?;" J. P. Washburne, "America's Opportunity." Dr. Pierson, Dr. Toy and Mr. Frank Orr judged the contest.

HORSEHIDE NINE LOSES TO QUAKERS BY 2 TO 1 SCORE

VARSITY PUTS UP BEST EXHIBITION OF SPRING FOR THE QUAKERS

LOSES GAME BY CLOSE SCORE

"Lefty" Wilson Strikes Out Seven of the Men Facing Him and Gives No Free Passes

The University of North Carolina baseball team, although losing by the close score of 2 to 1 on Franklin field, the playing pasture of University of Pennsylvania, the Tar Heels gave the Quakers a bad scare caused by absolutely the best exhibition put up by a visiting nine here thus far this spring. Lefty Wilson, save for permitting right fielder Meyers, of the home collegians, to connect for a homer into deep left in the sixth inning, pitched just as good ball as Huntzinger, the winner.

His strikeout record of seven with no free issues to first, made his work stand out most admirably for a small crowd of Tar Heel supporters who cheered at various times of the exciting match, which incidentally was played in one hour and twenty-four minutes, a record for college games in this section.

North Carolina collected two of their four hits in the ninth inning when Feimster, who got two for the visitors, hit, advanced on McLean's walk and scored when Llewellyn, batting for Sweetman, hit safely. Younce had an elegant chance to win the game with two still on the circuit but he flied for the conclusion

MATTHEW HALE SPEAKS COMMERCE STUDENTS

"The first big problem after the war was to decide whether this country should enter foreign trade," said Matthew Hale, president of the South Atlantic Maritime Corporation before the students of the School of Commerce in an address here last Tuesday night. Mr. Hale came here Tuesday morning to attend an educational conference relative to proper training for college men desiring to enter foreign trade.

Mr. Hale brought out the fact that since the Civil War, New York has handled practically all the exports and imports of the United States. He declared that the southern ports were the logical outlets for much of the manufactured products of this country, but that this business had never been developed because of the petty jealousy prevailing between the large southern cities. One of the first things that had to be done in developing the Maritime Corporation declared Mr. Hale was to get the five cities of Wilmington, Savannah, Charleston, Atlanta and Brunswick to pool their interests.

Another serious problem that the shipping company faced was the differential rates from the middle West to New York, which was a serious disadvantage to Southern ports. Before any shipping company could be a success an adequate cargo was necessary, so representatives from twenty-four states appealed to the Interstate Commerce Commission to repeal these differential rates. This was done and the next necessary step, according to Mr. Hale, was to get the Shipping Board to grant this corporation steel ships.

"We secured twelve steel steamers from the Shipping Board," said Mr. Hale, "and these ships are now operating from the Southern ports to Argentina, Cuba, Brazil, and Rio." The next problem was to arrange means to handle the products for shippers in different countries. To do this the South Atlantic Export Company was organized and it now has branches in twelve different countries to handle the products of

Carolina Fights Today In South Atlantic Meet

Yesterday and today the Carolina track team in charge of Coach Brown and Captain Spencer have been battling against Johns Hopkins University, Georgetown, Catholic University, Virginia, Washington and Lee, and V. P. I. for first places in the South Atlantic track meet which is being held at Blacksburg, Virginia.

The following men having been taken on the trip: Rand, Purrrington, Royall, Harden, Captain Spencer, P. J. Ransom, Nichols, Norris, Coach Brown is with the team and also Manager Everitt.

Rand made second place in the two mile run and third in the mile run in the state track meet held here last Saturday. Harden made first place in low hurdles, Spencer in pole vault, Ransom second place in mile run, and Nichols, javelin throw.

POLITICAL RED LETTER DAY MAY ELEVENTH

Class election day this year has been set for next Tuesday, May 11th, at two o'clock. These officers will be the officers who will head the classes for the next scholastic year—1920-1921. The senior class election will be held at Alumni 10 (old Physics lecture room); junior class in the Dialectic Society Hall; sophomore class in Chemistry Hall; freshman class in Gerrard Hall; pharmacy in Pharmacy Hall; law in Law Building, and medical in Medical Building.

At this same time an election for representative-at-large from the student body for membership on the Student Council will be held. The ballot boxes will be placed at the meeting places of the classes on Tuesday. This is a new plan the Student Council is putting into effect this year. Heretofore this member of the Council has been elected at the opening of the new school year, but for purposes of organizing the new Council and giving it an opportunity to meet with the old before it is inducted into power, this election is held this year.

Y. M. C. A. Advisory Board Chosen

The Y. M. C. A. advisory board, composed of representative men on the campus, at a meeting last Monday night made plans for Y. M. C. A. work next year and selected the heads of the various departments. The other members of the various departments will be picked within a short time and the machinery of the new cabinet fitted into working order before the end of this year. For these main departments the following men have been chosen:

Meetings, Chas. Phillips; Study, C. P. Spruill; Community, John Kerr; Campus, Wilbur Stout; Boys, Tom Wolfe; Extension, Daniel Grant; Freshmen, Bryant Brown; Finance, Frank Fells; Rural, C. E. Cashett; Negro, H. S. Boyce; Social, Grant and Griffith; Lyceum, H. E. Fulton, and Y. M. C. A. Campaign, Jess Erwin.

New Species of Ball Makes Appearance

A new game of baseball has made its appearance on the campus. A number of Captain Brown's athletic class are playing indoor baseball out of doors. All of the space available for baseball has been taken by the class and varsity teams, and in order to give a few of his class exercise in the afternoon he has organized a team to play in-door baseball out of doors.

The game is one which requires no gloves and the ball is large and soft. Very little space is used in playing on account of the fact that the ball cannot be hit very far beyond the infield. This is a new game in the list of Carolina athletic attractions and the success of the innovation is awaited with keen interest.

TRIANGULAR DEBATE TROPHY GOES TO THE CAROLINA DEBATERS

WINS FIRST SERIES OF DEBATES TO BE HELD WITH NEW TRIANGLE

JOHNS HOPKINS WINS, HERE

Defeats Washington and Lee, Washington and Lee New Triangle Member

By defeating Johns Hopkins at Lexington and Washington and Lee at Baltimore, while Hopkins was humbling Washington and Lee at Chapel Hill, the University of North Carolina won the first series of triangular debates to be held by these three institutions. At Baltimore, Carolina, represented by R. B. Gwyn and D. L. Grant, upheld the affirmative of the query, Resolved, That a system of universal military training for young men should be adopted by the United States, and by a unanimous decision of the judges, won from Washington and Lee represented by W. E. Smith and Carl A. Foss. At Lexington, the Hopkins affirmative, composed of Jno. A. Lewin and C. I. T. Gould, Jr., was defeated by T. C. Taylor and John H. Kerr, Jr., who defended the negative for Carolina. Large audiences heard both debates and every courtesy was extended to the visiting debaters.

At Chapel Hill, George Goetz and Joseph M. Berkowitz, speaking on the negative for Hopkins, won from J. G. Anderson and G. H. Barber of Washington and Lee by a unanimous vote. Prof. W. S. Bernard presided and W. H. Bobbitt acted as secretary. The judges were Prof. J. G. Hamilton, Prof. H. H. Williams, Prof. L. P. McGehee, Dr. George Howe, and Dr. L. R. Wilson. At the conclusion of the debate a reception was held for the visiting debaters, the judges and officers of the debate, the members of the

Bingham Amuses Large Audience In Gerrard Hall

Ralph Bingham tickled the funny bone of a large audience in Gerrard Hall last Wednesday night, May 5th for one complete hour and a half. From the time Mr. Bingham took the stage until he bid his audience good night he had the concentrated attention of each and every one in the house. Never did his program grow monotonous and all the time he had the audience completely in hand.

The program, as he said, was "humorous in spots," but, to be more accurate, it was "broke out" with humor. There were variations that permitted the roaring laughter to subside, but at these times the crowd was held spell bound. The program was in four parts.

First was monologue—in this the humorist showed the skill of a real artist. His "puns" flowed as freely as the gushing water. Never was he at loss for a good joke or pun, for as he said, "one suggested another."

The second part of the program—a "pianologue" was both interesting and amusing for the entire renditions were in one tune—the bell of one tune. The most popular of these was "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

The next part of the program was "with and on the violin. The selections were well chosen and received loud applause.

Before the last and final selection Mr. Bingham briefly but harshly denounced the "Reds" and impressed upon the audience the necessity of everyone being a one hundred per cent. man in these times. He told, needlessly so far, he had represented, that a man could entertain a crowd for one hour and thirty minutes with good, clean humor.

"The 'Possum Hunt in Georgia," was splendidly given. It was even better than his "Victor Record one."
