CAMPUS CABINET HAS DONE VALUABLE WORK

REORGANIZED FROM THE OLD GREATER COUNCIL COMPOSED OF NINE MEN

MEMBERS ELECTED BY STUDENTS

Work Done This Year, Though Quiet, Has Been of Valuable Service

The Campus Cabinet closed its work in the first year of its organization with an admirable record of success. Many things have been accomplished by the new organization that deserves universal praise from the student body and the University as a whole. The Campus Cabinet was formed from the old Greater Council for the purpose of doing constructive work in the University. The plan was to have the Cabinet open to suggestions and advice from the students concerning difficulties to be met and the needs that are evident about the campus and in the college. In its first year the plan was well carried out, and it is believed that in future years the Campus Cabinet will exist and thrive, continuing to do things for the betterment of the college.

The Campus Cabinet this year was composed of the following representative men: W. R. Wunsch, C. R. Spruill, C. L. Harrington, John Washburn, Edward Whitehead, John Kerr, J. S. Massenberg, J. A. McLean, C. R. Sumner, and W. V. Woodard. Each class and the professional school was represented, together with the Y. M. C. A. and the fraternities. These men were elected by the student body, while the officers are elected by the Cabinet itself. The officers of the Cabinet for the past year were C. P. Spruill, president, and J. S. Massenberg, secretary.

One of the first things that the Campus Cabinet did during the closing school year was the appointment of a committee of each dormitory, whose duty it was to look after the general welfare of the men rooming in the dormitories. This meant that the old embarrassments of no lights in the hall, broken windows, poor janitor service, etc., were to an extent abolished and a new comfort in the dormitories appeared as a result. It was the work of the Cabinet also to head the inter-mural

Capt. Boye Announces 1920 Basketball Plans

Plans for the 1920-21 basketball season have assumed definite shape and provide for the fastest and most ambitious schedule yet played, according to announcements made public yesterday by Coach Boye.

It is planned by the coach to take material for two complete teams and by alternating these teams it will be possible to play every night on the trip thus saving time and permitting the schedule to embrace more games. Decision as to the date of departure has not been made definitely but it was announced that the trip would start on January 24 or February 3, depending on the schedule of the teams first encountered, and that the team would meet Virginia, V. M. I., Georgetown, Catholic University, Navy at Annapolis, Army at West Point, and either Princeton or N. Y. U. The state trip will consume the remaining nights with the following schedule:

Elon at Greensboro, Guilford at Greensboro, Davidson at Charlotte, and the usual games with Trinity and A. & E.

Coach Boye stated that a tour of the south, playing Y. M. C. A. teams in three southern states was being contemplated and would be made during the Christmas holidays if the teams would signify its willingness to do so.

The following men have shown definite varsity material for the coming season and will in all probability compose the two teams: Shepard, W. D. Carmichael, Hanby Carmichael, Lipfert, Douglas, Morris, Rourke, Anderson, Erwin, Griffith, Brown, McDonald.

Carolina Alumni Recently Promoted

That Carolina men are leaders in the professional world as well as in other various fields of endeavor, evidence is again given through the announcement of the promotion of Mr. W. B. Ellis, Jr., of the class of 1911, to the managership of the Greenville Branch of the Southern Utilities Company. Mr. Ellis, a native of Winston-Salem, graduated in 1911 from the engineering department of the University, and began his career in the commercial department at the Winston-Salem Branch in 1914, following a two-year training course in the shops of the General Electric Company, at Lynn, Mass. Upon the outbreak of war Mr. Ellis, then manager of the commercial department at Winston-Salem, entered war work, going with the Emergency Fleet Corporation in a responsible capacity.

In the May issue of the Baltimore Gas and Electric News is an article on Baltimore's industrial progress as indicated by its power activities, by M. N. Oates, also an old Carolina man, of the class of 1914. Oates is also engaged in engineering work and is associated with the Baltimore Gas and Electric Company.

Mikado Is Enjoyed By Large Audience

Brilliant success marked the presentation of the well known opera, "The Mikado," by Carolina musical and dramatic talent, in Memorial Hall Friday night of last week. An audience of students and townspeople that practically filled Memorial Hall was delighted in every respect with the entertainment, and registered applause after applause during the course of the presentation. From the time the opera began till the time the curtain was dropped for the last time not a single hitch nor break occurred in the movements of the play. Much credit is due to the entire organization, and especially to Professor Weaver whose masterful training of the Carolina talent made the popular opera a success.

"Jimmie" Howell as Nanki Poo was opposite Miss Aline Hughes as Yum Yum, and both these amateur artists were at their best delighting thoroughly with their songs and lines. But it was the same with all the leading characters of the play. LeGrande Everett as Poo Bah, the man of many offices, and George Hunt as Pish Tish, were unusually good, and the songs of the former proved a real favorite of the opera. Charles Nichols played as "Mikado" with real expression. But possibly the real life and zest of the opera, and that person who never failed to delight with a single line, was Isaac Newman, who so cleverly portrayed the very difficult part of Ko-Ko, that amusing little "chief executioner." A chorus of school girls, made up by the Carolina co-eds, appearing in a gorgeous array of costumes, and a chorus of Nobles, Guards, and Coolies, some of Carolina's best singers and Glee Club artists, pleased with their merry songs.

"The Mikado" is a pleasing and amusing opera, sparkling with wit through with clever wit, and built on a comic plot. The story opened with the chorus of nobles, guards, and coolies appearing and stating the setting of the play. Then Nanki-Poo makes his appearance, the disguised son of the king, Mikado, who is in love with Yum Yum, a very beautiful little girl, whose guardian is Ko-Ko, who wants her for himself. Ko-Ko is the chief executioner, and he is in search of someone to execute since the king has warned him that the office will be abolished unless it comes to some use. Ko-Ko's right hand man is Poo-Bah, whom he has endowed with many offices, and these two conspire with their dirty work. Ko-Ko promises Nanki-Poo the hand of Yum Yum if he will consent to his death in a month, in order that the office of chief executioner might still exist. The opera ends with a revelation of whom Nanki-Poo really is with the appearance of Mikado, and Ko-Ko is forced to marry Katish, a very ugly and undesirable creature who had set suit against Nanki-Poo in the early part of the play, for coquetry with her.

DR. CHASE ADDRESSES STUDENTS IN CHAPEL

In Short Talk Before Student Body For This Year He Urges Them To Remember Two Things

President Chase in his last talk before the student body for this year urged them to remember two things during this summer vacation. The first of these in Dr. Chase's words was: "Remember that a Carolina man is not only a Carolina man for nine months but for twelve months. And wherever he goes people are going to judge what Carolina is by what you are and what you do. People don't get you in nine months but they find you out in the three months you are at home." "Further," he added, "if U. N. C. makes good men people judge it as a good place. Your conduct is going to be judged as the community from which you come. Second: 'I want every man to come back in the fall with fixed determination that he is going to be a bigger and better man next June than he is this June. I want him to remember that life is full of infinite possibilities and whatever he has done here he can redeem himself in the eyes of the students. So,' he continued, "I want next year to be a growth to each student intellectually, morally, and spiritually. Don't set back on any little achievement that has been yours and let others bear the burden. Don't be content with any success you have made except that that success shall be built bigger and better."

TUESDAY NIGHT BRINGS END TO SENIOR MEETINGS

The first meeting of the seniors around Davie Poplar took place on Friday night, May 28th. The first two meetings had been arranged for the preceding Monday and Wednesday nights, but on account of the weather they had to be postponed. At the first meeting nearly all the seniors were present. Johnny Booker entertained the seniors with a snappy talk, after which smokes were passed around. The co-eds, of course, took a whiff. On Sunday night the second meeting took place. At this meeting, on account of the absence of Dr. Wilson, Wild Bill Neal, one of his most brilliant pupils, willingly and effectively took his place with a short talk. His talk was followed by one by Nat Mobley asking for the resignation of the acting president, J. P. Washburn, on account of drunkenness and disorderly conduct on Sunday morning. The distinguished president manifested his willingness to accede to the request of Mr. Mobley by delivering an impromptu, very impromptu indeed, address of resignation. Ben Cone then took charge of the meeting. Dr. Chase made a very interesting and vital talk to the class, reviewing the things the class had done, and expressing his belief in the ability of the class to accomplish things out in life, "for after all it is the same game," he said. On Monday night the third meeting was held, at which Dr. L. R. Wilson addressed the class, pointing out the task and duty of the members as alumni and alumnae and what the class could mean towards the development of a greater University. Dr. Chase supplemented this with a few remarks.

On Tuesday night the last meeting of the seniors around Davie Poplar took place. The spirit of good fellowship ruled supreme. All prejudice and misunderstandings, all sorrows and regrets, were cast aside, and they were as one in spirit. That spirit was a spirit of love for their Alma Mater which had faithfully sheltered and trained them for four long years. Theirs was the sorrow of parting, of facing life in a new world. Dr. Moss and Professor Hibbard sustained their reputations with their usual thoughtful and beneficial talks.

Dr. Patterson gave a telescope lecture on astronomy on Monday night on the roof of the Phillips building.

Tar Baby to Appear During the Summer

Notice has just been given out that the Tar Baby will be issued this summer, five issues to appear. This announcement came from the Board of editors after a number of requests had been received by them for the continuance of the publication the year round. The Business Manager requests that the summer address be left by the students desiring the summer issues of the Tar Baby.

The Carolina humorous publication has achieved much note and success in its first year, and has built up an enviable list of subscribers together with a big advertising patronage. The issues for the year have been very clever, and the Tar Baby has gained many enthusiastic admirers not only here in the University but all over the south. It has been sold in newsstands and on trains in all the adjoining states, and everywhere it has been met with sincere admiration. The Tar Baby is believed to be a fixture as a Carolina publication, and the editors are wished success in their vacation venture of the Tar Baby in the summer as well as winter.

N. C. Club Discusses Civic Organizations

The North Carolina Club held its last meeting of the year Monday night, with W. E. Price in charge of the program. Mr. Price made an interesting and elaborate report on "Civic Organizations."

He began by showing the remarkably rapid growth of industrial towns and cities in the State during the last two decades. Instead of a rural population of over 79 per cent which he had in 1910 we have a network of industrial towns which have sprung up almost over night and several large cities. The tide has been flowing from the country to the town in North Carolina until our state has become the best industrially developed state in the south. Under the pressure of the new flood of population the old loose organizations and customs of town life have proved entirely inadequate and inefficient. Civic organization has become a new problem.

After pointing out the defects of the present systems of civic government and customs he submitted several proposals for the re-organization of the town and city. For the city of 5,000 or over he advocated the commission-manager form of government and proposed that the city should maintain service bodies to take accurate records of the city's condition, needs, and possible and probable growth, and that measures providing for these needs be taken, and that the city should take into its hands the provision of those things that are essential to the health of its citizens.

For towns less than 5,000 he proposed similar measures to those for the cities with the additional proposal that the town undertake a definite work of co-ordination between the economic, social and institutional life of its own small group of people in the surrounding countryside.

After Mr. Price's discussion, Dr. Branson outlined the plans for the department of social science or public welfare that is to be established at the University this year, and showed the great service that it with the department of rural economics and sociology will render to the State.

Campus Cabinet Officers For 1920-21 Chosen

At the first regular meeting of the new Campus Cabinet for next year, John Kerr was elected president and Allen McGee secretary. The following men compose the cabinet for next year: John Kerr, Allen McGee, W. R. Berryhill, W. R. Wunsch, M. W. Nash, Morris McDonald, C. Holding, and one member to be elected by the professional classes and from next year's freshman class.

C. Holding was elected president and Billy Carmichael secretary of the Pan-Hellenic Council at a meeting of the Council Monday night for the year 1920-21. A year of achievement and progress is looked forward to.

COMMITTEE REPORTS ON STUDENT OPINION

QUESTIONNAIRE GIVES OPINION AS TO WHAT STUDENTS WANT IN BUILDING

TOTAL OF 531 VOTES ARE CAST

Committee Renders Report Based On Desire of Students Expressed Through Ballots

The results of the questionnaire for the purpose of gathering up the opinion of the student body in regard to the Graham Memorial Building were as follows:

Out of 531 votes cast—
401 were unreservedly for the plan.

130 voted for or against with reservations.

The minor reservations were:

(1) 56 for an auditorium being included.

(2) 39 for the societies being put into the building.

(3) 35 against so-called supervision of hostess room.

(4) 19 against any hostess room whatsoever.

(5) 7 against bowling alleys.

(6) 7 against billiard rooms.

(7) 5 against barber shops.

(8) 4 against cafeteria.

The student committee under the chairmanship of Oliver Rand after the tabulation of the votes drew up the following report to be sent to the central committee:

The student committee appointed a draw of suggestions as to what form the Graham Memorial Building should take submits to the central committee the wishes of the student body as indicated by the outline questionnaire and the vote taken thereon.

The task of the committee was one primarily for selection, and the features of the building indicated are not the only ones which the student body wishes incorporated but those which should take precedence over any others.

The committee heartily endorses the need of an adequate auditorium and, on the other hand, as heartily condemns any suggestion for an inadequate and ill-equipped one which will not supply both present and future needs and to incorporate an adequate auditorium would mean the exclusion of other features more desirable. The committee favors an adequate auditorium only. If it can be incorporated in addition and not to the exclusion of other activities

N. C. Letter Men Organize a Club

The N. C. Club, consisted of the wearers of the N. C., is the newest organization on the Hill. The object of the N. C. Club is to work the campus thoroughly and get men out for sports. The object is to make every man come out for at least one branch of athletics, to find out his ability in certain lines, and to make an athlete of him. The predominating idea is to raise the scholarship in athletics. All N. C. letter men have been delegated to induce high school athletes who will come up to the standard of Carolina scholarship and sportsmanship to come to the University when they finish high school. After the letters for track, baseball, basketball, tennis and gymnasium have been awarded at a mass meeting of the student body to be held during the week there will be a final meeting of the N. C. Club for this collegiate year. At this meeting resolutions expressing the purpose of the N. C. Club will be adopted. More men are especially urged to participate in the University's athletics and raise the standard of our athletics. Money or the lack of money is no longer a set back. An increased athletic fee is the remedy for this, and that will be asked for next year. Athletics of every phase will be a part of the University Bureau of Extension.

At the first meeting of the N. C. Club Beemer Harrell was elected president and Dr. Mangum, secretary and treasurer. The main idea of the club, as aforesaid, is the concentration of effort to develop physical education.
