THE GRADUATE SCHOOL RECENTLY ORGANIZED HOLDS FIRST SMOKER

DR. HANFORD DISCUSSES RESEARCH WORK DONE ON MILTON MANUSCRIPTS

BULLETIN WILL BE PUBLISHED

The chief feature of the first meeting of the newly-organized Graduate Club of the University of North Carolina was a talk by Dr. James H. Hanford on "Research Methods Applied to Milton Manuscripts." Dr. Hanford, in introducing his subject said that perhaps some more suitable title could have been found as "Innocent Adventures in Milton's Handwriting"; "One Way to Forget that the Country is Dry"; or, better still, "New Facts Distilled From Old Documents".

While spending a vacation at Harvard several years ago, Dr. Hanford became interested in a fac simile notebook, kept by Milton. This contained notes of Milton's reading, from his early days at Horton, throughout his later life. Hoping to throw new light on some of the Miltonian mysteries, Dr. Hanford undertook a long and critical study of this "Common Place Book," and all other specimens of Milton's handwriting that he could find.

Certain changes in the handwriting enabled him to arrange the notes in chronological order. When this had been done it was found that Milton had followed a systematic course of reading that took him through late Greek History, Roman History, The Church Fathers, The Italian Poets, English History, and French and Continental History. Aother important conclusions were reached but they were too complex to go until a later time.

The refreshment committee then served smokes and candies. The new constitution was read and adopted. This provided that all members of the faculty and of the graduate school are eligible to membership in the Graduate Club. They are cordially invited and urged to join. It is hoped to enroll every resident graduate student in this, their own, club.

A bulletin, descriptive of the Graduate Club and its activities, and carrying abstracts of the speeches made at its meetings will be published annually.

ORANGE VOTERS DO RIGHT THING BY LARGE MAJORITY

PROFESSORS' WIVES AND DUSKY BELLES VOTE FOR FIRST TIME

Orange county put the nation at large to shame at the polls Tuesday when it totaled up a Democratic majority of over 200! Only two Republicans obtained office through this election and one of them was Constable Ivey, of Carboro, who had no opponents. No Socialists, Farmer-Laborites, Prohibitionists, or other nuisances were elected.

Several unique sights were witnessed at the polls as the fair sex voted for the first time. Certain professors' wives, it is asserted voted for Cox while their worse halves cast their ballots for the Republican nominee. A couple of students voting for the first time in their young lives are said to have been obliged to seek assistance in solving the mysteries of the Australian ballot. Three dusky females are known to have voted the straight Republican ticket while their husbands wisely stayed at home and didn't vote at all.

Taken as a whole, no disturbances, wholesale challengings, or hard feeling marked the local event. The equinoxial showers of Tuesday failed to dampen the ardor of the voters and voterettes. Harding will go to the White House in March, Cox won't, and Eugene V. Debs will spend the spring at his Atlanta home.

SIXTEEN MEN SELECTED FOR VARSITY TOURNAMENT

In the finals of the class tennis tournament Hester came out victorious from the seniors, White from the juniors, Bell from the sophomores, and Barden from the freshmen. Only two sets were required to decide the victors in each of the class matches, and in this number only two deuce sets were played.

For the freshmen Barden won one love set from McCollum but played the deuce, winning 7-5. Bell conquered Coombs easily, in the sophomore run, 6-2, 6-2. Hester won the first set from Erwin by the score of 6-1, but Erwin tightened in the second set, losing 7-5.

Four men have been selected from each class to participate in the varsity tournament, which is scheduled to start today. The men selected are as follows: Seniors—J. H. Erwin, Jr., Waverly Hester, R. S. Shore, F. P. Brooks; juniors—R. B. White, J. N. Brand, Jr., J. F. Hendron, Jr., F. J. Peacock; sophomores—R. P. Bell, Z. F. Long, J. J. Coombs, S. F. Menzies; freshmen—Chas. E. McCollum, J. M. Barden, J. M. Gregg, J. V. Ambler; law—Chas. F. Nichols; Med.—N. A. Fox. Former varsity men are also eligible for the tournament.

FRESHMEN LEAVE TO JUNIORS SMALL END OF 7 TO 0 SCORE

PASS TO GRAVES ON JUNIOR'S FIVE-YARD LINE GIVES SCORE

Although Captain "Bill" Hester, of the junior class football aggregation, and his ten formidable teammates, made it decidedly interesting for the scrub first year reserve team, presented as the freshman class team, the latter eleven emerged victorious in the contest Monday afternoon, holding the larger end of a 7-0 score.

The touchdown and goal from placement that netted the first-year men the victory came in the first quarter, when Graves caught a long forward pass on the junior's five-yard line, and raced across the goal line for six of the points. The freshmen kicked goal.

MRS. G. A. HARRER RENDERS VOCAL PROGRAM IN CHAPEL

SINGING OF PROFESSOR'S WIFE DELIGHTS STUDENTS WEDNESDAY MORNING

Following out the Y. M. C. A.'s program of having music at Chapel exercises once a week, Wednesday morning, Nov. 3d, Mrs. G. A. Harrer, of the Chapel Hill community, and wife of Professor Harrer, rendered a most enjoyable vocal program. Mrs. Harrer sang: "Chanson Florens," Stultz's "Sweetest Story Ever Told," Kipling's poem "Mother O'Mine" and Kipling's "Tours."

She was most enthusiastically received by members of the freshman class and by upper-classmen who crowded the windows and the back part of the Chapel.

Lip sticks, mobile eyes and winning ways have supplanted the fountain pen, midnight oil lamp and text books and California girls, noted for their beauty, are winning their class marks at the University of California with these substitutes.

Thus charges the Daily California the student paper at the big school. The paper declares that certain of our unbearded instructors are still susceptible to feminine charms, and adds that the co-eds, the sorority sisters, are aware of this fact. And because of their famed beauty the California girls are easily winning their degrees. The student paper has opened a vigorous campaign against the "vamping" of the professors.

MERRIMON KENNY SUCCUMBS AFTER ILLNESS AT INFIRMARY

FORMER UNIVERSITY STUDENT DIES FROM PNEUMONIA FOLLOWING OTHER DISEASES

After a critical illness of two weeks at the University Infirmary during which he has several times been at the point of death, Augustus S. Merrimon Kenney, of Salisbury, a student at the University last year and a son of the late John B. Kenney and of Mrs. Margaret Merrimon Kenney, died Tuesday morning shortly after noon. Pneumonia, which followed a complication of diseases, was the immediate cause of his death. He was unconscious for the last few hours and died quietly in his mother's arms.

The body was taken from the Infirmary Tuesday to the Kappa Sigma Fraternity Hall, of which he was a member, and Wednesday morning it was taken to Raleigh for burial. The funeral services were held at Christ Church at 4 o'clock. All the members of his fraternity were present in a body as well as other representatives of the University and his college friends acted as pallbearers.

Young Kenney, who was in the employ of Liggett and Myers Company, came to Chapel Hill on a business trip three weeks ago. He was stricken with influenza, which later developed into an inflammation of the brain and was diagnosed as a form of sleeping sickness. Several physicians were in attendance on the patient who was seriously ill from the first. At one stage of the illness he became so weak that blood transfusion was tried, several University students offering their blood for him.

He rallied temporarily but was still in a weakened condition when pneumonia set in. His mother, Mrs. Margaret Kenney, was in constant attendance during his last illness as were also his cousin, Mrs. Edwin C. Gregory, and his aunt, Mrs. Lee S. Overman, both of Salisbury, and his uncle, Mr. William Merrimon, of Greensboro. Another cousin, Lee Overma Gregory, is a student in the University.

Merrimon Kenney was born in Raleigh in 1898 and would have been 22 years old in December. He was a grandson of the late Chief Justice Merrimon. He lived most of his early life in Raleigh and Salisbury and attended Horner School in Charlotte. He was at the University two years, one as a student in the S. A. T. C., where he was a member of the Marine Training Unit.

DEVEREAUX PLAYERS WILL PRESENT SERIES OF PLAYS

PLAYERS TO APPEAR IN CHAPEL HILL ON NOVEMBER 19TH AND 20TH

The Clifford Devereux players have been billed by Professor Koch to produce a series of plays here. Three performances, two evenings and one matinee, November 19th and 20th, 1920, is what the contract calls for. The following plays will be produced: Her Husband's Wife, by A. E. Thomas, the first night; Kitchen scene from "Twelfth Night"; Screen Scene from Sheridan's "School for Scandal" and "The Boar," by Tchekoff, matinee; and "Ghosts", by Ibsen, the last night.

Mr. Devereux has been producing drama for the past seven years, a few of his productions being "Twelfth Night," "Comedy of Errors," "Romeo and Juliet," by Shakespeare; "The School for Scandal" and "The Critic," by Sheridan; "Arms and the Man," by Bernard Shaw; and "The Tents of the Arabs," by Lord Dansany. Mr. Devereux has succeeded admirably in bringing the older plays to the present-day audience in a manner that is intelligible and interesting to all classes of people.

In these performances Mr. Devereux is ably supported by a representative company including Miss Zinita Graf. Miss Graf has played many parts and is one of the most interesting and conspicuous figures upon the American stage. The company

STUDENTS SOBERLY RECEIVE NEWS OF FAVORITE'S DEFEAT

DEBS BACKERS DISHEARTENED

The Department of Electrical Engineering came to the rescue Tuesday night and gave us the returns from the election. From the expressions and smothered ejaculations of most of the earnest number who stuck it out until the morning hours—mourning hours to a chosen few—it can be said that the joy market showed considerable evidence of the "bears." After a few of the non-indicative returns had come in, there was what may be called democratic species; but by 9 o'clock it was not talking above a whisper, and by ten, it had developed a doleful wheeze.

During a lull in the opining and concessions, some hopeful democrat leaned over and said in an awful whisper: "I concede Rhode Island to Harding." Another brother explained the mystifying returns from the 30 reported precincts of Virginia, giving a republican majority by remarking that the Old Dominion state had evidently become lax in their immigration laws. Then there was a time "When the silence 'ung so 'eavy you was 'alf afraid to speak" and a son-of-democracy, being so potimistic that he would have answered the "Are we downhearted" lead with no ambiguous vociferation, told how the candidate in his county had given an organ to every church in the county, thereby "organizing" the place. . . . There were those who wished there had been more "organization."

At midnight Missouri stood, by the report, democratic by 101, being 101 reasons why Cox should be elected, but in no wise explained satisfactorily just why there were only 187 democrats to cast ballots in the city of St. Louis. One brother—political affiliation unknown—remarked that he thought there ought to be more preachers in town than that. This same apostle, when the million majority was estimated, introduced a movement to send missionaries to New York state. . . . Another was greatly alarmed at the republican gains in South Carolina, when the reports came in that there had been 121 republican votes cast in that state. He recalled the time when a republican had run for sheriff in one of the

STATE FORESTER WORKS ON FIRE PREVENTION IN WEST

FORESTER AND ASSISTANT HOLD MEETINGS IN ASHEVILLE AND LINVILLE

State Forester J. S. Holmes and assistant Forester D. W. Clark, of the North Carolina Geological and Economic Survey, have been in the Western part of the state this week holding meetings at Asheville and Linville with lumbermen and landowners to work out plans for co-operative forest fire protection work between the Geological Survey and the landowners. Mrs. Clark, who has recently been added to the staff of the Forestry Department of the Geological Survey will give practically all of his time to fire protective work with the hope that the enormous loss from forest fires, which has been well over a million dollars annually for the past few years, may be greatly reduced.

Before his return to Chapel Hill, State Forester Holmes will stop over at China Grove, where he will give an illustrated lecture on Forestry, Nov. 5th, at the high school of this place. This lecture, coming at the close of the Arbor Day exercises of this school, will add emphasis to the demonstrations in tree planting and care given that day.

CAROLINA TO MEET VICTORIOUS V. M. I. ELEVEN TOMORROW

HEAD COACH FULLER PUTTING SQUAD THROUGH A STRENUOUS TRAINING

V. M. I. HAS SPLENDID RECORD

Head Coach Fuller has been putting the Carolina football squad through a strenuous special training to meet the heavy attack that the Virginia Military Institute eleven will make here Saturday. The game has been looked forward to all season as probably Carolina's hardest contest, and the very stiffest of practices have been held this week.

V. M. I. comes here with a much better record than Carolina can show, and consequently the odds are several times with the Cadets. With an eleven that defeated Pennsylvania, N. C. State, and Virginia, decisively, and all the teams met so far this season, the Virginians have good reasons to expect a victory over Carolina. Stewart and Leech are football players of the highest type, fast and fighting, and both have proven terrors against all opponents this season.

To meet the Cadet's fast, open game, sure to be used, Coaches Fuller and Hite have been paying special attention to training two good defensive ends. Morris, a lineman, and Griffith, a halfback, have been playing ends in the practice games this week, and have showed flashes of form. What Fuller has been trying to do is to develop two fighting, slashing, flanksmen—men that can handle heavy interference.

As a result of the shifting this week Cochran, a veteran end of last season may warm the bench at the beginning of the game. It is generally believed, however, that before the game is in progress long, Cochran will be in the game, for he is too good a man to remain idle. Crayton, Liipfert, Woodall and Kernodle, may get a chance to play, too, before the game is over.

The other positions will be practically the same as heretofore. Lowe will be back in the game and McDonald will play quarter, since Pharr is still on crutches. Hutchins will be in one of the halfback positions and Spaugh and Tenney, if well, will fill the other halves.

CHAPEL HILLIANS HOLD VAST CELEBRATION TUESDAY NIGHT

RIVAL CAMPS HOLD MEETINGS PRECEDING COUNT OF VOTES

'Tis over. Silence reigns along the highways and thoroughfares that once resounded to the din and utter confusion of a monstrous and indescribable parade. We have reference to that stupefying demonstration that the playful youth of Chapel Hill on Monday night gave in honor of the then approaching election.

Forgive ye humble reporter, O reader, if as he comes to describe a scene that left his mind dazed and under a dew—we say forgive him should he be compelled to pause and scratch his head and sharpen his pencil ere he begin his monumental task.

But to begin: It was towards seven o'clock in the evening when the dusk began to settle over the serenely peaceful little town of Chapel Hill. The respective campaign managers had arranged in secret that the monster parade should begin on the first step of the P. O. and should march with one torch full high advanced (it was deemed expedient for the sake of economy not to light it until they were well into the heart of the town) and flaked on either side by two attractive little girls wearing lovely rose-colored tulle and combustible smocks. The first plan included the carrying noise making in case the partisans of by one of these of a cow bell for
