LOMAX.

Out of the entire lecture programme of last year it would be difficult to say what one had the greatest value to the students of the University but it would not be hard to choose from the programme the lecture which most completely captured the imagination and interest of the student body. That distinction would go with little contention to John A. Lomax who made such a hit with his "Cowboy Songs and Ballads."

We have a very vivid memory of standing at the back of Gerrard Hall with the uninteresting backs of many many heads between us and the speaker and listening with rapt attention to the voice of the man we could not see—reading, chanting, and singing the songs of the cowboy himself. All of us who have known the audiences that turn out for the lecturers brought to the University, can appreciate the wonder of the man who could hold an audience crowded all over the house from the open downstairs windows to the balcony rails. Lomax held that crowd, and they left reluctantly when he had finished.

He is coming to us again. This year he will read and sing "Negro Spirituals and Other Songs of the Negro Race." By reputation these are even more interesting than the cowboy songs.

The lecture will be one of the most entertaining of the year and the fact that no admittance will be charged will do much to crowd the hall. Every man who has heard Lomax before will be there and those who have not heard him will do well to take advantage of this opportunity next Friday night.

TAR BABY INC.

Without anything definite having been done as yet, we understand that the Tar Baby Inc. is taking steps to secure a student editorial board composed of some of the best men on the campus in the field of literary activity. Such a thing would perhaps mean a very essential improvement in the very sad magazine of purloined smuttiness supposedly published in Chapel Hill by students of the University of North Carolina, but any such move would be insufficient unless accompanied by a like improvement in the business matters of the publication.

It is a very dangerous thing, this entrance of University students into the activities of the Tar Baby. In the first place they cannot conscientiously enter the work as students of the University since the magazine has been declared by University officials to be in no way connected with Carolina. These men by joining the literary board of one of the most despicable of all published papers in America would cause a connection, utterly untrue, to arise in the mind of little informed persons, between the University and a cheap scurrilous magazine with an editorial board composed of Carolina men.

It would be an excellent thing if the Tar Baby could make of their very questionable business management one worthy of the trust of the University and the State. And with this the proper time will come for Carolina men of literary ability to make of its filthy pages the place of wholesome wit and humor. But today when the publication is well without the pale of decency University men would do well to watch their step lest they get their feet muddy.

AT THE PICKWICK

Mother love, idealized, glorified and immortalized, is the theme of "The Sage Hen," the Edgar Lewis-Pathe feature which will be shown at the "Pick" on Tuesday evening. This photoplay contains a depth of emotion and a breadth of appeal, the action taking place in the old West when the world's adventurers—the best and the worst—flocked to its hills in answer to the lure of gold. The lawlessness of those frontier days, a woman's struggle against unjust and malicious persecution and the turmoil of a crude country are all depicted vividly and melodramatically. Gladys Brockwell, as the young mother fighting for her son, and later as the old mother pleading and then entirely effacing herself so that he may never know the story of his mother's disgrace, gives a superlative performance of "The Sage Hen."

On Wednesday evening the beautiful Marion Davies appears on the screen of the local show house in a Paramount picture, "Enchantment," directed by Robert Vignola. It is a story of a modern girl "flapper" who believes in having a good time and has it. Her parents cannot understand her, but she understands them in one word—old-fashioned. They are not quite so slow as she imagines, for when the father decides to take her in hand he does so thoroughly. How the girl, Ethel, reacts to the regimen and what happens to the father's carefully laid plans, compose the high spots of the story. It is the best picture in which Miss Davies has been seen for a long time and it has an absorbingly interesting story.

"Beyond," by the celebrated British play-wright, Henry Arthur Jones, featuring the blonde Ethel Clayton, will be the chief attraction at the "Pick" on Thursday night.

Miss Clayton plays the role of Avis Langley, whose mother, at death's door, exacts a promise that she will watch over her wayward brother, Alec. The brother soon begins his wanderings and Avis is happily married to Geoffrey Southerne. Then comes a vision of the mother and pleads with Avis to find Alec and help him. After repeated visions she obeys this supernatural influence and goes in quest of her brother. Her mission is successful, but in returning, the ship upon which she is traveling is wrecked and she is the sole survivor, being washed up at a lonely island settlement. It is months before she returns, and meantime, her husband, thinking her lost, marries again. The wife returns and finds this situation confronting her. From this develops one of the most dramatic but pleasing climaxes ever screened.

Directed by William Christy Cabanne, adapted from an original story by Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman, noted screen author, "The Barricade" comes to the screen of the "Pick" on Friday evening.

The story is built around the experiences of an elderly Hebrew who puts into practice his theories of love and human understanding. He takes an Irish boy, the son of his beloved partner, into his own home when the father dies and rears him as he would his own son. The boy, Robert Brennan, played with rare skill by Kenneth Harlan, becomes a prosperous physician and drifts away from his people. He marries a young woman of wealth and social position and again the barricade of pride rises to separate them after a short period of happiness. But, after complications that make most engrossing entertainment, Robert saves his poverty-stricken old benefactor and returns to his old home to stay. His wife, too, follows him and they are reunited and the barricades of prejudice and false pride go crashing down before the power of genuine love.

MCLEAN IS PRESIDENT OF MONOGRAM CLUB

Other Officers Elected at Meeting. Vital Matters Taken Up—Want Meeting Place.

J. A. McLean was elected president of the N. C. Club Saturday night and W. A. Blount was elected member of the awards committee to take the place of Robbins Lowe, who has left school.

Other officers elected were C. M. Llewellyn, vice president; E. M. Sweetman, secretary, and Dr. Lawson permanent treasurer. Practically every wearer of the N. C. was present at the meeting and plans for the year's work were brought before the men.

One of the main features of the campaign for the year is the possibility of holding a reunion of all the wearers of the N. C. The matter is in the hands of a committee, and a report will be given by the committee before the next meeting of the club.

The organization is trying to get rooms in some building on the campus, but have so far been unable to find the necessary space. In the plans for the Graham Memorial building, a headquarters for the club will have been provided.

INTERESTING MEETING IN EPISCOPAL CHURCH

"Get Together" Keynote of Faculty, Students and Townspeople, Featured by Entertaining Talks.

"Get together" was the keynote of a meeting of faculty, students, and town people of the Episcopal church held in the Parrish house Friday night. Short talks were made by faculty members and students. After the discussion, refreshments were served.

The rector, Rev. Lawrence, opened the meeting with an announcement of its purpose. "As the University is growing," said Mr. Lawrence, "we are loosing that spirit of unity which we have enjoyed in the past and which we should have now." The purpose of the meeting was to discover what the church could do to remedy this condition that is detrimental to all phases of campus life.

Dr. Bernard, Dr. Toy, Shackle, Thompson and Shepherd spoke on the matter. The result of the discussion was the formation of a committee whose purpose is to find the best means of shaping a club of all church members. Dr. Bernard was appointed chairman, and the members are T. J. Wilson, III, T. H. Shepard, Thomas Turner, and R. L. Thompson, Jr. Other members will be added by the rector.

ENGINEERING STUDENTS RECEIVE SIGNAL HONOR

R. M. Casper and M. E. Lake to Work Out Problems For Entrance to Class.

R. M. Casper and M. E. Lake, two students in the Electric Engineering department, have received a signal honor from the Westinghouse Electric Co., of East Pittsburgh. These two men have been sent eight problems to work, as a preliminary examination for entrance to the Westinghouse Dynamo Design class. Only five men in the United States were given the opportunity to take this examination, two being from Carolina, one from the University of Maine, one from the University of Missouri, and the other from Rensselaer Polytechnic, at Troy.

The class is taught by B. G. Lammie, Chief of the Westinghouse Co., of East Pittsburgh, and only a very limited number of men are permitted to take the course. It is the usual thing for the men who are chosen to be graduate students, and to have been in the employ of the Westinghouse Co. for at least twelve to fifteen months. The two men from here have worked for the Company for the last two summers, and their record made was so high that this honor has been awarded them.

This class goes to form a nucleus of a corp of Designing Engineers of the Westinghouse Co.

Inventor of the Zeppelin, Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, German inventor, one of the foremost aeronauts of the world at the beginning of the Twentieth century, died in 1917. While many of the expectations of the Zeppelin were realized, it was apparent late in 1916 that the smaller, lighter aircraft of the monoplane and biplane type were better adapted to almost all kinds of warfare, and the aged inventor died in the knowledge that successful conquest with his invention was impossible.

Pertinent Paragraphs

All right, Tar Baby, you get into the game and then won't we be a happy little family?

At forty dollars improvement per each, it seems that we should have self-starters on our telephones rather than cranks.

After viewing the S. C. game, we suggest that Perry be called "Sizzle" rather than "Sis."

We see by the paper that Gompers is coming. Fine! We hope that will mean short study hours and grade and a half for over time.

If a prof demands too much work, or does not put out good grades, or neglects to make his classes pleasant, we can strike on him.

And there never has been a teacher that could teach without students.

It seems that some of the auto drivers are running a monopoly in restraint of trade.

But this anarchy stuff is good advertising. Many more incidents of this knock-down-and-drag-out competition, this destruction of property, and "Penny" will need another buss to accommodate the crowd.

Say, ain't Woodrow getting intimate with the Di? He ended his recent letter, "With the season's best wishes." Evidently he meant the Valentine season.

"Tag football" is getting to be the popular sport, what's next, drop the handkerchief?

"The Italians of the United States" have given the University a book valued at five hundred dollars. They must have bought it at the Book Exchange.

After last year's experience, cusses, and tears, we should think that the campus cabinet would lay off this election reform stuff.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Prof. P. H. Dagggett, head of the Electric Engineering department, attended a meeting of the State Board of Engineers in Raleigh recently.

Prof. G. M. Braune, head of the Civil Engineering department, spent last Thursday in Raleigh in consultation with State Highway Engineer Upham in regard to the co-operation of the University with the Highway Commission.

Prof. S. H. Hobbs attended a meeting of the University race commission in Knoxville last Friday and Saturday.

Prof. E. W. Knight made an address before the Educational Conference of the Vance county schools in Henderson last Saturday.

Prof. E. W. Knight will address a gathering of the Parent-Teacher Association in Hillsboro this afternoon.

Mr. A. M. Hadden, "big chief" of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, will be on the Hill from January 31 until February 3 under the joint auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and the Episcopal church. Mr. Hadden's work is among the students of various colleges, and his visit to the Hill is looked forward to with great interest. He is scheduled to speak in chapel on February 2. The remainder of his stay will be taken up with personal work.

Dr. J. F. Dashiell lectured before the Women's Club of Mount Airy, January 6, on the subject, "Nature and Nurture in the Making of Men."

The Congregational church in Southern Pines has arranged for a series of lectures by members of the University faculty on succeeding Sunday evenings during the months of January, February and March. Dr. E. C. Branson gave the first of these on January 8, his subject being "Come Let Us Live With Our Children." Dr. S. E. Leavitt made an illustrated talk on "Travels in Peru, Bolivia, and Chile," on January 15.

Daniel L. Grant, who has been enrolled as a graduate student this year left Monday in an automobile to travel over the state in the interest of the University for the purpose of "lining up" the high school and preparatory graduates for the University. This is a step forward, he declared, in getting the very best men and will unmistakably result in a bigger and better enrollment for next year.

The editorial in the Charlotte Observer of last Thursday on the Carolina Magazine and especially on the article by C. Y. Coley entitled "Politics, Politicians and the Next Governor" is of great interest to the students of the University in that it shows that their activities on the campus are being noted throughout the state, and that the people of the state are interested not merely in the actions of the officials of the University, but in student activities as well.

There is to be a rehearsal of the Community Chorus Tuesday night, 7:15, at the high school.

The Graduate Club will hold its first meeting of this quarter Tuesday, January 17th, in Phillips Hall.

The University trustees will hold their mid-winter meeting January 24, in Raleigh.

There will be a meeting of the University building committee in the president's office January 23rd.

EXTENSION BUREAU HERE HAS DONE GREAT WORK

Director made a series of trips and personal visits to practically all towns and cities of the State, explaining the several lines of extension service to the people through their local organizations.

During the year Mr. E. R. Rankin, Associate Director, held State-wide championship contests in football, basketball, track, and tennis. Two hundred high schools in ninety-two counties took part in the ninth annual contest of the High School Debating Union.

The faculty of the School of Education rendered a great deal of assistance to the State public schools during the year. Dr. E. W. Knight is teaching the first extension class for credit ever organized by the University. This class meets at Hillsboro and has an enrollment of 65.

The Bureau of Public Discussion registered, during the past twelve months, 133 women's clubs studying official programs written by members of the faculty. The Package Library Section sent out, in response to requests, 1,388 package libraries.

Professor Koch, who is in charge of the work of the Bureau of Community Drama, wrote and supervised the production of the pageant, "Raleigh: The Shepherd of the Ocean." The Wilmington and Halifax pageants were also directed by this Bureau, of which Miss Elizabeth Lay is field agent.

Dr. E. C. Branson, head of the Department of Rural Social Economics, reports 97 detailed county and State-wide studies made during the year. The News Letter appeared 50 times.

Professor Weaver, in charge of the Bureau of Community Music, lectured in a number of cities and conducted community sings for over 15,000 people. More than thirty towns were visited by Miss Hoffman and Mrs. Matherly in connection with the work of beautifying school grounds.

The staff of the School of Public Welfare conducted a very successful Town and County Conference, gave municipal information, and rendered suggestions along the line of community development.

Dean Carroll is gradually enlarging the extension service of the School of Commerce. An investment service under supervision of Professor W. J. Matherly is being contemplated this year.

From 9 students, the enrollment in correspondence courses has been increased and now numbers 111 students, 41 of which are working for degree credit.

The lectures scheduled by the Extension Division and made by various members of the faculty numbered 61. A total of about 17,000 people were reached in this manner.

Engineering Department Gets Wiring Contract.

The Electric Engineering Department has been awarded the contract for the wiring of dormitories C and D of the quadrangle, now in the course of construction. It will be remembered that a similar contract was awarded the department some time ago for the wiring of sections A and B, and that the award will mean the saving of a large amount of money by the University, and that the money expended for the work will go to the students who are to do the work.

Work has already begun, and some of the wiring has been done in all four of the buildings. Prof. J. E. Lear has charge of the work, and the students are working under his direction.
