BASKETBALL SEASON WILL CLOSE TONIGHT WHEN CAROLINA MEETS TRINITY ON THE METHODIST COURT

Southern Champions Will Be Seen in Action For Last Time Tonight.

SEASON MOST SUCCESSFUL

Team Captured State Honors and Then Closes Season Brilliantly
Winning in Atlanta.

The basketball season is almost over. One more game and the curtain rings down on what has been the most successful basketball season Carolina has ever had. The Southern championship comes to Carolina with the return of the team from Atlanta, and the state championship is an undisputed honor.

The Trinity game tonight is the last fading glimpse Carolina will have of her wonderful team in action. The football season was good, but the basketball season, with the splendid climax in Atlanta, ends in a burst of glory surpassing even the Thanksgiving game with Virginia.

The team started off with South Carolina and easily disposed of the Sandlappers in a one-sided score, using the second team in part of the game. Then came Wofford who went down just as the other South Carolina team did. Wake Forest, Trinity and State came into regular order and bowed before the throne of superiority. Elon came along with the rest and made a more than a bow; she was prostrate before her master.

Elon and Trinity are the only teams in the state figuring in the State championship that have not been defeated twice. Trinity will have her chance tonight, and Elon doesn't want any more. Davidson has had a nice season, but doesn't figure materially in the state honors, having been defeated several times during the season.

VACCINATIONS IN VOGUE ON CAMPUS AT PRESENT

Rumors of Small Pox Tax Infirmary
Force and Result in Many Sore Arms.

Wild rumor of pestilence, famine, smallpox and quarantine, after a two weeks siesta, have sprung up on the campus again, and everybody is in a swivet. Boys are flocking to the infirmary where they are being pricked by the dreaded needle, where they smell and soporic incense—ether where they stand in line with up-rolled sleeves, waiting for their turn to be vulcanized.

Dr. Nathan, the big, good natured man that does the work, stands there in the waiting room dripping with perspiration, emitting great puffs of exhaustion at times, and jokes the boys while fixing them up. The line forms to the right. You advance in turn. Then you meet the hostess. In two minutes you are waiting in the hall for the spot to dry. Then you have two things to worry about: it either takes or it doesn't. If it does not take, then there is nothing to worry about. If it does, you have two things to worry about: whether you get it hurt or whether it don't. If it doesn't get hurt, then you are all right. At any rate, you don't have the smallpox as a proud possession.

Some take it all right. It goes to the head of others. One or two heard the song of the mocking bird in early spring. One said he floated through the whole thing. He was deathly pale.

There is still some smallpox in Chapel Hill, but as yet there is no epidemic in Chapel Hill, and if the vaccinations continue in proportion to the number of the past few days, there will be no epidemic. There have been standing lines in the hall of the infirmary for the last few nights, and the numbers have been so late that the points gave out Wednesday night, and more had to be ordered from Raleigh. The drug stores sold out. The good work ceased for a time Thursday night when the supply of points had given out, but more came in, and the work is still going on. Influenza is on the down grade. There were only five cases Friday.

CAROLINA BREAKS EVEN IN FORENSIC CONTEST

All Three Colleges Win and Lose in Annual Triangular Debate—Negative Teams Win.

The result of the triangular inter-collegiate debating contests, which took place Saturday night in Chapel Hill, Lexington and Baltimore, was an even break for each of the three contesting universities. The query, "Resolved, that the United States should own and operate the coal mines," proved to be a Jonah for its supporters and the negative team won in every case.

Carolina's winning team, composed of V. V. Young and T. L. Warren, defeated Johns Hopkins' affirmative in Lexington, Va. In Baltimore, the other Carolina team, made up of W. E. Horner and C. L. Moore, went down in defeat before Washington and Lee's negative, while the latter university's affirmative team was losing to Johns Hopkins at Chapel Hill.

A. D. Emmart and A. Diamon made up the Johns Hopkins team which defeated the W. & L. pair, S. A. Glickstein and E. W. Poindexter. The contest took place in Gerard Hall and was as well attended as such events usually are. F. A. Grisette, president of the debate council, presided. The judges were H. H. Williams, H. W. Odum, L. R. Wilson, F. F. Bradshaw, and G. McF. Mckie.

The affirmative made a splendid effort to overcome the disadvantage under which the rather one-sided

CAROLINA DROPS HARD CONTEST TO GENERALS

Team Tired Out by Grueling Atlanta
Meet and Long Trip Loses
36 to 39.

Tired out by the long journey from Atlanta after a week of grueling contests in the Southern Inter-collegiate basketball tournament, the Carolina quint, champions of the South, lost a hard fought game to Washington and Lee last Thursday night on the Raleigh Auditorium floor by the score of 36 to 39.

The Carolina five started with a flash of the form that had carried them through to the championship at Atlanta, and before the Generals had gotten their bearings were away and in the lead with three cleanly executed field goals; but the team was unable to maintain the pace, and finished the first half with but a slight lead.

In the second half Washington and Lee forged ahead to a substantial lead. It was at this juncture that the blue and white staged the real feature of the game in their game-some-back which threatened to tie the score, but the time keeper's whistle ended all hope just as the rally was at its height.

Neither Perry nor Green were able to play the entire game, since both were suffering with injuries sustained in the Atlanta contests. Perry and C. Carmichael accounted for majority of Carolina's points.

The loss of this game has no effect on the status of the University as Southern champions, as Washington and Lee withdrew from the Atlanta tournament and thus rendered herself ineligible for the honor, besides she has been beaten by Virginia, who by refusing to play a second game with Carolina practically concedes a Tar Heel victory.

Dr. Truett Will Speak Here Saturday Morning.

Dr. George W. Truett, one of the nation's greatest preachers, who has been conducting a big meeting at Raleigh, has been secured to preach a sermon to the University students in Memorial Hall Saturday morning at 11:15.

Dr. Truett had not intended to stop anywhere in the state except Raleigh on his trip through here, and it was only by a special arrangement that he was induced by Rev. E. L. Baskin Friday to come to Chapel Hill. Dr. Truett always draws great crowds wherever he goes, and it is considered a special privilege to hear him.

TAR HEEL ALL STATE BASKETBALL TEAM.

First Team	Position	Second Team
Green	Forward	Simpson (Trinity)
Perry	Forward	Crawford (Davidson)
Carmichael, C.	Center	Mauze (Davidson)
McDonald	Guard	Crute (Trinity)
Carmichael, B.	Guard	Frazier (Guilford)

(By R. S. Pickens)

Heretofore Carolina has been exceedingly modest about her athletic prowess. Now is the time for casting aside of this false modesty and in doing so we are following the dictates of our own conscience and picking as an all-state team, the University of North Carolina basketball quint.

This, to some, will be only a conceited exhibition of school spirit, but from a cold blooded, non-partisan standpoint, Carolina has what we consider the best all round basketball team to be found in the state, and in picking the number of men from Carolina we have, there is no reflection on any other team in the state. Other schools have good men, exceptionally good men, Trinity has them, State has them, Wake Forest, Davidson and Guilford have them, but where can we find forwards to equal Green and Perry, unless we put the two Carmichael brothers in at forward, and not use them at center and guard, which would be unnecessary at least.

C. Carmichael is the best basketball player in the state, and in the opinion of many the best in the South. He is the pivot of the all-state team, and will shoot the fouls. Mauze, of Davidson, is selected for the second string center, because others think he is good, we don't know for sure.

Green and Perry for forwards. They are the leading scorers of the state when compared to forwards on other teams. Both are fast, both fight hard and both are excellent passers. No more could be desired. Simpson, of Trinity, one of the Methodist sensations, is given a berth on the second team. He may rate one on the first team, but for 25 and 26.

DR. CHARLES A. DINSMORE TO GIVE McNAIR LECTURES

Eminent Clergyman and Lecturer
Will Speak Here March 24,

Dr. Charles A. Dinsmore, a well known clergyman and lecturer, has been secured by the Public Lecture Committee to deliver the John Calvin McNair lectures March 24, 25, and 26. Dr. Dinsmore has been pastor of the First Congregational Church, Waterbury, Connecticut for 17 years, is an alumni lecturer at Yale and is some reason we can't see that he is any better than Perry and Green, and he hasn't worked for a season with Carmichael and McDonald. Crawford is shifted from guard to forward because the Davidson man is one of the best shots in the state, and deserves a place on the team.

McDonald and Billy Carmichael go on the first team as guards, because they are the guards on the Southern Champions team, and rate any all-state team that can be picked. Both men are regular forwards, and up until this year have played that position. They are good shots as a result. McDonald is a sensation on the floor, and the hardest man in the world to get away from at guard and hard to cover when shooting. Billy Carmichael is a veteran tosser, and is as good as any man in the state for his position. In fact we don't know of a guard anywhere that can shoot like he can, and we know of no man who knows more basketball.

Crute, of Trinity, and Frazier, of Guilford, take the guard positions on the second team, because both are good shots; Crute being one of the most dangerous men from the middle of the court in the state. Frazier is said to be one of the best shots in the state and is responsible for the wonderful showing made by the Guilford team during the past season.

Lots of folks will be sore about this whole thing. For that we are truly sorry, but can only point to the individual records of each man mentioned, and say, "Can any better be shown?" The job is a thankless one anyway, and only what we think is true have we stated. The all-state team cannot be spoken of this year as a "mythical team." It has whaled every team in the state by large scores, and literally licked the fire out of the most of them twice.

ARCHIBALD HENDERSON IS AUTHOR OF MATH PAPER

Has Recently Issued a Pamphlet on "Numbers and Fundamental Laws of Algebra."

Dr. Archibald Henderson, head of the mathematics department of the University, has just issued a pamphlet on "Numbers and the Fundamental Laws of Algebra." In the pamphlet Dr. Henderson answers in concise form the questions that are either ignored or usually left unanswered when raised in the early work in mathematics.

The purpose is to find "the ration-

ALL ARRANGEMENTS ARE FINISHED FIRST STATE INDOOR TRACK MEET TO BE HELD IN BULL CITY FRIDAY

NEW FOLK-PLAYS TO BE PRESENTED THIS WEEK

Playmakers to Make Second Appearance of Year on Friday and Saturday Evenings.

The eighth series of original Carolina Folk-Plays produced by The Carolina Playmakers will be presented in the Play-House on Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. This is the second series for the present college year. The plays are "The Lord's Will," a tragedy by Paul Green, "Dogwood Bushes," a comedy of country life by Wilbur Stout, and "Blackbeard, Pirate of the Carolina Coast," a melodrama by Paul Green written in collaboration with Elizabeth A. Lay.

All these plays were written by graduate students who have been working under Professor Koch, director of The Playmakers, for two or three years, and Chapel Hill audiences know well the character of their work. Paul Green has given more plays to the dramatic organization than any other member of the group, perhaps. Wilbur Stout made a name for himself and his work when "In Dixon's Kitchen" took Chapel Hill by storm last year. This play has been presented 20 times, both in the local Play-House and out in the state. His new play is written in the same charming vein, and promises an equally good

BASEBALL CANDIDATES TO START IN TRAINING

All But Three of Last Year's Varsity to Report—Freshman Coach
Not Yet Named.

If the weather remains favorable the baseball team will be called into action this week by Coach Fetzer.

There will be wealth of material out for the team this year, including last year's freshman squad and the entire varsity team of last year with three exceptions. The prospects for a strong team are exceptionally good. With Llewellyn back in school to pilot the team, and Fred Morris expected back before next quarter.

Shirley, McGhee, McDonald, Morris, Wilson, Bryson, McLean, Sweetman and others of last year's team are expected out at the first call with a number of good men from last year's freshman team. Several light practices under Captain Llewellyn have been held when the weather permitted and the men have shown up well.

Freshman baseball will start the same day possibly that the varsity goes out. It is not known where

CAROLINA IN GOOD SHAPE

Big Free Dance to Be Given After Meet—Over Fifty Men on Tar Heel Square.

Arrangements for a free dance to be given to visitors and track men immediately after the big indoor meet next Friday have been completed. A Durham orchestra and the Tar Baby Five will be secured to furnish the music if possible. This is one of the many inducements to attend the event.

By working his men out daily on the board track Coach Fetzer has whipped them into the best condition possible, and their chances for winning the meet are good. He is to carry over fifty men to the meet and this will make it possible for him to enter a large number of men in each event.

Mr. Clark, secretary of the meet, announced that he had 200 men entered in the meet at present and that probably 400 would be entered by Friday night. Trinity will have a team of 35, State College and Wake Forest will send teams of 25 or more.

To accommodate the immense crowd that is expected to attend the event, the bleachers which were used at the Carolina-Virginia football game have been carried to Durham, and with these, besides those furnished by other schools that should be little difficulty experienced in seating the crowd.

Quoting the Durham Herald: "One of the features of the meet will be the presence of J. W. Mul-

WALTERLY MAKES STUDY OF PROFESSORING COST

Personal Budgets of Various Types of Faculty Men Show Average Cost is Far Too High.

(By Mather J. Walterly.)

What does it cost the faculty to give these "mahogany finishes" to the "pine sap shingles" that are causing so much disturbance here at the University of North Carolina. The recent article in the Tar Heel on the cost of this "finish," from the students' point of view, has prompted me to make a little investigation of my own along the lines of the masterly piece of research (I suppose that is what the Home Economics Department will call it) so ably presented by Professor Matherly.

In order that my results might show a perfect correlation to those of Matherly, I made a preliminary study of the situation which disclosed that the learned professor's figures were based on an analysis of the budgets of 2 per cent of the total student body. That seemed to me to be most fortunate (and happy, in the lingo of the learned) for it reduced my problem of determining the average faculty budget to a mere matter of analyzing my own budget with that of another faculty member selected perfectly at random. You see, there are just about 100 members of the faculty, not all of which (or whom, if you prefer) go to faculty meetings, for various reasons; 2 per cent of 100 is just two faculty folk and so it seemed to me quite adequate and appropriate to judge the whole faculty of 100 souls by the economic condition of myself and one other.

I might say—I ought to say, at the outset that I, of course, wanted to prove that either the average faculty salary is too low, or else that the average faculty member lives beyond his income. It is therefore with perfect equanimity that I say that I selected the other member of my "budget commission" from the group of Kenan professors amongst whom I am NOT one of which, but in whose midst I usually find myself (sic!) at faculty meetings. This particular Kenan professor is one of the common herd that draws a paltry $5,000 a year for the privilege of allowing a few graduate students to listen to the latest results of the research with
