

THE TAR HEEL

Carolina Finds Simpson Easy and Walks Away With Trinity Game

Carolina went over to Trinity last Saturday for a ball game with the Methodist outfit. They had a fairly good ball game, winning 9 to 5, and making poor Jimmy Simpson, the Trinity pitching ace and the pride of Winston-Salem High School for several years look very, very bad. In fact Jimmy started losing his smile in the first inning. He regained it when Trinity chased three runs across in the second only to lose it again in the third when Red Johnston poked one against the fence with three men on. Red got caught going to third on the ball, but the three runs gave Carolina all the lead she needed until she chased three more across in the fourth and another in the ninth.

It has been remarked that Davidson has the Lord with them when they play Carolina. State has Curtis and Ruth, Wake Forest has Saxe Barnes and Stanley Johnston, Trinity has Jimmy Simpson and Ben Duke, but in spite of it all Carolina continues to win. The only answer to the whole puzzle, if it is a puzzle, is that Carolina has the best team. Now the newspaper reports from the Trinity game would indicate that Carolina broke through the Trinity defense by accident in the early stages of the game and by a lucky accident beat the Methodist team.

The whole truth of the matter is that Coach Baldwin was very unwise when he sent Jimmy Simpson, a left-handed pitcher into the box to face eight right-hand hitters. That may be all right, but from the standpoint of Trinity and Simpson, it was awful. Carolina garnered eleven hits off the Winston-Salem boy while Trinity secured nine off Lefty Wilson. Lefty was going fairly good; was hit freely, but splendid support and ability to keep the Trinity hits scattered gave him an easy victory.

Trinity undoubtedly has a good ball club. Next to Carolina they may possibly have the best in the state. But with eight or nine veterans to build around Trinity can't hope to compete with Carolina unless they uncover some strange unheard of ball player that can throw balls batters can't see.

Carolina scored twice in the second inning. R. Morris doubled and Johnston sacrificed. Bonner came to the plate and sent a scorching single through second base, scoring Morris. They were out, third to first. Wilson singled through third and Bonner scored.

Johnston's long hit to center field brought in three more runs in the next inning. The next inning scored three more runs and Wilson scored the ninth one in the ninth inning. Trinity scored in the second when Turner doubled to left field. Dempster hit to right field, scoring Turner. C. Smith hit to right field and scored Simpson and Dempster, Simpson having singled through second. Trinity's other two runs came in the eighth when Spikes cracked out a two-base hit with two men on.

Trinity plays Carolina at Carolina later in the season.

MUCH WORK BEING DONE ON CAMPUS DURING RECESS

With the new tennis courts almost finished, workmen have been busy during Easter week plowing up and leveling off the area between Swain Hall and Smith Building. The low places in this region, which formerly were transformed into lakes and ponds after a rain, have been filled.

This work had been planned for several weeks but rainy weather kept the ground too wet to allow its being plowed up. Students who take

REMARKABLE GROWTH SHOWN IN REPORT OF Y. M. C. A. PAST YEAR

Secretary Comer Presents Array of Facts in Statement Showing Great Improvement.

SELF HELP WAS PROBLEM

Below the Y. M. C. A. submits the report of its activities during the year, since this is the end of the fiscal year of the organization, the time at which the new president is installed and the old president retires from office. Secretary Comer proves the efficiency of the past administration by submitting the following facts which were planned before the opening of school last September by the cabinet of the Y. at its first meeting known as the "Setting-up Conference," and which have been carried into execution during the past year.

I. Social Department: Special effort among new students; meeting trains at University Station, Carboro and Durham; reception and steering committee on campus; assisting freshmen in registration and finding rooms and boarding houses; information bureau; college night reception; aiding various churches with receptions; cooperation with general social activities throughout the year (lack of facilities has weakened this point more than any other.)

II. Self Help Department: Standing committee for the year; survey of openings in the town, and of students needing work; day by day self-helping bureau, seeing that no man leaves school for want of work; extension of service to the lines of employment; (from one to a score of men have been handled daily in self-help assignments.)

III. The building, the lobby, the reading room, social room, club rooms, and offices, have been in constant service, but shortage in furnishings made for much poorer quality in service and in attractiveness that we hope to experience again. The University should find permanent quarters for the Book Exchange by the fall opening, which will more than double the size of social space. This will make available also a hall for committee suppers, with a kitchen in the basement, which hall will be available for all clubs, etc., for smokers, etc., as well as for general informal social features.

IV. Finance Department: The year was started heavily in debt; a large committee started work early on Finance Campaign; continuous effort to collect all pledges, yet some $500.00 in arrears still; adequate financial support would solve the whole social question.

V. Chapel: Chapel is no longer under direct control of the "Y," but the office has acted as clearing house for chapel announcements, furnished many speakers, and worked on numerous details in the run of the year's program the large committees has tried to put on.

VI. Information Bureau. One steady job that lasts throughout the year, is that of handling long distance and telegraph messages for the student body and others; information to relatives and other visitors to the student body, is almost a constant service; operating the tennis schedule, and a large number of incidental details like this make constant demand upon the "Y" office (next year will find a full-time office clerk, and counter service at all hours of the day, and until ten o'clock at night.)

VII. Senior to Freshman Letters: During the last week of each school year, all freshmen on the fall registration list, are assigned to members of the junior class, and the junior writes him a letter of introduction and welcome into Carolina Life, and then follows up the friendship during the coming year; one or more Senior-Freshman smokers are given during the year, one of which is to come just after Easter recess.

VIII. Weekly Religious Meetings: Thursday night of every week is the regular meeting night; all students and faculty are invited to these meetings; a varied and interesting program has been operated throughout the year.

Geese Live for Longevity. Man has been striving to attain ever since his inception. But the goose and gander have long attained, namely, long life. Geese live to be 100 years old as a matter of course, and there are cases on record of geese laying eggs and hatching them after they were 100.

HONOR ROLL FOR LAST QUARTER SHOWS LARGE NUMBER OF HIGH GRADES

C. B. Sparger, of Mount Airy, Leads Entire University With Five Ones With G. S. Bruton Second.

A. B. FURNISHES THE MOST

The honor roll for the winter quarter was given out by the registrar during the holidays. It contains 132 names, which is two more than the fall quarter roll showed. The roll is for undergraduate students only, and of that number there were 36 seniors, 18 juniors, 26 sophomores, 43 freshmen and 9 special students. Of the various courses, the A. B. school being the largest, leads the honor roll with 65 students and the other courses are as follows: A. B. L. D., 1; S. B. 1, 4; S. B. 11, 9; S. B. 111, 4; S. B. IV, 5; S. B. V, 1; S. B. Smith of Capron, Va., deserves much credit for five ones and a two, while Miss Jane Toy, of Chapel Hill gets honorable mention for four ones and a two. E. M. Knox, of Winston, however, worked harder for his place than any one on the honor roll by standing seven examinations, and making three ones, two twos and two threes.

Alfred Lord Tennyson some several decades ago remarked in the course of one of his amorous poems: Queen Rose of a rosebud garden of girls Come hither, the dances are done.

The self remark with a few minor changes in rhythm and thought has been made with the same ardor and the same intent during the past three or four days. If Alfred will pardon a parody.

Queen Lily of a whole pond of lilies, Come in side, the rain has begun. Would seem a more appropriate remark for the past three days of rejoicing and foot shaking. The weather man played the boys a dirty trick and while cyclones were raging in Texas the rain cut loose with spasmodic and inopportune showers at all times of the night and day in Chapel Hill. That didn't hurt the music though.

Tuesday night the dances opened with the Gorgen Heads doing the honors and the Gimghouls receiving them. Ike Thorpe with Miss Julia Russ, assisted by Newsom Battle with Miss McDowell and Howard Holderness with Margaret Pou led the figures and acted as official host of the evening.

The gymnasium was magnificently decorated. Overhead the soft filmy hangings reminded one of a beautiful spot dreamed of by opium eaters in some bewitching, soul delighting Arabian night story yet to be visualized by a human mind. Now of course that is overdrawn, but the decorations were beautiful. Soft shaded lights flooded the smooth floor and glistened and sparkled from jewels worn by the galaxy of beautifully gowned womanhood who danced. Delightful soft blending of colors from soft clinging lavender to flaming flashing red, with the white and black worn by the men gave the whole picture a charm that satisfied the most critical mind present and with the music made the entire program a splendid success.

The men said the music was fine. The women said it was divine. Now it was somewhere between those superlatives. To say it was fine is putting it a little weak, and to say it was divine is hardly just the thing anyway it was somewhere between the two words.

POINDEXTER ELECTED PRESIDENT Y. M. C. A. M'GEE VICE-PRESIDENT

Election a Large One and Head of Organization Gets Place With Two Vote Majority.

LILLYCROP STUDENT SEC.

C. C. Poindexter, for the past two years a member of the varsity football team and also an active member of the many deputation teams sent out by the University Y. M. C. A., was elected president of the Y. M. C. A. by the margin of two votes over Allan McGee. McGee is a letter man on both the baseball and football teams.

Approximately 800 votes were cast, which is a comparatively large number, of which Poindexter received 233, and McGee 231, which entitles McGee to the vice presidency. Of the other two candidates Lillycrop received 161 votes, giving him the office of student secretary of the Y, and G. H. Leonard received 145 votes. Secretary Comer announced that the treasurer will be elected by the old and new cabinet.

The installation of the new officers will take place in chapel during the first week of May at which time the retiring president, C. J. Williams, will formally turn over the office to Poindexter and Poindexter in accepting will outline his plans for the coming year, if he follows the custom of former inaugural speeches. Williams in presenting the office to the new president will tell of the accomplishments of the association in the past year, and make suggestions for the coming year. The other officers will take charge of their respective positions without further ceremonies.

CAROLINA STARTS THE WEEK WELL WINNING 7 TO 4 OVER VA. TECH

Captain Llewellyn Pitches Excellent Ball While Team Mates Batter Out Victory—Two Homers.

LOST TO ELKS TUESDAY

Starting the week of play in Virginia off with characteristic disregard for opposing pitchers' feelings, Carolina battered her way to victory over V. P. I. Monday in a 7 to 4 score. Fred Morris and McDonald were going good on the date in question, getting three hits out of three times up and getting a home run each. Big Lew pitched excellent ball, allowing only six hits while Carolina netted eight.

The game appeared ragged at times, but the pitching of Llewellyn and the hard hitting of the Carolina team kept the spectators interested throughout. Fred Morris walked the last time he went to bat and stole second and came very near getting away with a steal to third. He was a constant worry to the opposing team, and along with McDonald furnished most of the Carolina offensive. Shirley and Casey Morris secured the other two hits.

Carolina lost to the Roanoke Elks, a semi-professional team, Tuesday with Moore pitching his first game for the varsity. The score was 4 to 3 and Carolina kept chalking up the home runs, Joe McLean and Llewellyn getting a homer each. The game has no bearing on the collegiate standing of the team and was played to furnish amusement for the holiday crowd at Roanoke.

Box score and summary of the V. P. I. game:

ORATORICAL CONTEST WON BY JOHNS HOPKINS MAN

Sewanee, Admitted at Last Minute Over Carolina's Protest, Wins Second Place.

The result of the Southern Oratorical Contest, held in Nashville, Tenn., on April 8, did not reach Chapel Hill in time to be published in the last issue of the Tar Heel. First place was awarded to Johns Hopkins, Sewanee winning second.

Sewanee is a recent addition to the membership of the league, having been admitted on the day of the contest over Carolina's protest. The ground upon which Carolina objected to Sewanee's entrance into the contest was that the league, as originally organized, included only one institution from each state, this fact furnishing a ground for restricting its membership. The admission of Sewanee gives Tennessee two members and will likely be followed by the petition of other institutions desirous of coming in. Carolina contends that the admission of Sewanee would destroy the precedent by which the league's membership has hitherto been restricted to a number most suitable for its purposes.

CHOOSE DEBATING TEAM TO MEET KENTUCKY HERE

B. C. Brown and W. E. Horner Will Represent Carolina in Contest Held May 13.

B. C. Brown and W. E. Horner, with Dan Byrd as alternate, will represent Carolina in the Kentucky debate. These men were selected from the four contestants who entered the preliminary just before the holidays. The other contestant was H. C. Harris, all four men being from the Phi Society.

The nal debate will be held in Gerrard Hall on the night of May 13. Brown and Horner will defend the negative side of the query, "Resolved, That the Dillingham immigration law should be retained."
