Wrestlers to Have Match With Trinity

The wrestling team will meet Trinity before Christmas, announces Dr. R. B. Lawson, director of the gym. Matches have been asked for by V. M. L. V. P. I., Washington and Lee, Davidson, and the University of South Carolina. The dates have not been definitely arranged, but Dr. Lawson states that the Carolina team expects to play all of these schools. Several return matches in Chapel Hill will be scheduled also.

Thirty men are working daily under the able coaching of Mr. Shapiro, Spanish instructor in the University. Mr. Shapiro gained his first wrestling experience at Harvard, where he was university champion for two years. After his graduate studies, during which he continued his interest in wrestling, he spent some time in Chile. There he kept in good condition by workouts with Rajas, champion boxer of Chile. Returning to the United States, he served one year as assistant athletic director at the University of Akron, and two years at Norwich Military Academy. At Norwich, which had not previously had a wrestling team, Mr. Shapiro built up a team which not only defeated Dartmouth six out of eleven, but also defeated Harvard. Two years as director of athletics at Albany Academy followed, and then this year Mr. Shapiro came to Carolina. With proper support from the students, Mr. Shapiro hopes to build up a team here which will "trim the lights" of every team it meets.

A larger squad is needed. Dr. Lawson says that men coming within the 119, 129, and 149 weight classes are especially needed, and urges men within these classes to try out for the team. Men only a few pounds above the limit of any desired class might easily train down to it.

An elimination series for the purpose of choosing the team of seven will be held soon. Wrestling is a new sport at Carolina and not under the Athletic Association. Consequently, it will be necessary to charge 10 or 15 cents for the series in order to raise money for wrestling uniforms. It will be necessary, also, to charge admission for the other matches held in Chapel Hill, since there is no other way of financing the team. Dr. Lawson urges the students to support this new sport at Carolina.

MORE ABOUT MASK AND WIG PRIZE

The Mask and Wig $50 prize contest for an original story suitable for adaptation as a musical comedy comes to an end November 28. The following rules have been announced. Special attention is called to the second rule.

1. All manuscript must be mailed before the closing hour of the post-office Tuesday, November 28, addressed to Mask and Wig, Box 472.
2. All manuscript must be signed with a nom de plume; any manuscript signed with the actual name of the author will be debarred from the contest.
3. A sealed envelope, containing the nom de plume and the real name of the author should be inclosed in the manuscript.

In view of the misleading statements made in a recent issue of the Tar Heel, it is repeated that Mask and Wig is purely a student organization. Information concerning it may be secured from Mr. Paul J. Weaver, who is in hearty sympathy with the purpose of the club. The organization is not, however, under the control of the music department.

The movie censorship is up again. We suggest that three-fourths of the comedies get new plots. The other fourth never had plots.

"So far, so good. But I haven't received the bill."

Pharmaceutical Club Holds First Meeting

Saturday night the University branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association held its first regular meeting, with A. L. Hogan presiding. Professor E. V. Kyser, of Rocky Mount, N. C., gave an illustrated lecture on essential oils. Professor Kyser is a recent addition to the faculty of the school of pharmacy. He received his pharmaceutical education here, and has since been engaged in analytical work in Cincinnati.

This meeting marks an epoch for the pharmacy students of the university. The A. Ph. A. is an institution which has had years of successful activity to its credit. Its membership has in the past been limited to retail druggists and graduate pharmacists, but the pharmacy students here have attempted to start something new by invading its circles. The organization which has just been launched will set an example which will inevitably be followed by other institutions of America.

The purpose of the A. Ph. A. is to further the interests of pharmacy by providing an open forum in which druggists may voice their opinions on pertinent matters. Its importance is great and its activity is widespread. There is a local branch of the organization in almost every state in the union. It is hoped that the precedent which is being set by the pharmacy department here will result in a general practice among the pharmacy schools of America, and that by their participation in discussions and studies of experienced men, the undergraduates in the profession may be greatly benefited.

TODAY

(Written after hearing the Serviss lecture)

It matters not to me that this, our earth

Shall slowly lose its warmth, its moisture, too,

In ages hence, and shall not give new birth

In spring to flowers and trees to live anew.

It matters not that the bright sun shall die

And nevermore in beauty bring the day;

I shall not care when this shall come, for I

Shall then have lived my time and passed away.

When this great universe shall change its form,

New worlds come into being, a new sun

Shine on new beings who shall still perform

God's mighty work, my part here shall be done.

And if on some new planet I take part

With other creatures laboring toward an end,

A work of God, which He knew from the start,

And to the working of His will shall bend

All creatures, east in whatsoever mould

He shall create in worlds forevermore

Where I shall be, my spirit shall then hold

Nothing of memory of its lives before.

I cannot know what lies before me there

In that Beyond where I must take my way;

I cannot know nor can I greatly care.

I only know that life is sweet today.

The sun, the wind, the beauty of the trees,

The beauty of all things upon the earth,

The loving of God's children, only these

I know to be the things of utmost worth.
