

JOHNS HOPKINS WINS DECISION

Annual Triangular Debate Is Won by Visitors.

FINAL COUNT IS 2 TO 1

Question of Recognition of Russian Government Discussed.

Johns Hopkins University won a two-one decision over the University of North Carolina on Thursday evening in Gerrard Hall in the annual triangular debate. The question under discussion was the recognition of the Russian Soviet Government by the United States. The negative, upheld by Johns Hopkins, and backed by public opinion, won.

The debate was attended by a very small, yet seemingly interested audience. This fact brought out the observation from several of the older men present that this was far different from debates of several years ago, when not only was Gerrard Hall filled to standing room but people were on the outside looking in through the windows.

The debate itself was very interesting at times, while at others it tended to become somewhat vague in character, there was a noticeable lack of concrete discussion; especially when Malcolm Young tried to show that at the present Russia cannot have any obligation to repudiate, since a government that does not exist naturally can have no obligations, and when the United States does not recognize Russia we say that legally the Soviet Government of Russia does not exist.

Ben Eaton opened the debate for Carolina and the affirmative with the statement that the Soviet Government of Russia has been in existence for eight years and has weathered one of the worst crises in Russian history, and therefore, actually exists. "Recognition does not mean approval". In the past the United States has recognized governments that have repudiated debts. As time legalizes illegitimate revolutionary governments, it has been our traditional policy to have "recognition de facto" rather than "recognition de jure". Thus by not recognizing Russia, we are daily violating our whole foreign policy. The comity of nations demands that we recognize Russia; 21 nations, including all the major world powers, have recognized the Soviet Government. Can the United States continue to say: Russia, you are not there?"

Joel I. Seidman, of Johns Hopkins, was the opening negative speaker, and opposed recognition on the ground that it would be detrimental to the United States, to Russia, and to international relations. He declared it was the traditional policy of this nation since the Civil War to recognize only governments that were willing to assume their international obligations. He showed that loans were made to a people through their existing government, and therefore the Soviet Government has repudiated legitimate loans to the Russian people. Recognition of this government would only tend to promote other similar acts.

STOCK RISES IN WINTER BASEBALL

More Interest Is Shown Among Candidates For Team.

STUDENTS LIKE COLLINS
New Assistant Coach Win Admiration Of Pupils.

Winter football at Carolina has assumed an aspect entirely new.

For two weeks the coaches have had three and sometimes four full teams running plays on the freshman field. Several dummies have joined the list of invalids as a result of fierce onslaughts by backs and linesmen, and there might as well be snow on the ground so far as the millage of the line is concerned.

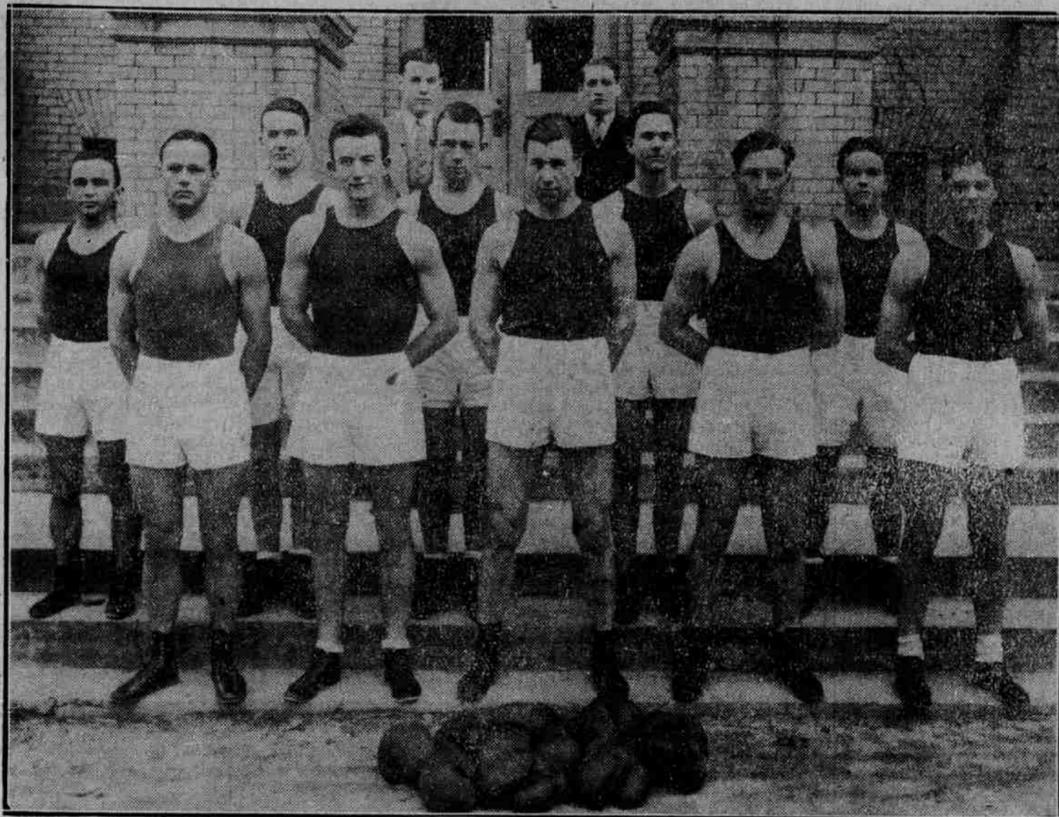

Interest manifested in the practices first became general when, following many suggestions, a plan was inaugurated which called for a division of the candidates into "A" and "B" squads, each of equal strength. The scrimmages and rivalry between these two factions have become extremely fierce, and the melees which occur almost daily draw large numbers of spectators to the side-lines of the field.

During the recent spell of wet weather the lectures in Murphy Hall auditorium were novelized with the advent of coach "Chuch" Collins, former stellar flankman of the Notre Dame line which served as driving reins for the famous four horsemen.

The talks delivered by the new grid-iron mentor from the mid-west contained many points both new and explanatory, and were punctuated by frequent allu-

TAR HEEL BOXING TEAM

The Tar Heel boxing team this week visited the Old Dominion State where they met two of the neighboring state's teams. They encountered the University of Virginia team on Tuesday night and the V. P. I. Gobblers on Friday night, and made a creditable showing against both teams. For the first time in the history of the University boxing was made a letter sport this year and under the competent supervision of Coach Crayton Rowe the team has made splendid progress. Two years ago the first attempt was made to get boxing started. The first meet was with Fort Bragg in which the soldiers won easily from the Hillians. From then on the sport found instant favor with the student body. The leatherpushers met several of the best college teams in this section and came out well in the competition. Coach Rowe built his team this year around two of the old men. Captain Warren in the light-heavy class, and Proffitt in the middleweight class were the only men from last year's team to make the trip to Virginia. The other men who were on the squad which toured Virginia are Bobbitt, bantamweight, Shaw, featherweight, Tenney, lightweight, Butler, welterweight, and G. Shuford, heavyweight. Reading from left to right in the picture the men on the squad are as follows: Front row—Butler, G. Shuford, Captain Warren, Proffitt, and Jenkins. Second row—Bobbitt, Shaw, Tenney, A. Shuford, and Jarrell. Back row—Coach Rowe and Manager B. C. Wilson.

CHASE RETURNS TO CHAPEL HILL

Reports Excellent Trip to the Pacific University.

TO GIVE DECISION SOON

People of the State Want Dr. Chase to Remain Here.

Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase returned to Chapel Hill Wednesday night from Oregon, where he viewed at first hand the offer of the presidency of the Pacific Coast University. He was not expected until Thursday; so his return came as something of a surprise.

While in the west Dr. Chase paid a short visit to the University of California. From there he went to Los Angeles, from whence he began his return trip home. He reports an excellent trip but further information is not forthcoming from the president. He does say, however, that there has been no time limit placed on his decision. He says that he will have his answer ready in a few days. The full board of trustees will meet in Raleigh on March 2 to hear the report of the committee which was appointed to confer with Dr. Chase in regard to his resignation. It is highly probable that the president's decision will be known before then.

Since his departure the people of the state have made it known in no uncertain tones that they would like to have Dr. Chase retain his position at the University of North Carolina. First the faculty of the University held a meeting in

TAR HEEL BOXERS LOSE TO VIRGINIA

Opening Meet of Season Dropped to Veteran Cavaliers.

MATCH IS HARD FOUGHT

Warren and Shuford Score Technical Knock-Outs Over Opponents.

The Tar Heel boxing team dropped its opening meet of the season Tuesday night at Charlottesville to the veteran University of Virginia aggregation, taking the small end of a 5 to 2 count after a series of hard fought battles. The match was much harder fought than the score indicates, the Cavaliers being pushed to their utmost in every contest, two of which went an extra period before a decision could be rendered, one by the judges and the other by the referee. Warren and Shuford both won their bouts on knock-outs while Butler was given a draw by the judges, after four rounds of fighting, only to have the referee decide in favor of Virginia.

"Black And White" Sets Merited Precedent Here

By BILL BOARD

Black and White, original revue "written, directed and staged by Kike Kyser," has added a new chapter to theatrical history at Carolina, and still there art hot afternoons in Montana. Which means that, all things being equal and times Square five hundred miles away, the show was a wow.

Poor old coffin-shaped Memorial Hall makes a dismal theatre. With its level floor, back-breaking benches, poor acoustics, makeshift stage, and terrible lighting facilities, it kills about thirty-five per cent of the effectiveness of any show at the very outset. But with all these handicaps Black and White managed to open with a bang and to maintain interest at an unusually high level until the superb finale. There were few dull spots in the show, which is about as much as can be said for a production of this sort.

The usual rough spots attendant upon opening night were observable but not

FRESH-SOPH DEBATERS HOLD PRELIMINARIES

Speakers Are Chosen to Represent Phi Assembly in Annual Inter-Society Debate.

Who said that the Phi Assembly was dead? No matter, his statement was disproved on last Tuesday night when twelve men entered the preliminaries for one debate, this being the annual Fresh-Soph inter-society debate. The large number was an added feature since members of the upper classes were prohibited from participation.

The query is resolved. That the governor of North Carolina should have the veto power over legislation. In the many prepared speeches for all of those trying out hardly a single thing was repeated by any contestant that had been previously spoken. It is thought that this was due to the lack of definite material on the subject, and all of the speeches showed that thought and individual work had been the specialty in the preparation.

BELDING CHOSEN TO COACH HERE

University of Iowa Star Made Assistant Football Coach.

NOW COACH AT CLINTON

More Additions Will Be Made to Present Staff.

Lester G. Belding, star football and track men of the University of Iowa, now coach at Clinton, Iowa, high school, has been selected as assistant football coach at the University of North Carolina. He will be in charge of basketball, and will act as assistant coach of track. Belding was among the many applicants who recently visited Chapel Hill to confer with the athletic committee.

His athletic career, both as a player and coach has been unusually brilliant. He was coached by Howard Jones, University of Iowa has ever produced. He was coached by Howard Jones. Under his direction the Clinton highs have won 30 out of a total of 37 basketball games, and have won seven out of nine track meets held. After his graduation he played on a semi-professional football team that lost two games in three years.

His record at Iowa was one of which he might well be proud. He won four letters in football and three in track. As end at Iowa he made the all-conference team three years and all-western two years. In high school and on the professional team with which he played he worked well in the backfield.

FLYING PHANTOMS END SEASON WITH SPLENDID RECORD

Record Shows Total of Sixteen Victories Against Five Defeats.

COBB SCORES 246 POINTS

All-Southern Forward Leads Team in Scoring For Third Consecutive Season.

The Flying Phantoms left this week for Atlanta in search of a third straight Southern Championship in basketball. They go to the Tournament this time leaving behind them a fine record for games won and lost in the regular scheduled games of the season. Their record for this season does not equal that of the 1924 quint, the team that went through the season without a defeat before or during the tournament, but they have played out a hard schedule this year, and their record shows 16 wins against 5 losses.

Whether they can continue the precedent set by the Tar Heel teams of the last two seasons and bring back the Tournament title to be seen, but they deserve all honor for the record they have already made. The team started the year without a coach, but Coach Sanburn, former Woodbury Forest mentor took charge of the squad early after the Christmas holidays. With four lettermen to build around he immediately began molding the team that has met the best teams the South and East can offer.

Captain Bill Dodderer, Jack Cobb, Billy Devin and Bunn Hackney were the four old players to return, and in addition there were several men from the 1925 scrubs and freshmen quints. "Red" Barber, Bob Sides and Billy Harvell were the men from the scrubs to return, while from Coach "Pop" Shepherd's Tar Baby five came Vanstory, Newcomb, Morris and Perkins.

From this crew of prospects the new mentor got together a group of players that began their season in the usual successful manner with the Durham Y. M. C. A. fives. The Tar Heels won both contests by good scores. The first game was in Durham and was taken by the Carolina outfit by the count of 42 to 35, with Bunn Hackney leading the scoring for the Tar Heel quint. Jack Cobb struck his stride in the return game with the "Y" five and shot 16 points for the Phantoms' 41 to 19 win.

Wofford, Clemson and Guilford then fell before the onslaughts of the Carolina tossers on successive nights on the Tin Can floor. The Wofford terriers were put away by the count of 41 to 23, the Clemson Tigers were buried under the overwhelming score of 50 to 20, while the Quaker tossers were taken in tow by a score of 44 to 20. Cobb and Hackney examined their scoring rampage in all of these games and tallied

VIEWS GIVEN ON OXFORD DEBATE

J. F. Cooper Reports His Impression To Alumni Review.

NOT A GREAT DEBATE

Purpose of Debate Council To Raise Existing Debating Standards.

In the February Alumni Review, J. F. Cooper, well known Carolina debator and a member of the Carolina team that recently met debators from Oxford on the subject of the World Court, writes an interesting letter in which he gives his impression of the event in which the Carolinians lost by an overwhelming vote of the audience. Mr. Cooper says that the contest was not truly a great debate and that though the Englishmen did excel in delivery, the Tar Heels were well ahead in the organized proof given. He adds that the contest furnished a mirror for the campus, and that it is the purpose of the Debate Council to raise the now existing standards. The letter is as follows:

Editor THE REVIEW:

As a member of the Debate Council and as one of Carolina's speakers in the Carolina-Oxford debate, I wish to give you my impressions of the event and its significance to me. Yet, although many occur in the sentiments here expressed, I do not claim that this criticism is official or that it represents the feeling of the student body.

The contest was not truly a great debate. Our men did not make a splendid showing. But such statements as
