Exercises at Memorial Hall—
Dr. Chase to Preside

Plans for the Armistice Day exercises to be held here Tuesday have been completed. The program gives the chapel hour on Thursday to the event, eleven o'clock classes being omitted to give room for the extensive plans. President Chase will preside.

The University band will play martial airs as the audience assembles; being followed by Rev. A. S. Lawrence, Chaplain of the local American Legion post, who will give the invocation. A National hymn will be sung by the audience preceding the reading of the roll of University dead by Dean Hibbard. The roll of the American Legion dead will then be read by J. O. Harmon, commander of the local post. Taps will sound, and there will be a two minute silence in memory of the war heroes.

Judge W. W. Bond, of Edenton, will make the address of the occasion. The National Anthem will be sung, followed by the benediction.

The exercises are given under the joint auspices of the University and the American Legion. The committee of arrangements, headed by Dr. Bookler, is composed of E. A. Abernathy, J. B. Bullitt, Carl Durham, H. R. Totten, and J. O. Harmon.

With a ripping attack on two targets, the Carolina Rifle Club opened its season of long and short distance shooting yesterday on the best range in North Carolina. The two-hundred-yard points are only about half completed, but shooting can be done from either one. A number of members showed that they were good shots, for new "spotters" were required. This is the first official shooting of the season, though there was some shooting done Thursday. This was merely a case of sighting and adjusting rifles.

Today at 10:30 all members in good standing, that is, those who have paid their dues will be allowed to go out and shoot to "their heart's content". The meeting place is in the basement of Alumni Building at the Club office. Any member of last year, or any student desiring to join, will be allowed to accompany the members to the range and can enjoy their privileges upon payment of the dues. No man will be allowed to shoot unless he has paid his dues. Membership cards stamped with the official seal of the Carolina

Director of Women Voters Will Speak To the N. C. Club

Mrs. Mary B. Cowper, Regional Director of the League of Women voters, will speak at the meeting of the North Carolina Club Monday night. "Woman's New Place in Public Life" will be the subject of her talk. In addition she will discuss the things which the women of North Carolina desire to see accomplished by the next general assembly.

Mrs. Cowper has spoken in several states during the past campaign and she is in a position to give her audience accurate opinions on current political questions, in the opinion of officers of the club. They have extended a special invitation to the co-eds and the women of the faculty to attend the meeting.

Excellent Program is Promised
Chapel Hill Music Lovers

The University Department of Music will give in Memorial Hall, Sunday afternoon at 3:30 promptly, a concert of unusual interest. Charles Troxell, tenor, and his daughter Helena Troxell, pianist and accompanist, will present the program.

Mr. Troxell is a member of the music department as a vocal instructor, and is in charge of the music of the First Presbyterian Church of Greensboro, where he also has a large voice class. He has been located in Greensboro for the past three years, and is well-known there as the possessor of a dramatic tenor voice of great charm. Prior to his coming to Greensboro, he gave a series of concerts out of New York. His principal work with the University is the assisting in the direction of the Glee Club.

Miss Helena, who is only twelve years old, is undoubtedly one of the most remarkable young musicians in this section of the country. Besides accompanying her father, she will play two groups of solos. Both musicians are known locally, as they appeared here in two recitals during the first summer session.

This, the second concert of the student series, virtually assures a pleasant afternoon of varied program music.

SEVERAL TAR BABIES OUT

Carolina Freshmen's Only North
Carolina Foe

Two of the strongest freshman football teams in the South are scheduled to clash today at Raleigh when the Tar Babies meet the Wolflets of State college in their annual clash.

Today's game is the only opportunity the Tar Babies will have this year to play against a North Carolina freshman team, as no other contests with Tar Heel first year teams have been arranged. If the athletes of Coach Belding and Pritchard expect to have any sayso at all about the freshman State football championship, they will have to do their saying today.

The Wolflets have the strongest team this year that the Raleigh college has had in the past five years, and an easy victory over the Tar Babies is their plan of action at present. Coach Sammy Homewood has one of the most brilliant backfields that ever marched up and down old Riddick field. His freshmen have played two games, one a 26 to 7 victory over Newport News Apprentice School, and the other a nothing to nothing tie with

Sprinters

An added attraction for the spectators at the football game this afternoon will be the cross country meets between University and State College Varsity and Freshman teams that are scheduled to come between the half. The races will start on the track in front of the grandstand and finish at the same place.

While the runners are out of sight covering the three and a half mile course, Carolina will meet Duke in a mile relay event, each man running a quarter mile. Relay races are always thrilling and today's contest should prove no exception. Duke has four men who have been working out all season in this event and together present a powerful combination that is favored to win the relay. Coach Ranson is banking on Rhinehart, varsity half miler, Sandlin, freshman quarter miler last year, Milested, varsity half-miler in 1924, and Harrison, a member of last year's track squad, to carry the baton over the finish line ahead of the running Blue Devils.

Sanford Eliminates Durham High from Championship Race

Capt. Harry Frazier, of Sanford High, ran wild on Emerson Field yesterday to score two touchdowns for his team and bring it from behind to a 13 to 6 win over Durham High School. The Sanford victory gave the Lee County eleven the title in Group II of the eastern state championship race, and resulted in the only score against them during the 1926 season.

Durham tallied the lone score against Sanford soon after the game began on a march down the field led by Sher. Late in the second quarter Frazier, the Sanford flash, broke loose on a series of broken field dashes to tie the score. Another touchdown by Frazier on a line driving attack in the third quarter accounted for the victory.

His Whistle at Three O'clock

Emerson Field will be the stage for a colorful event this afternoon when V. M. I. trots upon the scene ready to engage Carolina in a grueling duel.

The football stock of both institutions took a decided rise last week. The Keydets upset the dope by outplaying Davidson's scrapping felines throughout most of the contest, and emerged victorious. The flying squadron evinced flashes of brilliant team play in offensive tactics; while Davidson was able only on rare occasions to penetrate the Keydet's forward wall with any consistency. Early in the season V. M. I. held Georgia Tech's "golden tornado" to a couple of touchdowns. Since then the Virginians have bolstered their outfit admirably. The eleven which will meet Carolina today is an aggregation possessing a world of speed and deceptiveness. The system employed by the mentors of the invading institution is in many respects suggestive of the Notre Dame method used by coach Collins and his staff. V. M. I., however, has been drilled in the same system for a period of several years, and members of the Keydet squad are familiar with every detail through long association.

Pickwick Gives Gold Footballs

"I—like everybody else—am interested in seeing things well done, and there are two things being well done on the campus this year. I have never seen—in the sixteen years that I have been on this campus—anything like the support that the student body is giving its football team this season. Compliments have poured in from all over the state and praise has been heaped upon the wonderful cheering system by Kyser.

"The second point that I wish to make is that the work done by the coaches this year is little short of marvelous. Considering the raw material and the radical change in the system, theirs has been a remarkable achievement. If we continue the cooperation and interest which has been shown this year Carolina must eventually turn out a record-breaking team." Such was the substance of President Chase's speech made at the third Cherio show which was staged in Memorial Hall last evening.

Coach Ashmore said in part: "No team which has come under my observation has made as much progress as has the Carolina football squad in the last
