West, North Carolina College for Women; Le Roy Jackson, Carolina New College; Elba Henninger, Greensboro College for Women; and Virginia Horn, Wilson High School.

Anderson Returns

"Andy" Anderson, erstwhile editor of the Buccaneer, returned to Chapel Hill yesterday to assist in editing this issue of the Tar Heel. "Andy" has quite a reputation in his home town, Greenwood, S. C., for his versatility in various lines. He states that he will probably see the V. P. I. game this afternoon, barring unforeseen accidents.

CHURCH CANNOT ENTER POLITICS

Dr. Poteat Says Christ Did Not Want Church Made Political.

"The church of Christ cannot enter politics," Dr. William Louis Poteat, president-emeritus of Wake Forest college, declared here last night in the last of his three lectures before the Chapel Hill School of Religion.

Dr. Poteat made the statement in the course of a discussion of "religion and business and government and the Christ's way."

"When Jesus was meditating his plans in the Jordan solitudes it was suggested to him that he adopt the political policy which had proved successful in the world kingdoms established before his day," Dr. Poteat said. "But Jesus repudiated the suggestion under the most solemn sanctions. He would win his kingdom, not by force, but by an inward spiritual ministry. He would achieve social righteousness by the leave of individual righteousness."

"Jesus left no specifications for the construction of his regenerate social order, no creed, no code of laws, no instructions in the duties of citizenship. He spoke no word about political institutions, but he is the only radical and sure reformer of them. And that, because he deals with men, not mechanisms, with the springs of action, not activities. It follows that his church cannot enter politics."

Tar Heels to Face "Pony Express" in Second Tilt Today

Coach Collins has shifted the Tar Heels about considerably since the Harvard game. Some of the juggling has strengthened the Tar Heel line. Ray Farris, star guard on the 1927 team, is back at his old stand and Earl Donahoe, another of the 1927 guards, is playing Farris's place. This shift has considerable punch to the line on the offense and will also strengthen it defensively. Both Farris and Donahoe are good defensive players. Other shifts have affected the backfield. Tommy Gresham may get the wall over Ed Foard at full-back. However indications are that the Charlotte boy will start against the collegians. Jimmie Maus has been shifted into Gresham's place at right half back and Strud Nash has stepped up to fill Maus's old place. The Charleston boy has been consistent lately and may prove another sophomore find.

The rest of the line may remain the same although Jimmie Hudson, captain of the 1927 yearling team, may get the call over Bud Shuler to pair up with Farris at Guard. Shuler missed the first two days of practice this week, being detained in Washington. However, nothing is certain about the line-up that will face the "Pony Express" this afternoon.

Playmakers to Appear in Six Different States

(Continued from page one) majority of it. And the reviewer refuses to forgive its existence. About one-third of the prose is inane, one-third fair, and the remainder good. There are about half a dozen jokes which have, unfortunately, frayed edges and antediluvian ancestors. One or two of the captions under the cuts are really humorous, but the majority of them compare favorably with those printed under the drawings in last year's Buccaneer. For the edification of the first year men we explain that they have no connection at all with the cut under which they are run.

Brown Derby Excellent

Brown Derby, conducted under the pseudonym of J. J. Swanjean, is cleverly written and is, by far, the best writing in the issue. We turn to the editorial page (which has a very attractive headpiece) and notice that the editor states that his policy this year shall be to print material that is "not to clean for the public, too dirty for the faculty, or too humorous to be original." We fear that the editor has carried out the first of the three objectives to the detriment of the second. Lewdness does not characterize the issue, but it appears in leper-like spots throughout the number. However, we congratulate the editor on his intent.

The two-column cut at the foot of the Brown Derby page spoils the makeup of the entire page and causes the material to be continued. There are three editorials continued from the page reserved for them. This gives a poor appearance to the page. The staff page is to our liking, replacing the one used last year to advantage.

The editor prints an appeal for copy. If the students have sympathy and answer the call of distress, perhaps the boss will have an opportunity to "pick" his material rather than have to run everything that is submitted.

We do not wish to be too hard on the initial appearance of the old sea dog. The first issue of any publication, we have observed, is usually the poorest of the year. And even at that, this first issue is a very punny number.

Army Man finds Tobacco "Like Old Friend"

U. S. Army Fort Robinson, Nebr. May 29, 1928

Latus & Bro. Co. Richmond, Va. Gentlemen:

Speaking of champion long-time members of the EDGEWORTH Club, say:—it isn't how long you have smoked Edgeworth, it's how well you have enjoyed the smoke.

Why, I have walked out of many a store, especially when traveling, to stop at some one-horse town and buy Edgeworth. A good pipe deserves Edgeworth, and Edgeworth mine gets. I would not insult it with any other. "The familiar blue cans are everywhere" and usually you find men of taste carrying them, which proves it is not the price that determines a good "smoky" tobacco, but the care and method that produce it.

I would rather go days without Edgeworth and at the end draw a deep inhale of that cool "smelly" aroma, satisfying to the last puff, than punish my throat and lungs and nostrils with inferior grades.

Edgeworth is "The Smoke With a Personality," like an old friend, you learn to know and understand, and when troubled or when you have a "thinky" problem—you seek its solace and companionship.

Very truly yours, (signed) E. H. Fulmer
