Venable Hall Supply Rooms Remodelled
 The supply room of Venable Hall which was destroyed by fire last Spring has recently been remodeled and re-equipped.
 The large store room has been divided into three smaller ones and each compartment is fireproof within itself.
 Each room is connected to the other by small fireproof doors. The doors, when opened, are held by chains that will melt under a low temperature and in case of fire, they will automatically close. This prevents the fire from entering the next room.
 Each room is equipped with steel shelving and all supplies are unpacked on the outside of the rooms and are carried in and stored. Excelsior is eliminated by this process and the danger of fire is lessened. Chemicals are stored in one room, acids in another, and various apparatus are kept in the third.
 The Chemistry department has fully recovered from the loss of last year's fire and wishes to announce that fires of a large scale are impossible in the future.

Playmaker Building and Staff

Playmakers Progress Rapidly Under Direction of Dr. Koch

Founded Ten Years Ago; Now A Nationally Known Organization.
 It is now ten years. In that time we have had a part in a remarkable renaissance in the drama here in North Carolina. Ten years ago—Barrett Clark tells us—North Carolina was stricken from the mailing list of Samuel French, Inc, publishers of plays, as a dead state. It was so dead in fact in its dramatic interests as not to warrant the postage necessary for the mailing of their catalogues!
 Ten years ago The Carolina Playmakers was formed and our Bureau of Community Drama was organized. Five years ago our Carolina Dramatic Association was formed and our dramatic festival and state tournament organized.
 In this decade The Carolina Playmakers have produced 59 of their original Folk-Plays by 42 different authors. Eight of these are early plays by Paul Green, winner of the Pulitzer Prize in 1927, for his epic tragedy of the negro, "In Abraham's Bosom." The highest recognition that can come to a playwright in America has come to one of our own Playmakers. And today, since the simple beginnings of The Carolina Playmakers, three other native North Carolinians—Lula Volmer, Hatcher Hughes, and Anne Bridgers—have made an important contribution to American folk drama on Broadway.
 Our Playmakers have made 21 tours, playing in every nook and corner of North Carolina, and into Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, Maryland, The District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, and New York. We have played in 63 different towns in North Carolina and in 27 of the leading cities in other states. We have played to 347 different audiences, numbering in all more than 150,000 people.
 Two volumes of our Carolina Folk-Plays have been published by Henry Holt and Company, and a third volume now in the press. These plays have been widely read and produced in towns and cities all over the United States.
 We now have our own well equipped building on the campus—The Playmakers Theatre, the first state-owned theatre in America to be devoted to the making of its own native drama.

 Far from being dead today in North Carolina, we are very much alive to the drama in this year of grace, 1928. We have acting everywhere—and our state-wide Carolina Dramatic Association!
 Johnnie Henderson, captain of both the track and cross-country teams at the University opened his campaign for Southern Conference honors last week by leading the pack home in the annual Carolina-V. P. I. dual cross-country meet. Henderson's time for the five mile course was 28 minutes 21 seconds, a time that compares favorably with Galen Elliott's Conference record for that distance over the hill and dales.
 Now is the time to subscribe to the TAR HEEL.

Reporter converts News Editor to this Pipe Tobacco

London, England.
 Feb. 7, 1928
 Larus & Bro. Co.
 Richmond, Va.
 Dear Sirs:
 About two years ago I bought a tin of Edgeworth tobacco. I was so pleased with its slow-smoking qualities and wonderful aroma that I became an Edgeworth enthusiast and have smoked no other tobacco since, although up to that time I think I can truthfully say I had tried every well-known British mixture and flake.
 Moreover, I introduced one of the other reporters to it. He in turn introduced another and he another until finally it reached the News Editor. There are now five of us all smoking Edgeworth and enjoying it so much that I thought you might like to have this little appreciation of what, to Britishers, is a comparatively unknown tobacco. I wish you every success.
 Yours faithfully,
 (signed) David Moore

 That's the alumni slogan: "Meet me at Miss Cates, the University Cafeteria down on Main Street."
 "All the old boys will be there—sorta an alumni reunion headquarters. They can't stay away."
 "Nope, food's too good, and besides the place has the old home atmosphere of real hospitality that makes you wish you were a student again and eating there all the time."
 "Sure does, well see you there after the game."
