Army Man finds Tobacco "Like Old Friend"

Gentlemen:

Speaking of champion long-time members of the EDGEWORTH Club, say:—it isn't how long you have smoked Edgeworth, it's how well you have enjoyed the smoke.

Why, I have walked out of many a store, especially when traveling, to stop at some one-horse town and buy Edgeworth. A good pipe deserves Edgeworth, and Edgeworth mine gets. I would not insult it with any other.

"The familiar blue cans are everywhere," and usually you find men of taste carrying them, which proves it is not the price that determines a good "smoky" tobacco, but the care and method that produce it.

I would rather go days without Edgeworth and at the end draw a deep inhale of that cool "smelly" aroma, satisfying to the last puff, than punish my throat and lungs and nostrils with inferior grades.

Edgeworth is "The Smoke With a Personality," like an old friend, you learn to know and understand, and when troubled or when you have a "thinky" problem—you seek its solace and companionship.

Very truly yours,
(signed) E. H. Fulmer

Much Interest Is Shown In University Military Organization

The military organization of the University has been holding classes involving statistical tactics twice a week for several months. Its object is to stimulate interest in the University in this line. It offers a wide discussion of all branches of military interest. The class procedure is simple but effective. The presiding officer explains the principles involved in some particular branch then there follows an open discussion. Questions are asked on both sides and explanations follow.

Interesting topics such as: field artillery, drill and combat principles, the rifle squad, platoon, dismounted ceremonies, extended order drill,

All in all it appears at least from the pages and pages of publicity that have been pouring into the hands of Mrs. Daniels, secretary to Mr. Koch, since the Playmaker bus started on its three thousand mile pilgrimage a week and a half ago, that the renown of the Carolina dramatists has spread still farther.

A performance before the pupils of Professor Baker at Yale University, another great exponent of creative and native drama was made last night at the Yale Theatre.

dent of that institution. Thus closed another successful tour of the University Glee Club throughout the state.

The Glee Club closed its Fall tour of the state with its Raleigh performance and return engagements are being asked of the club in practically every town visited. Entertainments and dances were given the club in nearly every place and critics praised the performances of that organization as being perfect in every detail. Robersonville, a town in which the club gave a matinee, turned out in full for the performance and presented a home talent play in its honor immediately before its appearance there. A luncheon was also tendered the Glee Club at that place.

The winter trip of the Glee Club, which has not yet been worked out, will probably carry the club into several states. Carrying its full quota of members allowed, and accompanied by Professors Weaver and Kennedy, the latter acting as accompanist, and Wesley Griswold, student soloist, the Glee Club made a favorable impression throughout the state and is assured that North Carolina will rejoice in the foreign triumphs which the club hopes to make on their second tour abroad which has been planned for this summer.

fullback, may or may not see service in this contest. A foot operation kept him out of practice all of last week and he may not be in shape for the contest. Even if he is to play he will be facing the Cavaliers for the first time.

Thus it is with both teams. They are waiting. Perhaps they are anxious. Many of them have played against each other before, either representing the two institutions or in their prep school days. Old feuds will be renewed, and perhaps some of the players who once lined up side by side will line up across the imaginary line Thursday.

The Virginia line outweighs that of Coach Collins' and has an edge on it in experience. But both have demonstrated their ability to hold. As a result it is likely to be an air battle. It was last year. The same ends and backs are again representing Virginia. They passed last fall. Although the complexity of the Carolina backfield is changed almost completely, yet the Carolina game has been an air game this year. Thus the air battle.

Thus will the two teams begin the battle Thursday. It is more than a football game, it is the Carolina-Virginia game. Both teams are confident. One is to be disappointed. Which it is to be will be decided Thursday. Until then they can only speculate.
