Grid Dust from the Grid Pan

THOSE TERRIBLE BLUE DEVILS Ever since Howard Jones own to North Carolina several years go we have been hearing tales of now terrible the Blue Devils were going to be. When Jimmy Dehart, Duke, or of anyone else proficient in Washington and Lee mentor, took the art of psychophysics, hypnotism. over the coaching duties at the Methodist institution, those tales became very pronounced everywhere in North Carolina. Almost three years have passed since the former Lexington coach assumed control of the draws a crowd, entertains royally, Devils and now it is claimed that he and adds another molecule of fear to has built a really powerful machine his room-mates' misgivings in roomover in Durham.

They have had it ever since their guesses they would rather lick play. That is Carolina's luck. Davidson had the same desire. So had Virginia. Both lost. It's Duke's turn now. We think they will lose. THE CAROLINA GOAL POST ous Carolina students who confiscated in the middle of the floor. One night the Virginia goal post after the he was awakened by the contact of Thanksgiving game, Duke is planning his bare feet against the cold floor, to take the uprights placed at the two ends of Kenan field home with them. That is if they win. But according to Duke they can't lose. They have the best team in the South. They beat State, Mercer, Wake Forest, Davidson, and perhaps one or two others. Now they are going to beat Carolina. When they do it they must beat us completely and take the goal posts back to Durham as souvenirs. They will also try to take anything else back to Durham they can get their hands on, but what they want are the goal posts. They are necessary. They must be captured. We haven't sounded out student sentiment here at the Hill on the proposition, but we have an idea that most of them would hate to see the beauty of Kenan field marred by having Duke students tramp over it and take the goal posts away. Of course the football team will do its best to keep the uprights where they are, but we are wondering what will happen if the unexpected occurs and Carolina loses. What we are driving at is this: How many Carolina students are going to defend the uprights if we happen to lose the game?

Perhaps the psychologist who says there is no such thing as pain has never listened to psychologists.
