

ANOTHER WARREN JOINS TAR HEEL PUGILISTIC SQUAD

John Warren Promises to Step Into Light Heavyweight Berth Formerly Held By His Brother Ad.

There is another of the fighting Warrens on the University of North Carolina boxing team this year. Young John Warren, brother of the nationally famous Ad Warren, will step into the light heavyweight berth on the Tar Heel squad, filling the post formerly held by his pugilistic brother.

The Tar Heels boast only four lettermen as they prepare to defend the Southern Conference championship won last season, and this younger Warren is doped to fill a big hole. John Warren fought the light heavy class with last year's freshman team, and many observers say he shows even more promise than the Ad Warren that is now scrapping for Gene Tunney's abdicated throne.

This 1929 edition of the Warren family is built upon much the same mold as Ad, but he has the advantage of several years tutoring in the manly art of scrambled ears. Certainly he comes of fighting stock, and his opponents on the Tar Heel squad say he can sock with the best of them.

At any rate Coach Ed Butler is depending upon the boy to fill one of the seven posts on his Tar Heel team this year. The four lettermen expected to team with Johnnie Warren include Captain Charlie Brown, middleweight; Odell Sapp, heavyweight; Archie Allen, welterweight; and Cheatham Coley, bantam. Brown and Allen won individual Southern titles last year, and they may repeat this time. The other berths on the Tar Heel team will be filled by sophomores.

TAR HEEL BOXERS TO DEFEND CROWN

Coach Ed Butler Builds Team Around Four Lettermen to Defend Southern Conference Championship Won Last Year.

The Tar Heel boxers are preparing to defend their Southern Conference crown this year, with four lettermen forming the nucleus of the 1929 team. Coach Ed Butler, captain of last year's seven, will fill the gaps with sophomores up from last year's freshman squad.

Butler takes over the coaching reins from Crayton Rowe, the young mentor who built up the brilliant teams of last year and the year before, and all this fall the new coach has had his leatherpushers hard at work. That fall training will tell, too, for the Tar Heels have just nine days before the opening meet with Clemson.

Captain Charlie Brown, middleweight; Odell Sapp, heavyweight; Archie Allen, welterweight; and Cheatham Coley, bantamweight, are the four veterans to return. All of them won letters last year, and Charlie Cummings is another member of last year's squad who is back in togs. Cummings did not win his letter last season, although he has scrapped in several varsity meets in two years.

Those old heads will probably care for their weights again, although young Eyan Vaughan will give Coley a battle for the bantamweight toga. Vaughan was the outstanding man on last year's freshman team, and he packs a mean wallop for a bantam.

The prospects for the seven divisions show at least one man in each weight. Coley and Vaughan are bantams; Cummings appears in the class of the featherweights; Hoke Webb and Noah Goodridge look good in the lightweight; and Allen will match veteran knowledge against Obie Davis in the welter class. Captain Charlie Brown will care for the middleweight; John Warren, brother of Ad, will fight the light heavyweight; and Odell Sapp, star football end, will likely care for the heavyweight burden.

SELF-HELP NOTICE

Grady Leonard, Self-Help Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., wishes to urge any self-help students who are entertaining the idea of not returning to school next quarter to come by the Y and see him before they make any definite plans.

Two Veteran Forwards

Pictured above are Henry Satterfield and Captain Rufus Hackney, veteran forwards on the University of North Carolina basketball squad, who are now playing together for their eighth successive year, including their high school days at Durham. Coach Jim Ashmore is pinning considerable faith in these boys in shaping up his ambitions for a fifth Southern Conference basketball title, for the Tar Heels have won four since 1922.

CAROLINA LOSES TO BUTLER QUINT

Tar Heel Cagers Get 43-20 Trimming in Opener of Mid-west Trip.

The University basketball team suffered defeat at the hands of Butler College, Indianapolis, Tuesday night, 43-20. It was the first game of a northern invasion for the Tar Heels.

The White Phantoms played a listless game all the way through, apparently tired out by their long trip north. The Butler team took the lead early in the game and maintained it throughout the first half. The Southern-five at the beginning of the second period crept within two points of the Bulldogs but were unable to top the Butler score.

Satterfield topped the scoring for Carolina while Chandler led for Butler.

The Tar Heels met Ohio State at Columbus last night and will play the University of Louisville, at Louisville, Ky., tonight.

Freshman Basketball Men to Meet Today

All candidates for the freshman basketball team will meet this afternoon at 4 p. m., according to Coach Belding. Every man is asked to report as practice will start for the Davidson game on January 12.

Captain Henderson Undergoes Operation

Captain Johnny Henderson had his tonsils removed immediately upon the closing of school, and therefore remained on the Hill during the early part of his holidays. He recovered rapidly from the operation.

MATMEN DEPEND ON SOPHOMORES

Coach Quinlan Has Three Lettermen Back But Even the Veterans May Be Forced out By Second Year Men.

The success of the University's 1929 wrestling season depends largely upon the way the sophomores come through in varsity competition. The Tar Heel varsity made only a fair record last season, but Coach Chuck Quinlan developed a championship freshman team. The members of that freshman squad form the bulk of the talent for this year's varsity.

Three of the varsity lettermen are back in tights this year. They are Captain Gene Thompson, 139 pounds; Dave Moore, 119 pounds; and Peyton Abbott, undefeated 149 pounder. These veterans worked daily for several weeks before Christmas holidays, along with a fair sized squad of younger talent. Several varsity football players will swell the squad after holidays.

It appears now that Stallings, brilliant 119 pounder off the freshman team, may oust Moore from his berth; and other young grapplers may take the remaining light weights. The 129 pound class shows no real candidate, but one of the several prospects in the next weight will train down to weight. Among the 139 pounders are Captain Gene Thompson, Bill Stone, Bob Zealy, Woodard and Albright. Zealy was the 129 pound regular last year.

Peyton Abbott is not likely to draw much competition in the 149 pound division, but Marion Cowper and Roy Moore will scrap for the 158 pound berth. Cowper was one of the last year's freshman team and looks plenty good this fall. Houghton, Joe Stone, and Bill Thompson are the outstanding 175 pounders, and one of them may have to go into the unlimited class.

The Tar Heel wrestlers face a tough schedule this year, and Coach Quinlan will have only a week or two after Christmas holidays to condition his men and polish off the squad for the heat of competition. Certainly, however, prospects are better this year than they have been for two seasons gone by.

Coach Quinlan Issues Call for Wrestlers

Captain Gene Thompson of the wrestling team has issued a call for all old men and all new men who are interested in wrestling to meet in Gerrard Hall tonight at 7 p. m. It is requested that all men who can possibly do so attend as plans for training and training rules will be discussed.

There will be wrestling practice for both varsity and freshmen at 4 p. m. in the Tin Can this afternoon.

Boxers to Meet

Coach Ed Butler issued a call yesterday for all varsity and Freshmen boxers to meet for practice in the Tin Can this afternoon at 4 p. m. All men are urged to be present as the first tilt will take place January 12 with Clemson College. All of the men will meet tonight in Gerrard hall at 7:30.

DURHAM GIVES FIVE CAPTAINS TO TAR HEELS

Rufus Hackney, Who Leads University Tossers, Is Fifth Bull City Boy to Lead the Phantoms Since 1920 and Is Second Hackney Leader.

The basketball players of Durham must surely see light under a lucky star. That is if it be considered lucky to captain one of the University of North Carolina's famous basketball teams. Five times in ten seasons the Tar Heels have drawn their leader from the nationally famous Bull City of North Carolina.

Rufus Hackney, star forward, leads the Tar Heels in their drive for hard-court fame this winter, and young Hackney is the fifth Durham boy to wear the captain's toga since the winter of 1920. Too, Rufus is the second of the Hackney family to lead the Tar Heels, for his brother Bunn was captain and a star guard on the squad back in 1927.

Billy Carmichael was the first Durham boy to attain the Carolina captaincy, and he led the team way back in 1920. Cart Carmichael, rated Carolina's greatest of many great cagers and a younger brother of Billy, was next in line. Cart captained the team that won Carolina's first Southern Conference title back in 1922.

The next year saw "Monk" McDonald, All-Southern, guard from Charlotte, break Durham's line of succession, and Wint Green swung another revolution in 1924. However, Jack Cobb broke back into line and gave Durham another captaincy in 1925, and the Tar Heels celebrated the rebirth of the Bull City dynasty by winning a second successive Southern Conference crown. Captain Wint Green's five had won the title in 1924 without a defeat to mar their record.

The last four seasons have yielded Durham captains on alternate years, with Bunn Hackney leading the team in 1927 and young Rufus Hackney slated to head the campaign this winter. Bill Dodderer and Pinky Morris, both All-Southern guards, were captains in 1926 and 1928 on the alternate tickets.

Grid Dust from the Grid Pan

DUKE COMES THROUGH

Duke achieved the well nigh impossible when their application for membership in the Southern Conference was accepted. For quite a few years the Conference, composed of 22 Colleges and Universities in the South, has refused to allow new members. In fact, the membership of the organization was limited to twenty-two members by the constitution of the body. But at its last meeting the constitution was amended to allow an extra member. This meant that Duke was in.

The admission of the Methodist institution means quite a bit to North Carolina. For the past few years Duke has been turning out good teams. The grid teams put out by Jimmy Dehart have done well. Last winter they had a splendid basketball outfit. Their track teams have been giving Carolina more trouble than most any Southern Conference team. Baseball used to be the big sport at Trinity and since the College became a University their teams haven't suffered. In the minor sports they have had good teams. In fact, some of their minor teams have been better than the Conference champions in that sport. Without a doubt Duke will continue to have good teams. The schedules they have are enough to attract many athletes to the place and the publicity they gained from the endowment left them by the Tobacco King brought quite a few men down there. The basketball outfit representing them this year is one of the best in the South. They had a good outfit last winter and with four of the best men back again and the acquisition of a center who can hold his own with any will give the diminutive forwards and guards a chance to get going. It will not surprise us to see them step out in the tournament in Atlanta. Watch the Blue Devils.

ALL-STATE TEAMS

Tar Heel grid players fared quite well at the hands of sport writers in North Carolina and throughout this section of the South generally in the selection of all star teams. Captain Harry Schwartz, Odell Sapp, and Ray Farris received more mention than any other players from Carolina. Jim Wagner was close behind these three and then there were several others who made various all-state teams. Strud Nash, Bill Koenig, and Jimmie Maus were mentioned several times. This all goes to show that the State Champions boasted quite a few good players during the past fall. The team was without a doubt the best Carolina has had since the famous team of 1922. It carried the heaviest punch that any Carolina team has had in many years and besides that it had what most Carolina teams have lacked during the past few years—gameness. They always gave a good account of themselves and at times literally swept their opponents off their feet with their offense.

THE SOUTH OUT IN FRONT

Tech's great and spectacular victory over the Bears from California gave the Atlanta team a clear and undisputed claim to the national title. Only in the last few moments when the game was safely won did the Georgians give the far westerners a chance to get going. Throughout the game Tech was playing great football and except for fumbles at critical moments outplayed the losers decisively. It is a plume in the hats of a southern team to go through a season without a defeat and it makes the team even more outstanding when they go through a schedule that is as stiff as Tech's and then to top it off with a victory over one of the most powerful teams of the country. Evidently the record made by Alabama will be carried on by Georgia Tech.

Smoker "J" Awaiting Loved One

Jamesburg, N. J., December 2, 1927
Jest a-sittin', smokin' Edgeworth
An a-thinkin', dear of you;
An' a candle's burnin' brightly,
An' it says your love is true.
For the days are long, of waitin',
An' the nights are longer still,
An' sometimes (always smokin')
I pick up this old quill—
An' try to write some poetry
To tell you of my love.
As poetry it ain't much good,
But—holy days above—
It's jest the best I can, an' so
You'll find me, when I'm through.
Jest a-sittin', smokin' Edgeworth,
An' a-thinkin', dear, of you.
