PLANS COMPLETED FOR FRENCH TOUR

To Be Conducted by J. C. Lyons Under Auspices of Extension Division.

Final plans for the Residential Tour in France, to be conducted during the coming summer by Professor J. C. Lyons, under the auspices of the Extension Division, have been completed, according to an announcement coming from the office of R. M. Gruman, director of the University Extension Division. Many inquiries have already been received, and others are coming in daily. It is expected that the membership of the group will take shape rapidly in the course of the next few weeks, so that students in the University who are thinking of becoming members of the party are urged to get in touch with the Extension office of this fact at their earliest convenience. Students resident in the University will be given preference in the matter of membership, and it is important that the Extension Division know as early as possible the names of all students here who are contemplating joining the group.

The itinerary, announced earlier in the year, includes a three-week period of residence in the summer resort of Bagneres-de-Bigorre, in the Pyrenees mountains. An optional week's trip into Spain will be arranged for any members of the group who desire this, providing that they are not engaged in taking the courses offered during the period of residence. The travel program of the group carries its members to all the points of greatest interest in western and southern France, a week in Paris, as well as visits to the larger cities of Switzerland, Belgium, and England. Bulletins covering the details of the tour and further information may be obtained upon application to Mr. Gruman's office in South Building.

The study feature of the tour, combined with a generous allowance of time for travel, makes it possible to spend a most profitable as well as pleasant summer abroad. A maximum of two courses credit toward a degree can be obtained by successful completion of the course offered. Those who are interested in the study of the French language are thus enabled to pursue their studies under the most favorable conditions, and prospective teachers of French can combine that most essential stay abroad with progress toward their degrees. Last year's successful residential tour in Paris proved the benefits to be derived from these tours, and it is expected that the improved itinerary will make the coming summer's tour an even greater success. On Monday, March 25, at 4:45 p. m., Dr. Lyons will speak over radio station WPTF on the subject, "A Summer Abroad." His descriptions of the places to be visited on the French residential tour will be of interest to those contemplating European travel.

Dartmouth College Glee Club Wins In Annual Singing Meet

For the third consecutive year and the third time in seven years of competition, Dartmouth College won the intercollegiate glee club contest held at Carnegie Hall in New York, and thereby gained permanent possession of the glee club cup. Dartmouth sang Tschalkowsky's "He Is Gone" for the first division of the contest, and on it received 74.4 points from a possible 90.

New York University sang Morley's "My Bonny Lass" in the same group, and received 73.8, and Ohio State sang "Miserere Mei Deus," and received 71.4. Points were cumulative, and after each school sang Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me," the song on which the regional winners were selected, and for which 150 points were possible, the standing was: Dartmouth, 196.4; New York 195.8; Ohio, 194.4.

Other schools participating were: Duke University, winner of the Southern Association contest; Fordham University, LaFayette College, University of Oklahoma, winner of the Missouri valley contest; Yale University; Wesleyan University; Penn State College; and Columbia University. The positions of these schools were not announced.

Champaign, Ill.—(UP)—The mild epidemic of scarlet fever at the University of Illinois caused a quarantine here of a rooming house and the Delta Upsilon fraternity building. W. De Witt, Ripley, New York; and Joseph Hobbs, Fort Wayne, Indiana; are the latest victims to be affected.

Mr. M. G. Little, head of the teaching department of the Extension division, was in Monroe yesterday completing arrangements for organizing classes in Union county this spring.

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY CO-EDS RUN

POLICEMEN ESCORT THE GIRLS FROM CAMPUS

AMUCK WITH SCHOOL SCANDAL SHEET

Columbus, Ohio—(IP)—The sanctity of Farmer's Week must be preserved at all costs, so the Prom Prattler, so-called "scandal sheet" of Ohio State University co-eds, was chased off the campus here last week.

One of the quaint customs of this institution of learning is that, on the eve of big events, such as the junior prom, and the Home Coming Game, journalistically inclined boys and girls issue nonsense newspapers. The Junior Prom being scheduled for one night last week, one of the "lead stories" in this production was a long and ripping tale—entirely fictitious of course—that the Neil House, where the Prom was to be held, had burned down.

Other tidbits included such fabrications as that the president of the junior class had been secretly married for 13 years to Greta Garbo, and that Charles A. Lindbergh had enrolled in the College of Agriculture for the purpose of learning to know onions.

All in the spirit of fun and horse-play, of course, and well worth the price of 10 cents a copy charged by the girls of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalistic sorority, who concocted the foolishness.

But one must not tamper with Farmer's Week, which, through a strange miscarriage of bookings happened to be still in progress when the co-eds sallied forth to vend their publication in the campus buildings.

What if the farmers and their wives thought this stuff was true? Horrors! Higher education would be ruined.

Seeing the not unattractive news girls in the campus buildings, some of the Farmers' Week customers began to make purchases of the Prom Prattler and before long Dean Alfred Vivian of the College of Agriculture was bouncing up and down in his office.

Dean Vivian had called for the suppression of such wholly irrelevant and uneducational trash before and he was in no mood to trifle. It seemed that the girls had forgotten to make formal application at the office of President George W. Rightmire for permission to sell the paper inside the college buildings.

So, faced with a technical violation of the rules, Wm. C. McCracken, superintendent of buildings and grounds, issued a bull forbidding further sale of the Prom publication. William North, campus bailiff and traffic enforcement director told the girls they would have to move.

Seeing the girls escorted off the campus, students immediately suspected that something really hot was in the Prom Prattler and threw discretion to the winds as they rushed up High street to buy up the Prattler. Members of Theta Sigma Phi fifteen minutes later had sold the last of 1500 copies and were grateful. They had $150 in cash.

MADRID STUDENTS OPPOSING HEAD

Number of University Men Are Slightly Hurt In Clash With Officers.

Several shots were fired and a number of students were slightly injured recently in a continuation of demonstrations against the dictatorship of General Primo de Rivera by students of Madrid university, principally those in the schools of law, medicine and science. No serious consequences followed the shooting and the student injuries were confined to bruises.

The doors of the university were closed. When several small groups of students forced their way in they met a strong force of police. Publication of sentence of expulsion of a student at the industrial engineering school who was forbidden to enter any other in Spain or to occupy any public office had angered the other students. Most of them refused to attend lectures and walked the streets singing popular songs against the dictator.

The police surrounded the university buildings and patrols in the central streets of the capital dispersed any group which attempted to form. Two detectives who entered the medical school in disguise were roughly handled. Tonight the police arrested the leading agitators in their homes with the intention of sending them to small towns in the provinces. Many parents of students are sending their sons away from Madrid.

University Alumnus Makes Investigation

The foundation is interested in aiding communities in establishing libraries for the rural districts. Mr. Harrell is secretary and comptroller of the fund.

GILBERT APPEARS MINUS MAKE-UP

Star Even Wears Heavy Beard In Playing Desert Film; Carolina Today.

John Gilbert's characterization in "Desert Nights," his latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle which will open at the Carolina Theatre today, is one practically without make-up. It shows this popular star, for the first time in his colorful career, in vagabond attire, his features masked by a heavy beard. This appearance is necessary in the desert sequences which form a large part of the thrilling and tensely dramatic plot.

Only in the introductory episode is Gilbert seen smooth-shaven with, of course, the exception of his well-known moustache. In this scene he appears as the manager of a diamond mine in South Africa. Later he is made prisoner by an exceptionally clever crook and his bogus daughter and forced to accompany them on a mad dash across the desert as they try to escape with a fortune in stolen gems. The party is lost for days on the desert and nearly die and almost lose their minds from thirst and heat.

It is in the desert part of the film that Gilbert is masked by his heavy growth of whiskers. In order to make his appearance realistic he was not allowed to shave for three weeks with the result that at the end of the picture he sported considerable hirsute adornment.

Mary Nolan, who plays the feminine lead, was the only member of the cast to carry make-up into the desert country, and hers was preserved only by an especially equipped "icebox," which protected it from the terrific heat. Her hair was allowed to grow without being trimmed once during the entire production.

Ernest Torrence plays the role of the master crook who manipulates the daring robbery and later meets a horrible fate in the desert after he had attempted to double-cross his own confederates. He, too, was thoroughly masked by his beard before his work in front of the camera was finished.

Old East Is Next On Theatre's Program

Carrington Smith. As has been usual with this series of complimentary entertainments, the boys are requested to be on time and have with them the dormitory president.

A fraternity will be invited to attend as guests of the Manager of the theatre the week-end after the Spring holidays are over.

ORDER OF GRAIL TO GIVE TROPHIES

One Will Be Awarded to School Winning Southern Interscholastic Track Meet.

The Order of the Grail will award six cups this year to students who distinguish themselves in athletics or studies, or both, during the school year. One trophy also will be awarded to the school winning the Southern Interscholastic Track meet.

The Freshman Cup is given to the person who proves himself the best athlete and student in the class. All forms and branches of athletics and studies are taken into consideration in the selection of the winner of this cup. Another cup will be given to the person, freshman or upperclassman, who proves to be the high point score in intramural athletics. Cups will be given to the member of each of the varsity sports, football, basketball, track and baseball, who maintains the highest scholastic average during the entire year. The grades from the spring quarter of last year and the fall and winter quarters of this year are tabulated and the awards to the members of the four sports are given as a result of the final averages. It is necessary for a student to have made his letter in a varsity sport before he is eligible for one of the cups to be given to the varsity athletes.

A bronze plaque with a mahogany background is to be presented to the preparatory or high school which wins the Southern Interscholastic track meet which is held here in the spring. The winner of the plaque retains it until the next meet when it is then turned over to the winner of the meet. The school which wins the award for three years in succession retains it permanently.
