Tar Heel Discovers Fallacy In Elections Bill

CPU To Stage Forum Friday Night On Military Conscription

Gerrard Hall Will House Discussion

Four Faculty Members To Talk

First in a new series of Carolina Political Union panels dealing with the problems facing the country during the war and in the coming peacetime period will be held in Gerrard hall Friday night at 8:15 on "Post-War Military Conscription."

With the May bill pending in Congress and as administrative and legislative sentiment favoring various forms of National Service and the drafting of men classified in 4-F, increases, the subject of peacetime conscription looms with redoubled importance to college and university students.

Members of the panel are: Dean F. F. Bradshaw of the War College; Mr. Larry Johnson, formerly an instructor at the University of Iowa and Duke University and now news editor of station WDNC; Dr. E. E. Ericson of the English Department; and Dr. L. O. Kattsoff of the Philosophy Department.

After the formal speech of each of the panel members, the floor will be opened for questions from the audience. "Everyone is urged to come," CPU Chairman Jimmy Wallace said, "and especially does this apply to students who will in all probability be affected either by the new manpower proposals or by a conscription law."

As a continuation of the CPU's "all-out" panel series, a new panel is being prepared for next week and details will be announced in Saturday's Tar Heel. This panel will be on the subject of the National Service proposals and how such proposals will affect education. Exact details of the panel are not yet available.

In order to find out what campus sentiment really is on the subject of the peacetime draft and National Service proposals, the CPU is conducting a poll during the early part of next week. Poll booths will be set up at the YMCA and at other centrally located places on the campus.

By February 15, a slate of speakers for the first half of the new year will be released by the CPU. "Anyone interested in joining the CPU should procure an application blank at the YMCA information office and fill it out," said Wallace. "Interviews by the membership committee will be held as soon as a sufficient number of applications are obtained."

'The Gondoliers' Ranks As Gilbert And Sullivan's Best

"The Gondoliers," which the Carolina Playmakers, in collaboration with the Department of Music will present in Memorial Hall on January 26 and 27, is regarded by critics to be one of the best of the Gilbert and Sullivan libretti.

The authors themselves held "The Gondoliers" third in their esteem, preceding it only with "Yeomen of the Guard," which they considered their best work, and "The Mikado."

"The Gondoliers" was first produced by the D'Oyly Carte Company at the Savoy Theatre in London on December 7, 1889 and ran for 554 consecutive performances. It stands today as the greatest financial success of any show ever produced at that theatre. The opera was a spontaneous hit, as proven by the sale of 20,000 copies of the score on the first day of publication. Special honor was given the operetta when Queen Victoria loudly applauded the command performance at Windsor Castle.

The libretto of "The Gondoliers" is Gilbert in his best medium — being witty and charming and gay, while dealing with a slender plot. Again, as often happens in the world of Gilbert's fancy, there is some confusion over the identity of the real King, because long ago the foster-father of the prince lost track of which child in the house was his. Also in "Gondoliers," Gilbert accomplished his intention of writing an opera having no principal characters. Gilbert, 'tis said, was tired of the pretentious airs cul-

University Signs Contract To Conduct Veteran Center

With the express purpose of assisting disabled war veterans to secure jobs suitable to their capacities the University, under contract with the U. S. Veterans' Administration, has established a Vocational Adviseement Center for the state of North Carolina. The center of operations for the new organization is Peabody hall.

Ben Husbands, former registrar of the University who has been in Fayetteville as a member of the Veterans Administrations regional office there, will take over the duties of vocational adviser for the new government-university organization. Assisting Husbands in the job is M. E. Kelly, also a former member of the Fayetteville staff. Kelly's main post is to assign either a regular job or a training program for the veteran after it is determined what type of work is most suited for the individual. Miss Upchurch is the secretary of the center.

The first case is expected to arrive sometime this week.

Another vital part of the new organization is the testing unit which is directed by F. F. Bradshaw. Dr. W. D. Perry will conduct the tests. Dr. Perry has been in New York observing the same type of work which is to be done in the organization, at the first center of its kind in this country. The purpose of the New York Center is to train men from all over the country to carry out the rehabilitation program in other centers throughout the nation.

Although the center will deal mostly with disabled veterans who are sent here by the government, veterans who are not disabled may also seek advice from the organization.

Disabled veterans sent to Carolina for rehabilitation will be housed in the Carolina Inn Annex. Under the contract with the University, the government will subsidize the expenditures for accommodations and services as it does for the operation of regular military units already established. The discharged men may be trained in a school, office, college or factory. The government pays for all training expenses.

Just how many cases will be processed here is undetermined at the present, but as the staff and service here is limited, too large a number would necessitate expansion either here or establishment of a similar unit elsewhere in the state.

Student Council Plans To Improve Honor System

In conjunction with the Executive committee of the faculty, the student council elected three representatives from each group in a recent meeting to act as a permanent coordinating committee.

The purpose of the committee is to make recommendations to the administration and the student council for the improvement of conditions for a more workable honor system. The faculty members of the committee are Dr. William Wells, former chairman of the joint committee, Professor E. A. Emory and Lieut. Dunn, representing the Navy. The students members are Charles Benbow, Bill McNeely and Ed Twohey all who represent the student council.

Orientation plans were discussed at a supper session held last night at the Carolina Inn. The recommendations of the coordinating committee include plans for bettering examination conditions in order to make the honor system function efficiently.

Additional organization and more student participation and education to the Honor Code system will be sponsored by the coordinating committee which the student council hopes will put the Honor Code on a higher standard than it has been on in the past several months.

Dialectic Senate Opens Membership

Membership in Dialectic Senate is open to students according to Herbert Weber, president.

Application blanks may be obtained in the Y office or by contacting Rene Bernard. All applications will be considered before the existing memberships are filled.

Di meetings are now scheduled for 9 p.m. on Wednesday on the third floor of New West. The topic for discussion of the meeting this Wednesday night is: Resolved, that the greater University be centralized in one locale in order to bring the University of North Carolina, State College, and Women's College into one more economical unit.

Legislature, Thursday

The Student Legislature will meet for the first time this year at 8 o'clock Thursday night on the third floor of New East. All legislature members are urged to attend.

WCB Contest To Aid Sale Of War Bonds

Dance To Climax Beauty Contest

The Carolina pin-up girl, the "Miss Victory" of the campus, will be selected again this year in a contest sponsored by the War Coordination Board to step up student purchases of war bonds and stamps.

Getting underway January 15, the pin-up race will be climaxed with a mammoth dance which is scheduled for February 17 after final examination week at which time the winning beauty will reign as "queen of the victory ball."

The beauty contest will be conducted similarly to the one last year which went over with amazing success. All campus organizations are invited to participate in the contest by sponsoring as many candidates for the title of "Miss Victory" as they wish. A fee of one dollar will be levied on each entry in the race. The entries should be submitted to Kitty Kelly at second floor Carr or to Dal Davis in Pettigrew before midnight January 14.

Booths for bond purchases will be set up in the Y and will be open from 8 o'clock until 5 o'clock in the afternoon during the contest. A student may either purchase stamps or bonds which will entitle him to a certain number of votes for the entry of his choice, depending upon the denomination of the stamps or bonds purchased. A ten cent stamp will entitle the purchaser to one vote and in the case of war bonds, the maturity value will be the marker for the number of votes. For an example, the purchaser of a $25 bond will be entitled to 250 votes.

When entering candidates each organization should submit a portrait, preferably one of sharp black and white contrast and of large size. The submitted pictures of the participants will be posted in a glass-covered bulletin board in the Y so that voters will be able to see the picture of each candidate. The committee urges the organizations that expect to enter contestants to select their beauties and enter their names as soon as possible.

Two runner-ups will be featured in a figure along with the number one beauty in the climax of the contest, the "Victory Ball." Freddie Johnson will play for the dance and $1.00 in war stamps will be the admission charge.

Full data will be published in the Tar Heel about the entries and the

Wallace To Leave Circulation Post

Jimmy Wallace, Circulation Manager of the Tar Heel, resigned last night with the resignation becoming effective at the end of this week.

Wallace, a law student, said that pressing academic obligations had compelled him to take such action. Along with the resignation, a number of recommendations regarding circulation have been forwarded to the PU Board.

A new Circulation Manager, either permanent or temporary, will be appointed Friday by the PU Board. Anyone interested in the position is requested to write an application, stating qualifications, and to present such application to Margaret Woodhouse before Friday. Miss Woodhouse may be contacted at the Tri Delt House. Applicants will be interviewed on Friday afternoon at the regular meeting of the PU Board. The meeting will be held in the Grail Room at 2 o'clock.

Free Show Set At Carolina For Saturday

E. Carrington Smith, manager of the Carolina theater, announced yesterday that a free show will be given at the theater on Saturday morning at 10:30.

"Nature of the show will be a comedy," Smith said. "Also, a cartoon will be presented. Only admission for the show will be some article of old clothes which will go to the children of Belgium."

Presentation of the free show is a part of the current drive on the campus to collect old clothes. Sponsors of the drive are the Council for Religion in Life and the War Coordination Board. Jimmy Wallace is directing the drive for the CRIL.

Announcements of the free show will be made in the grammar and high schools of Chapel Hill and in the Chapel Hill Weekly.

IRC To Sponsor Sixth Post-War Forum Thursday

The International Relations club will present a slate of four faculty experts in its sixth forum on postwar planning problems Thursday at 3 p.m. in the main lounge of Graham Memorial, President Buddy Glenn announced.

On the much-debated subject "Will Dumbarton Oaks Prevent World War III?" the panel will be composed of Dr. C. B. Robson of the political science department; Dr. E. H. Newcomer, biology professor; Dr. J. B. Woosley, economist, and dean of the graduate school and political scientist Pearson. Dean of Administration R. B. House as mediator, will referee the verbal bout, expected to be explosive because of the wide diversity of opinion on the part of the forum participants.

The Dumbarton Oaks agreement, the only postwar blueprint for an international organization yet signed by the Allied powers, is expected to pass Congress with little difficulty.

Duplicate Tourney

The usual Wednesday night duplicate bridge tourney will be staged at 7:30 this week in the Roland Parker lounge of Graham Memorial. All bridge enthusiasts are invited to participate in the tourney.

Elections Set For Thursday Are Cancelled

Speaker Hunt States Reason

By Fred Flagler

The Tar Heel learned upon study of the elections bill, particularly the stipulated articles governing the election of representatives to the men's Honor Council, that there is a peculiar contradiction in the bill which had not been noticed, evidently, by any members of the legislature until after the election plans for a military replacement to the honor council had been scheduled.

The election which was scheduled for Thursday of this week has been cancelled, according to Doug Hunt, speaker of the legislature, who made the following statement upon being contacted by the Tar Heel on the matter:

"An unfortunate contradiction in the elections bill, passed by the Student Legislature before last November's elections and discovered only after nominations were filed with the elections committee, has made it necessary to clarify the law before elections can be held. Therefore, the elections scheduled for Thursday have been called off, pending action in the Thursday night session of the Legislature."

The bill is in a distorted state with the original bill reading one way and amendments another. The original bill states that "Replacement of a holdover member, shall be by an election within that group either military or civilian, affected by the vacation." What is more, Article 5 of the original bill was one of the few articles not affected by the amendments. In the amendment section under Article 3, however, there appears the following statement of procedure in electing representatives to the Honor Council: "The remaining six (6) vacancies shall be filled by election from and by the membership of the present Student Council in the following ratio: One Marine, one ROTC, one V-12 and three civilian males."

Only last week were the nominations submitted to Allan Pannill, acting head of the elections committee, for the election of a military representative at large to the Honor Council. Two V-12s and one Marine were slated to run for the post, but according to Hunt the whole election picture for this week has been cancelled until such time as the Legislature can correct the bill. According to Libba Wiggins of the Ways and Means Committee, the entire contradiction should be cleared up at the meeting Thursday and the election date set for some time next week.

Behind It All

This article is about the Publications Union Board. The purpose of this article is to show to the student body certain glaring faults in the policies of the board, and certain misapprehensions upon which is based the power of the board.

About 1923, the student body, after getting the authority from the trustees, voted to collect compulsory fees from every student. These fees include among others, the athletic fees and the publications fee. Since that time, and on the basis of that vote, every student at the University has been compelled, with or without his consent, to pay student fees. According to the constitution of the state, fees which are collected shall be limited to those which are directly connected to the attainment of an academic education. If one can say with any authority that the athletic fee is so directly connected, then there is no argument.

However, under the authority of the Board of trustees, the Publications Union Board was set up as the governing body of the Publications Union. Each fee-paying student belongs to this Union. The following is a quotation from the constitution of the PU Board, which actually is not worth a hoot, but which we will have to use as a basis of our argument:

The Board shall have the following duties and powers: . . . 3. To make all contracts. 4. To control the expenditure of all funds and to make an annual report to the Union (the students) of all financial transactions. . . . 6. In general, to promote effectively cooperation between the various publications and to save the University and the Union from the embarrassment due to ill-considered plans and badly-managed finances, through the exercise of general supervision over all student publications which now are or may be brought under the supervision of the Board."

The Board has been in existence, then, about 20 years. During that time, student fees have been collected by it through the cashier's office. See BEHIND IT ALL, page 4
