Student Council Votes To Limit Admission To Trial Sessions To Members Only

In a move to further the effectiveness of the Honor System on the Carolina campus the Student Council, meeting Tuesday night, decided to allow none but duly elected members of the Honor Council to sit in on trials of students for violations of the Honor System.

Bill Crisp, Vice-President of the Student Body, clarified the council's policy, stating that former members of the council have the privilege of the floor during meets concerned with policy making, orientation or administration, if they have been in attendance regularly. Crisp also stated that the Council has the right to invite any member of the Student Body or of the Faculty to give advice or suggestions to the Council if that body deems it advisable.

UNC Professor Gets National Racial Award

Sociologist Odum Selected From 55

According to an announcement made by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ of America, Dr. Howard Washington Odum has been chosen to receive the Edward L. Bernays award for outstanding achievement in negro-white relations.

The award, a $1,000 war bond, is being donated by Bernays, New York public relations counselor, through the council's department of race relations.

Dr. Odum was chosen from among 55 candidates because of his accomplishments in improving negro-white relations in the South, and for outstanding public services as an author, professor in southern universities, and a leader in organized movements.

Dr. Odum, who is well known here as head of the Department of Sociology, came to the University in 1920 at which time he organized the Department of Sociology and the School of Public Welfare. In 1922 he established "Social Forces," which has since become the official journal of the Southern Sociological Society. The Institute for Research in Social Science at the University was established by Dr. Odum in 1924.

His books and articles date back to 1909 and include not only research into the social and economic conditions surrounding negroes in this country and their relations to whites, but also studies in negro literary and musical fields. His latest book, "Race and Rumors of Race," was published in 1943.

Known throughout the country for his many works of social research, Dr. Odum is a member of several literary and sociological societies. He has held professorships at Emory and the University of Georgia, and since 1920 has been Kenan Professor for Research in Social Science at the University.

Renaissance Study Group To Convene At Carolina Inn

A meeting of all persons interested in the scholarship of the Renaissance will begin this morning at 10 o'clock in the Faculty club room of the Carolina Inn.

This session, which is a continuation of a similar meeting held at Duke University last year will deal with various aspects of the Renaissance. Subjects included on the program will include matters of interest in the Middle Ages, the Seventeenth Century, and in general scholarship.

The program for today is as follows:

Morning Session
10 a. m.—Faculty club room, Carolina Inn.

of the council have the privilege of the floor during meets concerned with policy making, orientation or administration, if they have been in attendance regularly. Crisp also stated that the Council has the right to invite any member of the Student Body or of the Faculty to give advice or suggestions to the Council if that body deems it advisable.

It was brought out that during the past one and a half years, due to the accelerated program, and the filling of vacancies by appointment, save only the President of the Student Body, the contact between the Student Council and the students on the campus has grown thinner and thinner. Therefore the Council decided to inform the Tar Heel of action taken on every case on which it sat, and to advise the Tar Heel of all matters of policy and administration formed by the Council. This policy will commence immediately.

Also, to facilitate greater efficiency in Council proceedings, form cards have been ordered on which students will register pertinent information about themselves at each registration period. Jean Rankin, President of the Women's Honor Council, stated that the Women's Government Association was in agreement with such a plan.

A wider and more complete program of orientation on the principles of the Honor System will be instituted soon.

Workshop Hopes To Create New Interest In Art

At a meeting of the Carolina Workshop Council Wednesday, January 24, members decided to inaugurate a more vigorous program of Workshop activities, which, according to the original prospectus, are designed "to integrate and promote student activity in various art fields in order to cultivate a better understanding of the value of creative arts."

Bob Kohl, president, opened the meeting with a history of the organization and left the floor open for a lively discussion of plans for the year. Suggestions included a mimeographed bulletin of all art news, series of open house affairs sponsored by the various departments to acquaint other students with their work, speaker programs, critics, and an original program using talent from all of the various art fields.

The council, which will meet again at 4 p. m. Wednesday, January 31 in the Horace Williams Lounge at Graham Memorial, consists of the following student representatives: Journalism, Ann Darrah; Fine Arts, Mary Barksdale, Mary McInnis; Dramatic Art, Martha Gillespie, Nick Lindsay; Music, Mary Stringfield, Emily Porter; Dance, Byrd Green; Radio, Betty Horwitz, Jean LeFebvre; Carolina Mag, Mike Beam; Sound and Fury, Betty Lou Cypert; Tar Heel, Elaine Pearlstone.

Faculty members who act in an advisory capacity only are Phillips Russell, Clemence Sommer, Kai Jurgensen, Earl Slocum, Ruth Van Collie, and Lucille Culbert.

Mary Hill Gaston Takes Bond Race Lead

Votes Pour In As Interest In Rally Rises

Plans Formulating For Final Dance

Mary Hill Gaston, sponsored by Kappa Alpha in the current "Miss Victory" bond-selling drive conducted by the War Coordination Board, stands in first place in the race for the title with a total of 21,233 votes.

Lou Hull, sponsored by Alderman, is in second place with 13,588 votes.

In third place is Nancy Kennickell, sponsored by CICA, with 11,763 votes. Coming up this week from eighteenth to fourth place is Winkie White, co-sponsored by Tri-Delta and ATO, with 6,713. Markie Parsons, sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha, goes from fourth to fifth place with 5,021 votes, and the mysterious "Miss X" of the Law School is sixth with 4,255 votes.

Through Wednesday of this week, when last count of votes and bond and stamp purchases was made, sales have totaled $8,250.25, over $5,000 above sales at this stage in last year's drive. "Foolish Nobody's James," the cardboard airplane hung in the Y, has received 35 per cent of its coloring, meaning over a third of the drive's $25,000 quota has been reached.

Kitty Kelly, chairman of the War Coordination Board sponsoring the drive, has announced that the method of signing up for bonds has been altered. Purchasers from now on are to fill out a green slip at the Y booth, tell the girl at the booth what size bond they intend to buy, and then fill out a vote slip. They take the green slip to the bank or post office, where they buy the bond and get the green slip, which is left there, officially stamped. The War Board collects these applications from the bank or post office, and matches them with the votes, and disqualifies any votes not properly authorized by bond slips.

A list of names of people whose votes have been so disqualified will be posted in the Y. For the benefit of those who have signed bond slips in the Y up until Wednesday, the 24th, they are given until next Wednesday, the 31st, to buy their bonds and have their votes properly authorized.

Moral: Buy your bond the day you sign for it in the Y.

Plans are progressing for the mammoth Victory Dance to be held Saturday night, February 17, in Woollen gymnasium. Freddie Johnson and his orchestra will play and all 26 coeds sponsored in the contest will take part in the figure. The winner will be crowned "Miss Victory," and the two runners-up will also be honored. A raffle of merchandise donated by Chapel Hill merchants will be conducted, highest bond bids taking the articles, and war stamp corsages will be sold. Faye Pushkin and Fran Cely are dance chairmen.

Lilienthal Laughs As Well As Talks Says Jonathan Daniels

By Gloria Caplan

David E. Lilienthal, TVA chieftain, who will speak here Tuesday night, "grins, wide and shrewd," Jonathan Daniels says, "and there is none of the wide-eyed staring of the Utopian in his eyes. He can laugh as well as talk."

"An American Development Program" will be the topic of Lilienthal's speech, which is scheduled for 8:30 p. m. Tuesday in Hill Hall.

Vigorous proponent of "grass-roots democracy," the speaker is the nation's leading authority on making democracy work in government enterprise, for the principles he has put into practice in the administration of the immense $750,000,000 TVA program serve as models for all other government undertakings.

The success of the TVA has been directly attributed to its chairman and his policy of cooperation with and education of the farmer, townsman, labor leader and businessman. He very vigorously denies that administrators are supermen and insists that "plans concocted by supermen and imposed upon the rest of the community for its own good" are doomed to failure.

Lilienthal has maintained a rigidly non-political administration. TVA has full control over its personnel, hiring and firing on a merit system, giving no civil service protection and permitting no political activity other than voting.

Much of his success has been the result of his own fighting spirit and his refusal to forsake a cause he knows to be right. For several years he was pitted in a struggle with Wendell L. Willkie, then president of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, a utility holding company. Negotiations ended in a TVA victory when in 1939, constituting the largest utility transaction in the history of the country, the entire Tennessee Electric Power company was purchased by the TVA and a group of 35 municipalities and cooperatives for $78,600,000.

Mr. Lilienthal set down the story of TVA's experience in "grass roots" See LILIENTHAL, page 4.

Fraternity Council Elects Three Men To Fill Vacancies

The Interfraternity Council elected officers to fill the vacancies which will be created at the end of this term when the vice-president, secretary and treasurer graduate.

The men elected to fill the gaps were Jim Burdin, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, vice-president; Dougald McMillan, Delta Psi, secretary; and Dick Adams, Phi Kappa Alpha, treasurer.

These new officers of the IFC will perform the regular duties of their office and in addition make up the executive council of the organization. President Bill McKenzie will appoint three additional men in the near future to serve on the executive council.

Wickenberg Decides To Continue Post As Tar Heel Editor

Charles Wickenberg, who stated in the last issue of the Tar Heel that he would resign, effective this issue, his post as editor of the Tar Heel, has retracted this statement and has planned to continue in his capacity as editor of the Tar Heel for the rest of the term at least.

Adjustments in Wickenberg's curriculum made it possible for him to continue, as he stated that this was the foremost reason for his resignation.

Wickenberg never actually resigned. He had planned to turn in his resignation to the Legislature which met Thursday night. He changed his mind, however, before last Thursday so the Legislature did not have to take action to fill the post which was supposed to be vacant after this issue.

Navy Recruiter Here

Chief F. O. Carver, Jr., of the Raleigh Navy Recruiting office will be in Dr. Perry's office at 207 South on Monday, January 29. Chief Carver will discuss the Radar and Air Crewmen Program in particular and in the Navy in general. All boys who are interested in any Navy programs are asked to make appointments with Dr. Perry's office to see the recruiter.

Seniors Elect Class Officers

In a mass meeting of the Senior class last Tuesday, officers of the next graduation class were elected with what was probably the smallest representation of the senior class in the history of the University.

Only seventeen votes were cast in the election and it is estimated that there are at least 110 students who will graduate from the University at the end of this term.

The officers that were elected were president, Charley Hackney; vice president, Bill McLain; Lois Cranford, secretary and treasurer; and Bob Shaw, Chairman of the invitation committee. Lois Cranford was unanimously selected to fill the post of secretary and treasurer.

Ed Gaither, chairman of the election committee, called for nominations for the class officers in a legislature meeting but since it brought no response the election committee with the suggestion of Dean Mackie called a mass meeting of the class.

Plan Change For Vet. Class To Two Hours

4-Fs Included In Proposal

A bill requesting that the Student Welfare board of the University recommend a group of proposals providing for not more than two hours of physical education a week for 4-F's and returned war veterans on campus was brought before the Student Legislature at the weekly meeting Thursday evening.

No discussion took place on this bill.

Libba Wiggins, Chairman of the Ways and Means committee, introduced the bill along with two other bills: one involving the approval of a budget for Student Council and Student Legislature for the fiscal year July 1, 1944, through June 30, 1945; and the other providing for funds ($5.00) to help construct a campus bulletin board, probably next to Ger-rard hall.

Proposed Budget

Speaker Doug Hunt took the floor to interpret the proposed budget, explaining the various appropriations. Discussion followed which will be continued next meeting when this bill as well as the other two bills will be voted upon by Legislature members.

A. B. Smith, speaking for Ed Gaither, Chairman of the Elections committee, read senior class officers, elected in a mass meeting of the class in Gerrard hall Tuesday. The Legislature voted to accept the officers. Difficulties encountered when nominating Marine candidates to the Honor Council will be investigated and brought before the next Legislature meeting.

Smith called attention to attendance rules which allow no more than two unexcused absences from Legislature meetings before the member is automatically dropped. Bruce Winslow, Naval ROTC, having already accumulated two unexcused absences, submitted his resignation because of increased academic work. Ed Twohey, another ROTC, was automatically dropped from the Legislature in view of his three unexcused absences. Two ROTC students to replace these members will be elected within 10 days according to provisions made in the Constitution.

Dr. Hart Lectures To Coed Conclave On Marriage

By Marjorie Jordan

The January Coed Hour, sponsored jointly by the Coed Senate and the YWCA, was held Thursday night at 7 o'clock in the Methodist Church auditorium.

Dr. Hornell Hart, professor of sociology at Duke University and author of "Chart for Happiness," spoke on "Men and Women in Wartime."

Dr. Hart began his talk by noting the changes caused by war, and predicting an unprecedented rise in the divorce rate in the next ten years. Many marriages which avoid the divorce courts will nevertheless end in unhappiness. He pointed out that wartime conditions are greatly increasing the percentage of women who will never marry, and who will attempt instead to achieve success in careers.

However, it is possible, Dr. Hart stated, for young people of today to make a success of marriage if they earnestly strive for the harmonious adjustment of their personalities. He pointed out that the better young people know one another before marriage, the greater is their chance for happiness.

Dr. Hart closed by advising the coeds to use their heads, their hearts, their personalities, and their charm in their attempts to maintain harmonious relations in their future homes.
