Southern Colleges To Send Student Delegates Here To Consider Problems Of April 25 Parley

University Party Takes Six Legislative Posts In April 5 Fight

Complete Ballot Score In Recent Voting Announced

By Dave Lillenthal

Making a clean sweep of the six civilian legislative posts, but losing five to three in the Student Council battle, the resurgent University Party sported outstanding success in the April 5 political melee.

The official release by Ed Gaither, chairman of the elections committee of the Student Legislature, credited the UP with 8 new seats in the Legislature against the three taken by the Student Party. In the Student Council, the SP seized the advantage, bringing in two Marines, two civilians, and a Navy V-12 man, while the University Party had only three victorious candidates, a Navy ROTC and two civilians.

Hitting on six victorious cylinders, the UP bandwagon firmly rolled up the civilian legislature ballot complete. The six UP victors were Art Adams, Margaret Burke, Warren Ficklen, Pat Kelly, Bob Koontz and Pete Pully, who piled up their margins of ballots at the expense of Student Party-ites Bob Gurney, Brandt Allen, Coline Smith, Bill McCarthy, Roy Thompson and Joe Butler. Independent Martha Taylor also went down in the whirlwind UP triumph.

V-12, Marine Legislature

But in Navy and Marine elections to the legislature, the Student Party came out with a three to two advantage. The three SP men were Ralph Dupes, V-12, Russ Wolfe, ROTC, and Marine Bill Walker. Aaron Jaffe, V-12, and Walt Brinkley, ROTC, entered the legislature on the UP ticket.

Two Marines, Wayne Brenengan and Chuck Heath, headed the list of Student Party men elected to the Honor Council. Ed Gunion and civilians Charles Fulton and Dave Sobel completed the SP majority of new men on the Council. Sobel, president of Steele Dorm, won the contest for the unexpired term of Wally Andrews, which runs out this fall.

Civilians Bill Walston and Jim Booth, and Bynum Hunter, ROTC, were brought to the bench by the University Party.

Defeated in the Honor Council struggle were Student Party candidates Tom Robinson, Herbert Weber and Bob Dodson, ROTC. UP men failing the elective test were Blain Gammon, V-12, Marines Jack Shaeffer and Wayne Blankenship, and civilians Ed Wiles and Bert Dillon.

Dorm Council Meets

Interdormitory Council President Tom Robinson announced that the Council would meet tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the basement of Alumni Building. The meeting is for the purpose of electing new officers.

State-Wide Drama Festival Features 27 New Productions

The twenty-seventh annual state-wide Drama Festival is slated to be staged by the Carolina Dramatic Association beginning Thursday night at 8 o'clock and lasting through Saturday night, announced head of the Dramatics department, Sam Selden.

Dr. Stace will introduce the religious element in his address, "The Moral Dynamics Essential to Peace." Stace is a member of the Princeton philosophy faculty.

James William Fulbright, Democrat of Arkansas, who conducted the Weil lecture series of Institute Friday, Saturday and Sunday night, stated that he thought the Dumbarton Oaks agreement would be approved in substance at the San Francisco conference this month.

Senator Fulbright

No government has tried seriously to provide for peace plans, Senator Fulbright said. He cited the League of Nations as the first conference to hit even lightly on this important phase of post-war planning. He mentioned the Congress of Vienna and the Holy Alliance as examples.

The staunch internationalist said that Dumbarton Oaks, Bretton Woods See FULBRIGHT, page 4.

New High School Here To Be Ready For Use Next Fall

Welcome news to Chapel Hill parents of high school children is the promise that the first unit of a new school building is to be erected in time for the opening of school next fall.

Ever since the high school building on the Pittsboro highway burned down in the Summer of 1942, secondary education in Chapel Hill has been seriously handicapped. In view of this critical situation the school board has decided to provide as much classroom space as can be had under the present restrictions.

The new structure, which will be erected on West Franklin street on property adjoining the elementary school, will be the west wing of the final and complete building. Its separate construction will add somewhat to the cost of the whole building but this is justified by the urgent need.

This new building will cost between $70,000 and $80,000 and will provide fifteen classrooms.

Editor Calls Meeting Of Old, New TH Staff

A meeting of all members of the Tar Heel staff, both old and new, will be held in the Tar Heel office Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, announced newly-elected Editor Bob Morrison.

Positions in all departments of the staff are now open to students on the campus who have had experience in newspaper work or students who have had no experience but would like to work on the publication. A number of positions must be filled on the paper so that the Tar Heel can serve the campus as it should. Among these positions are reporters, desk men, rewrite men, associate editors, columnists, feature writers, copy readers and business staff members.

These positions must be filled immediately so that the Tar Heel can get in shape for the new year.

Senate To Discuss Election's Fallacies

Post-election gripes, complaints, and remedies for the future will be given opportunity to be voiced tomorrow night when the Dialectic Senate convenes. The floor will be thrown open to discussion on the question, Resolved: That campus politics is a waste of time.

Before the big battle of words gets in full swing, the senators will meet in secret executive session at 8 o'clock. The regular session to which visitors are invited will begin at 9 o'clock on third floor New West.

Bridge Tourney

Mrs. Van, director of Graham Memorial, has announced that the regular bridge tournament will be held tomorrow night at 7:30. Beginning April 19, these tournaments will be held on Thursday.

Representatives Will Send Two To San Francisco Conference

50 Messages Wired To Selected Institutions Throughout South From Virginia To Oklahoma

By Mary Hill Gaston

Student representatives from fifty colleges and universities in 13 Southern states will convene here next Sunday, April 15, to consider the problems facing the coming San Francisco conference of the United Nations and to coordinate a plan for study on their respective campuses of Bretton Woods, Dumbarton Oaks and other plans related to world peace organization.

Conference members will elect two delegates to attend the San Francisco meeting as observers and representatives. These delegates will report to Southern colleges through their campus newspapers in order to give Southern students as a whole a sense of participation in the deliberations.

Inspired by the Institute of Human Relations coming to a close here tonight after an eight day session, and particularly by J. W. Fulbright, junior senator from Arkansas, one of the Institute speakers, the idea for the coming conference grew out of discussions on effective student action between Institute guest leaders and University students.

Concerning the projected Chapel Hill meeting, Senator Fulbright stated in his concluding Weil lecture Sunday night that only through the full participation of students and young people throughout the nation would the stimulus for continuous solution to the daily small problems involved in the peace, as well as the outstanding issues of San Francisco, Bretton Woods and Dumbarton Oaks, be possible. He further stated that San Francisco would not in itself win the peace or guarantee America's participation in world organization.

The conclusion that students must participate directly in the resolution of the problems of peace came out of a luncheon meeting Saturday when students and University guests grappled with the problem of the place of democracy at the peace table. Spurred by the realization of the necessity for immediate, concrete action by Southern students, the meeting broke up into small groups who spent the afternoon discussing ways of implementing the moral force of Southern students.

Representatives from these groups met late Saturday afternoon to formulate definite plans for the conference of Southern colleges now seen to be necessary. It was decided to present a general plan to the Council for Religion in Life at its supper session.

The council discussed and specified the plan submitted to it and voted unanimously to endorse and support the conference, the temporary name of which is the Conference of Southern Students on the San Francisco United Nations Meeting.

A temporary committee was appointed to draw up a telegram to be sent immediately to 50 selected colleges throughout the South, from Virginia to Oklahoma. Meeting Sunday the committee sent follow-up letters signed by President Frank P. Graham to the previously invited colleges and universities.

Appointed temporary chairman of the projected conference is Buddy Glenn. Jean Buchanan has been named secretary and Mary Lib Barwick treasurer of the organization. Chairman of the publicity committee is Bob Morrison, and serving with him will be Olive Ann Burns and Fred Flagler.

Heading the program committee is Garland Worsley. Members See REPRESENTATIVES, page 4.

UNC Has Former Equestrian In New Student Body Prexy

By Bobbie Wyatt

Before Bill McKenzie entered college he spent most of his time riding and hunting, but since he has been at Carolina he has not found time for his sports. Bill used to own a horse which he rode almost constantly. The only accident he ever had of note was being thrown from a neighbor's wild pony which he rode bareback on a dare. At Carolina, McKenzie is on the varsity track team. He remembers that the most exciting meet was at Annapolis when the Academy had a field-day with 29 competing teams. Although Carolina's men didn't win any events, he says he got the biggest kick out of the experience.

At Virginia Episcopal School in Lynchburg he was on the staff of the school paper as well as on the football and track teams. He graduated from Episcopal in 1941 and came to Carolina that fall.

He was elected to the Freshman Honor Council. Bill has distinguished himself at Carolina as President of the Interfraternity Council, Chairman of the House Privileges Board, President of the German Club and May Frolics, and as a member of the Grail. See EQUESTRIAN, page 4.
