Bob (Marine Captain) Barnett helped Duke beat Carolina twice in three attempts back in '39, '40, and '41, but the lanky veteran of numerous Pacific campaigns has a lot of Tar Heel friends now—that is even more than before—after spending a few weeks lecturing the local NROTC cadets on their chances for Marine corps commissions upon completion of the naval program.

Captain Barnett, who entered the service just after graduating from Duke in May of 1942, saw duty in New Zealand and Guadalcanal and was in the campaigns at Bougainville, Guam and Iwo Jima before returning to the states this past May. In all he spent 28 months overseas, winning a personal citation from Admiral Halsey for air spotting work done prior to the Bougainville battle.

After he completes a similar lecture tour of duty at Duke during the next three weeks, Captain Barnett said he would be eligible for reassignment, which would more than likely mean additional duty in the Pacific.

The big former footballer for Duke played three varsity seasons for Coach Wallace Wade, breaking into the starting lineup midway his sophomore year and keeping the post till his graduation in 1942. Captain Barnett was captain and center of the squad in 1941 and played with the Blue Devils in the 1942 transplanted Rose Bowl in Durham, which the Devils lost, 20-16, to Oregon State.

"I always did have a soft spot in my heart for Carolina," Captain Barnett said as he explained that he enjoyed his short tour of duty here even though it was Carolina. He went on to say that he expected to enter law school as soon as he got out of the Marine corps, but that he was not sure whether he would return to Duke or not. He is married and was living in Wilmington, Del., home of his wife, a former Duke coed, prior to entering the service. . . . It was good to attend the Captain's lectures, and we are sure he has oodles of Tar Heel friends, even though he did have a direct

The Phi Gams pulled an upset against the Navy staff softball team last Monday, turning back the top-flight crew of officers and staff enlisted personnel, 9-0. Jack Hussey, end on the Carolina football team for two years and now a Marine lieutenant, is in the hospital recovering from battle fatigue. The staunch football product of High Point was in the fight for Iwo Jima. . . . Coach Dale Ranson has begun the task of building a cross country team for this season. He has some few veterans from last year in addition to several men from the spring track team. The locals have a good slate, and from all indications they should turn up with a pretty good club.

Coach Snavelly has been working his combined football squad hard this week as the summer drills continue to gain in intensity. They are still basically in fundamental work, although plays are being run every day. Light scrimmages are expected to become regular any week now. . . . There are some pretty big boys out there working out, and if they turn out as good as we expect, Carolina should have a team that will be no pushover—for any of our opponents. Coach Snavelly has good assistants in Russ Murphy, Max Reed, Charley Jamerson and Stretch Howell, and judging from past performances, this combination will not be represented by any club that isn't at least fair. . . . The present season opener is slated to be with Georgia Tech, but there is a chance a game may be carded the preceding week. Nothing definite yet.

Phi Gams Lead League A With Perfect Mark

Delta Sigs Rest On Top Of B Loop

The Intramural softball leagues really moved into action in this, the second week of tournament competition, as the St. Swithen's Day prophecy of forty days of continuous rain failed to be fulfilled.

In League A, the Phi Gams took an impressive lead by winning two more shut outs and consequently winding up this week's play with a "3 won and none lost record." In the first of these tilts, Dorsett, Staff twirler, held the winners to three hits, but five Staff errors spelled the margin of victory, as Phi Gam scored a 9-0 win. Bob Bencini, Phi Gam right fielder, connected for a round tripper in his last trip to the plate, to lead the offensive for the winners. In their second victory of the week, the Phi Gam's sneaked through to a 2-0 win over the Class I NROTC ten in one of the tightest games of tournament competition. The only score of the game occurred in the top of the third when the Phi Gams shoved across the two markers which cinched the contest. Ted Haigler, winning pitcher, chunked a beautiful game, holding the opposition to only a couple of hits.

Previous to this defeat, Class I had showed up very well, copping a contest Monday by a 13-0 count. Martin and Fontineau, with two hits apiece, were the big offensive guns for the winners, as Gallagher, RO hurler, held the opposition to only two singles.

In the only other game played in League A this past week, Sigma Chi turned in an impressive 21-2 performance in whipping Kappa Alpha. Borden, Sigma Chi pitcher, stopped the opposition cold in allowing only three hits, while his teammates were collecting fourteen. Fisher, the winner's left fielder, led the offensive attack with two circuit blows.

In League B, it was the Delta Sigs who threatened to run away with the title, as the week's end found them resting snugly in top position with a record of three and nothing. In a free for all contest, the league leaders finally emerged on top of a 16-11 count. The victors won out the hard way, overcoming a 4-0 deficit to pocket the victory. A six run fourth inning sewed up the contest for the Delta Sigs. Their second victory of the week was obtained the easy way, as Zeta Psi forfeited their contest.

Hard on the heels of the Delta Sig's was the snappy looking outfit representing Phi Delta Theta, who, at week's end, boasted a 2-0 record. One of these was also obtained by the forfeit route, but the second was a well earned victory over the strong Smith aggregation by a 5-3 count. With Smith leading at the end of four innings, the Phi Delt's put on a three run outburst in the fifth to cinch the win. This was the only defeat suffered by Smith, as they have come through so far with twice that many wins. In Monday's contest, Smith played exceptional ball in copping a 17-4 win from the Beta crew. Fahey, the winning pitcher, racked up fourteen strikeouts, allowed only five hits, and, as if this were not enough, he connected for a double and homer in three official trips to the plate.

League C saw only one contest this week as Two Brews came through to avenge a previous 6-4 defeat at the hands of the Med School by taking Steele into camp by a 3-1 margin. Hyder, the winning pitcher, allowed only three hits while his teammates exceeded this total by one solid single.

The Ringers and the Leathernecks were tied for top honors in League D, both with two wins and no losses. The Leathernecks, however, have gotten their wins by way of the forfeit route, while the Ringers looked impressive in chalking up victories over SAE and Kappa Sig, by the scores of 6-5 and 9-4 respectively. In the former game, SAE took a 3-1 lead, but could not hold it as the winners scored five runs in the fourth inning to take the tilt. In the latter game, the Ringers scored eight runs in the second, then staved off a vain attempt by the losers to bridge the gap as they put on a three run spurt.

In the only other game in League D, SAE swamped Kappa Sig by a 21-8 count. The losers took an early 4-3

Line Coach Max Reed Lover Of Football, Golf

By Hardinge Menzies

Max Reed, the Tar Heel's line-coach, is a pro football player who has been Carl Snavelly's coaching partner for the past sixteen years. He's had as much football experience as any coach could hope to have and he's all set to produce a grade A team this coming season.

Coach Reed was born in Louisburg, Pennsylvania and received his education in his own home town at Bucknell University. After graduation he coached high school football for a while and then decided he would turn to professional ball. His first try at pro ball was with the Pottsville Maroons, and later with the Frankford Yellow Jackets. While with the "Jackets," that team had the honor of winning the National Championship. This was in 1926. Later on, '28 to be exact, Max played more pro ball for the New York Giants and then for the Buffalo All-Americans. During his football-playing days Reed played the position of center with all the teams.

In 1929, when our line-coach accepted an offer to coach ball at his old alma mater, Bucknell, he was to begin a long and successful friendship with U.N.C.'s present head-man, Carl Snavelly. Snavelly had been coaching ball at Bucknell two years before Reed had accepted the offer and he has been Snavelly's line-coach ever since. From '29 until '34 the school witnessed this double-dose of football strategy and in '34 both partners made way for Chapel Hill and coached ball here during the seasons of '34 and '35.

When Snavelly accepted a position at Cornell—his line-coach went right along with him and the two coached at that great school for nine years. Now that Reed and Snavelly are back again—Carolina feels certain of having a promising team this fall.

Reed is only human and when asked about Carolina, he just grinned and replied that he had "always liked Chapel Hill. It has such a good climate." Aside from his coaching responsibilities he finds time to study football plays and teach several classes in physical education. Of course there is never a dull moment down in the offices at Woollen—and the daily schedule of Max Reed is no exception.

When asked about hobbies and so on, Max was quick to lighten up on the word golf and said "the whole outfit plays golf at every chance we can get." Golf, as you can see, seems to be the "other love" of the majority of football coaches.

No one can deny that this pro from Pennsylvania who coaches the line is sure fire as a football coach when paired with his old 'partner' Snavelly.

Twining Heads List Of Local Swimmers Out

Illness Darkens Carolina Chances

By Frank Miller

The Tar Heel tank team, minus the services of several of its best swimmers, will enter the North and South Carolina AAU championships at High Point today.

Dick Twining, newly crowned National Junior medley champion is in the infirmary, and Snooky Proctor, the defending champion in the 150 and 80 meters is also out due to illness. Ben Ward, the other co-captain, has been able to get in the pool only one day this week because of an infected ear.

Entries

Coach Willis Casey has announced that he will enter Mike Morrow, Jack Zimmerman, John Lord, Bo Jenkins, and Ira Abahmson in the meet. The loss of these key men, however, will make the locals the second choice in the team race. Camp Lejeune, with two National champions on the squad, will be the favorites, with Carolina and Cherry Point favored to fight it out for the second spot.

This will be an entirely new situation for the Blue Dolphins who are the defending champions and have lost only one meet in the past five years.

Brighter

Things are looking brighter for the girl tanksters, however. Frances Kenney, Randy Hudson and Ethel Laughlin have been working out for the Women's National Junior Medley relay all week and are rated along with the Goldsboro team as co-favorites. These three girls will also enter several of the Carolina AAU events.

Casey announced that if Ward is able to swim he will probably compete in the Men's National Junior 50-meter free style.

Handicap

The Dolphins will be greatly handicapped with the loss of Twining, who pulled down the individual scoring laurels at Tarboro last week. Twining captured the 300-meter individual medley, setting a new record of 4:13.1, just 1.3 seconds short of the pace by Adolph Kiefer. In the 200-meter free style event Ben Ward, co-captain of the 1945 squad, smashed a new record. Ward then dashed up to the distance division and downed Paul Maloney, former National champion from Buffalo, N. Y., and University of Michigan. Carolina's Dick Morrow placed third in this race.

Carolina's girl entries turned in fine performances with Frances Kinney the runnerup for the National AAU Junior women's 400-meter free style championship. She then lost a close decision to Jane Cook, former Philadelphia star and now in the Marines at Cherry Point.

There will be a meeting of the Tar Heel sports staff Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in the TH office in Graham Memorial.

Monogram Club Will Meet Tuesday Night

The Monogram club had the first meeting of this term Thursday night, at which time the new members were welcomed and plans for the forthcoming session were discussed.

Plans for parties and club projects were talked of, and a desire to get into action this summer was voiced by all members. There will be another meeting of the club at Gerrard hall next Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock, and all members are urged to attend as important business will be discussed.

New members include Ted Hazelwood, John Lineweaver, Gerald Begnaud, Zeke Zientek, George Thompson, Chuck Hayne, Al Chappel, Jack Hester, Ted Haigler, Moon Mullen, Red Hughes, Duke Wilder, Bob Fahey and Log Whaley.

Cross Country Team Begins Practice; 16 Boys Report

Carolina's cross country team officially opened 1945 practice Thursday as some 16 boys reported to Coach Dale Ranson for initial workouts. The drills are expected to last until about the middle of September when the first meet will be held.

Included among those reporting are 15 Navy men and one civilian, and all but one have either been out for cross country before or worked with the spring track squad. However, most of the boys are still on the green side as far as cross country is concerned, and no early predictions can be made on the basis of the track experience on hand.

According to Coach Ranson, the hill-and-dale lads are working out six days a week, and something like time trials are slated for every two weeks in order to keep a close check on the progress of the candidates. Only 15 Navy men can be on the roster, and because of this, there will be a maximum of competition all year. There are also some men working out regularly who are not included on the roster, and these boys will be given a chance to participate in the trials every two weeks and in that way win a berth on the squad.

A schedule of six meets is already arranged, and others with service teams of this vicinity are anticipated.

Pre-Flight Grid Team Cards Games With Both Army, Navy

A nine-game grid schedule for the Navy Pre-Flight Cloudbusters, featuring tilts with the Military Academy at West Point and with the Naval Academy at Annapolis, has been announced by Lt. Comdr. Herman E. Smith, Pre-Flight athletic director.

The Cloudbusters, who rated high among service teams of the nation last year, will play four of the games at home, all of them on Sunday.

Changes over last year's schedule include the addition of Army, William and Mary, Camp Lejeune, and Wake Forest, and the dropping of Duke, Virginia, and Bainbridge.

The complete Cloudbuster schedule follows:

Sept. 23—Georgia Pre-Flight at Athens, Ga.

Sept. 30—Cherry Point Marines at Chapel Hill.

Oct. 6—William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va.

Oct. 14—Camp Lejeune at Chapel Hill.

Oct. 20—U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

Oct. 28—Camp Peary at Chapel Hill.

Nov. 3—Wake Forest at Wake Forest, N. C.

Nov. 11—Jacksonville Naval Air Station at Chapel Hill.

Nov. 17—U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

The official practice at Pre-Flight has not begun yet, but drills are expected to get underway soon. Nothing is known about the strength of the Cloudbusters this season, but judging from past records, they should turn up with a fairly potent eleven.

A five-man coaching staff, headed by Lt. Comdr. Paul H. Bryant, will have charge of the Cloudbuster team this fall, it was also announced.

The assistant coaches, who will work with the varsity team on a collateral duty basis, are Lieut. Carney G. Laslie, line coach, Lieut. John F. Druze, end coach, Lieut. Frank C. Albert, backfield coach, and Lt. (jg) Ray R. Bray, in charge of the guards.

Lt. Comdr. Bryant succeeds Lt. Comdr. Glenn Killinger, head coach of the 1944 eleven, who was detached from here some months ago. A star end on Alabama's great Rose Bowl team of 1934, Coach Bryant last fall served as line coach of the Cloudbuster team. He was assistant coach at Alabama and later at Vanderbilt, before entering the Navy in the spring of 1942. He reported to Chapel Hill a year ago, after 15 months of sea duty in the Atlantic theater.

Tennis Tournament Will Begin Tuesday

The summer intramural tennis tournament will be started Tuesday, July 31, it has been announced by Walt James, mural director here at Carolina. The first rounds of both men's and women's singles will be run off by August 2.

According to James, it will be up to the individual contestant to contact his opponent, play the match and report the outcome to the intramural department in Woollen gym. A list of entries and their telephone numbers, along with the pairings for the tournament is posted on the bulletin board on the varsity courts, which are just east of the clay courts.

CLASSIFIED

LOST—Hendersonville High School ring, class of '43, initials R. P. M. inside. An abundant treasure awaits he who returns it to Dick P. Mottisman, care of Tar Heel Office.
